LACK OF WATER PERILS ITALIAN ARMY IN AFRICA

Hundreds Reported Dying of Thirst.

Will Barber, assistant correspondent for The Chicago Tribune in London, was sent to Africa to report events in the Italian-Ethiopian dispute.

BY WILL BARBER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Africa, June 20.—A severe shortage of drinking water is endangering the lives of thousands of Italian soldiers who are totally unaccustomed to the torrid heat of the Red sea and Indian ocean. This shortage is greatly impeding Italy's preparations for war against Ethiopia.

The lack of suitable drinking water at the port of Massaua on the Red sea and at Mogadishu, the heat baked port of Italian Somaliland on the Indian ocean, is so acute that Italy is obliged to buy water at Aden and Port Said at the northern and southern extremes of the Red sea and at Port Sudan, the British military station which controls the Red sea by reason of its situation half way up the coast.

Ferries Carry Water.

The precious water must be ferried from Aden, Port Sudan, and Port Said to Massaua, where many thousands of Italians are encamped in tents or huts under the merciless sun. Water is also brought from Aden, across the Gulf of Aden, down the Indian ocean to Mogadishu.

This information, which comes from well informed American and British sources, is supplemented by word brought in by Somali natives to Djibouti, who today said that the use of drinking water by inhabitants of Massaua has been restricted to a single hour a day. The imported water apparently is intended only for soldiers and workers.

With the temperature well over 100 degrees at both Massaua and Mogadishu, Italian soldiers are suffering tremendous privations. Down in this part of the world they cannot even get enough water to drink. In the meantime they are compelled by the Fascist dreams of conquest to toil at road building, unloading ships and trains, shoving cannons through the sand, and drilling beneath the burning rays of the sun.

20th Century Napoleon.

Premier Mussolini, of course, is comfortably ensconced in his luxurious Palazzo Venezia in Rome, half an hour's drive from the cozy beach at Ostia. He only has the blindingly white monument of King Victor Emmanuel opposite his windows and the dwindling treasury down the road to disturb his dreams of being the 20th century's Napoleon.

Two examples of the terrific heat indicate the hardships confronting the Italians. THE TRIBUNE correspondent took a number of photographs coming down the Red sea, but he has none—the gelatin of the films melted to nothing because they were not kept on ice.

The other example is a standing joke up and down this coast—the tin palm tree the first governor of French Somaliland is supposed to have stuck up at the government's expense to replace the lack of greenery. The French are supposed to have added a new coat of paint each year until after many years the tin palm tree took root. It's a poor joke, maybe, but it might be true, as only a few trees and no grass at all grow here plus a little pink laurel with sickly leaves. But there is enough of that to make a single wreath for Mussolini's brow.

Claim Troops Die of Thirst.

Since the Italians refuse to permit newspaper men to see what is going on in their colonies, reports of disease among the troops may be exaggerated. Nevertheless, the lack of water, it is said here, is taking a heavy toll. The natives, passing on the word from tribe to tribe, declare 100 Italians are dying daily. Europeans who know the natives' habit of exaggeration say you can knock off 70 per cent, but that still leaves 30 victims a day. It is impossible to confirm either figure, but the number of 30 deaths a day is put forward as a fair estimate by a man who has no reason to injure the Italians.

While the Italians are facing tremendous risks and heavy hardships, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, secure in his mountain fastness, is doing his utmost to rally to his cause the inhabitants of his Somali provinces which are located next to the Italian, British and French Somalilands. The Italians, of course, hope to win some of the Somalis to their side, but the African emperor has launched a propaganda campaign to convince the tribesmen, who ordinarily are treated as stepchildren of the Ethi-

RADICALS PUSH FOR PASSAGE OF ROOSEVELT TAX

Leaders in Congress Say 'No Hurry.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's radical taxes on incomes and inheritances to redistribute wealth will not be enacted by this session of congress unless he or radicals in the senate force action, inquiry disclosed today.

Congressional leaders and White House aids were unanimous in saying they understand that the President will not insist upon action before the next session of congress beginning in January. Mr. Roosevelt himself, however, is still uncommitted on the date he wishes his radical "share-the-wealth" scheme to take effect.

La Follette to Push Action.

Radicals in the senate, led by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], however, will seek to tack the drastic new system of inheritance and corporate and private income taxes onto the pending administration bill which extends 500 million dollars in nuisance taxes. Success for their drive appears to be the only chance the radical new suggestion from the White House has of becoming law before next year.

Senator La Follette served notice that he will try to drive through the new heavy taxes at once when the senate finance committee today reported out the joint resolution continuing the nuisance taxes. La Follette at first attempted to push through the new program in the finance committee, but failed when Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman, said that the "sentiment" of the committee was that the nuisance tax bill should not be loaded down with new questions.

See No Need for Hurry.

Echoing Senator Harrison's view, other congressional leaders said they thought the President was in no hurry about instituting inheritance taxes and increasing corporation and individual income taxes. Speaker Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] of the house of representatives said he did not consider the tax program "must" legislation for this session. Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, expressed a similar view.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. refused to discuss the President's tax suggestions except to say that the treasury had worked out the desired rates of taxation and the probable revenue yields under them. This information Morgenthau said would be kept secret until requested by a committee of congress.

Extend Nuisance Taxes a Year.

The senate finance committee, without a record vote, reported out favorably the house bill extending the 500 million dollar nuisance tax act for one year, instead of two years as provided by the house.

Senator Harrison explained the committee decided upon a one year extension in the hope that business recovery in the next year would be sufficient to discontinue the miscellaneous taxes. Also, it was the belief of the committee members that the nuisance taxes would not be needed after another year if the President's tax program were adopted at the next session.

Senator La Follette urged the adoption of an amendment incorporating the President's proposals, but he was dissuaded from asking a vote on this proposition. Senator Harrison said it was the sentiment of the committee that the nuisance tax measure should not be jeopardized by tying it up with a vast revenue program such as the President proposes. The miscellaneous taxes expire on June 30.

Will Take Action on Floor.

La Follette, however, served notice upon the committee members that he would press for the adoption of an amendment to the extension bill upon the floor of the senate incorporating the President's program. La Follette has a tentative schedule of tax increases calling for higher individual incomes and lower exemptions, drastic inheritance taxes and graduated corporation taxes, which he estimates would bring in an additional billion dollars of revenue.

Senator Harrison said he did not believe there would be any difficulty in putting the joint resolution extending the nuisance taxes through the senate, but La Follette's amendment, if pressed, would undoubtedly occasion a fight. He would be supported by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], who is now resting in a Detroit hospital, as well as other radical Republicans and some of the New Deal Democrats.

Harrison said the President himself

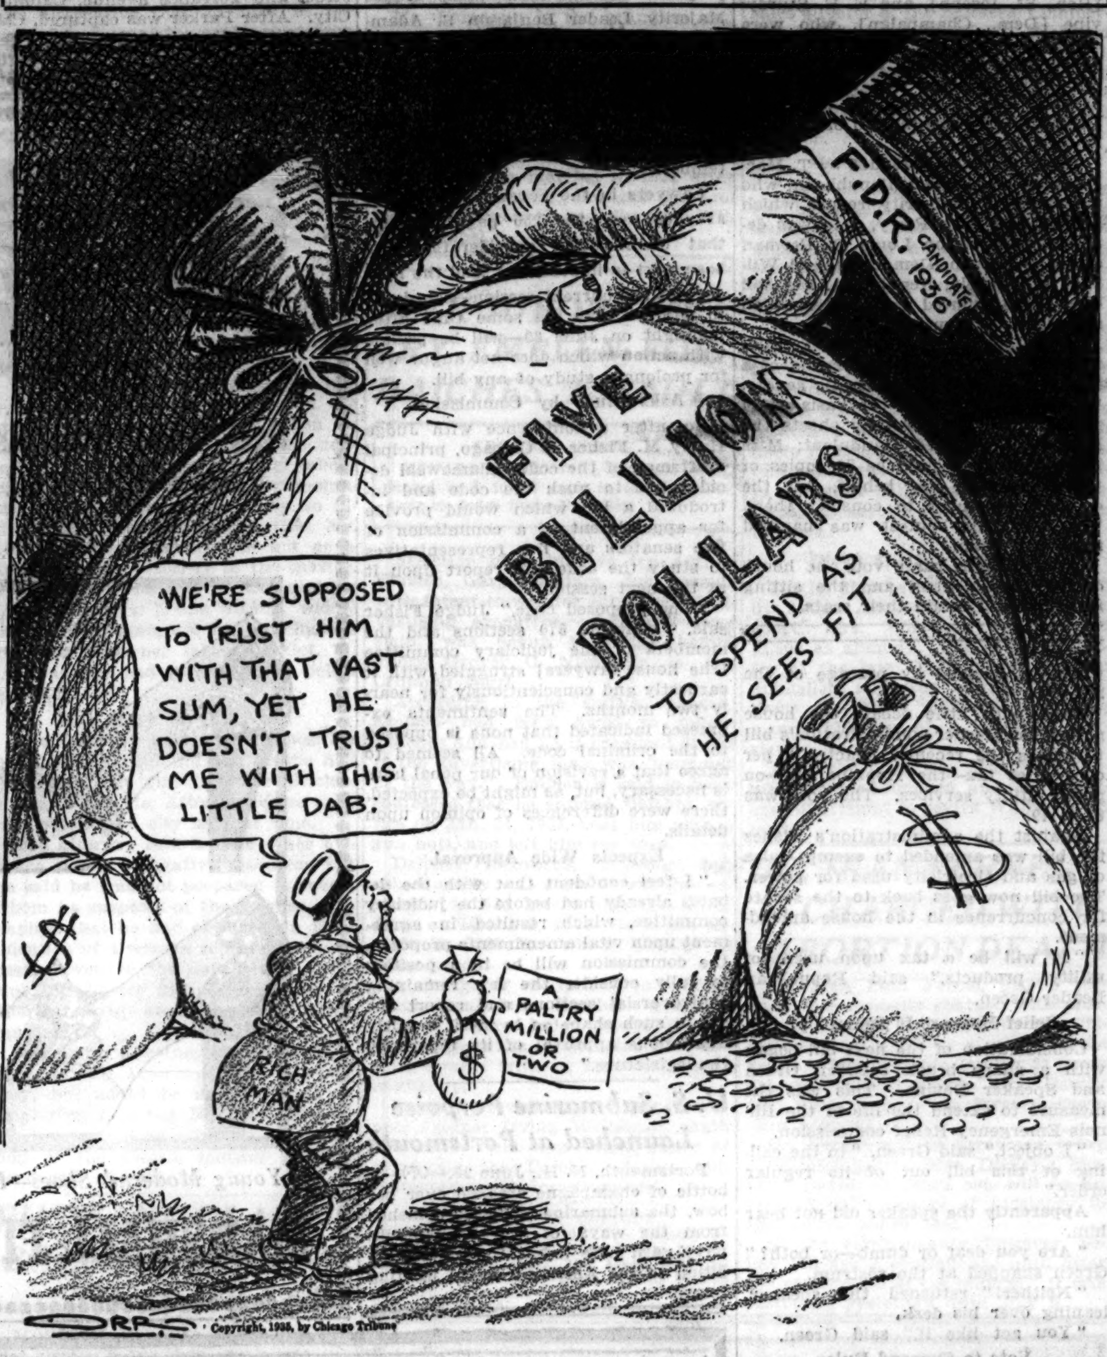
AMONG THOSE WHO CONTROL GREAT WEALTH



Court's Ruling on Hauptmann Plea Reserved

Trenton, N. J., June 20.—(AP)—Fourteen judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals tonight held the life of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, condemned slayer of the Lindbergh baby, in their hands.

For four hours and a half today they listened to defense pleas for a new trial and the reply of the state that testimony at the Flemington trial "was overwhelming and unanswerable."

The defense charged Hauptmann's constitutional rights were violated by a "last minute theory" of the state as to how the child died, challenged the jurisdiction of the trial court and criticized both Attorney General David T. Wilentz and Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, presiding judge.

Ruling Due in Fall.

The customary announcement that decision was reserved was made at the close of the hearing. The judges will study the trial record and briefs and will render a decision some time in the fall, probably October.

If his conviction is upheld Hauptmann will still have recourse to the Court of Pardons, a mercy court, and then to the Supreme court of the United States.

Hauptmann's attorneys, Egbert Rosecrans and Frederick Pope, were closely questioned by the court.

Pope contended that if the ransom money were left out of the case "there wouldn't be enough evidence left to convict a well known thief of petty larceny."

Still "Sufficient Evidence."

"If we took the money and the ladder out of this case there would still be sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction," Wilentz replied.

There was no evidence of a "breaking and entering" of the Lindbergh house, Pope argued.

"If this be true the whole house of cards built up by the state falls and the verdict cannot stand," he said.

The state contended at the trial that Hauptmann committed a burglary and that the death of the baby occurred during the commission of a felony, making it a first degree murder case.

Pope argued there was a complete absence of finger prints, that there were no signs that the window had been jimmied, and nothing to show the window had been opened at all. The state's case laid emphasis on the muddy footprint found on a suitcase just under the window sill.

Charges "Inside Job."

"Every bit of physical evidence, every permissible inference, every last minute circumstance, points unmistakably to the fact that if the baby went out of the window it was lifted from its crib by friendly hands, and handed out the window to the man on the ladder, if he was there at all to receive it."

"It was sheer nonsense," Rosecrans said, "a cock and bull story, to think that any one would enter a house at night to steal a diaper or a sleeping garment."

"It was productive of $50,000 wasn't it?" Justice Joseph L. Bodine remarked.

Hunt Sweitzer to Arrest Him on Indictment

Robert M. Sweitzer, ousted county treasurer, was a technical fugitive from justice last night following the return by the grand jury of an indictment charging him with withholding public funds. The indictment set the amount of his defalcation at "much exceeding $414,129," which it charges he failed to turn over to his successor, Michael J. Flynn, when he left the office of county clerk last December, after holding it for 24 years.

After the return of the indictment, Deputy Sherif Peter Agriostathes was given a capias for the arrest of Sweitzer, and he went to the Sweitzer home at 3522 Jackson boulevard. Not finding the former treasurer there, the deputy departed. Members of Sweitzer's family said they expected him home during the evening, but elsewhere it was learned that he had made arrangements to spend the night away from home.

Promises His Surrender Today.

I. Harvey Levinson, Sweitzer's attorney, said, however, that his client will surrender this morning and post the $10,000 bond set in the indictment. He expressed surprise that any attempt had been made to arrest Sweitzer, saying that he had called the state's attorney's office after the return of the indictment and he had been assured that surrender today would be satisfactory.

A surety bond has already been arranged, Attorney Levinson said, but it was impossible to post it yesterday afternoon because the surety company agent had been called to a hospital by illness in his family.

Sweitzer was indicted under section 460 of the Illinois criminal code, which provides a penalty of one to ten years' imprisonment for a former public official found guilty of withholding funds from his successor. The provisions of the statute are broad, covering not only strictly governmental funds but trust funds which the official holds by virtue of his office.

Shortage in Trust Fund.

This is important in the Sweitzer case, since Sweitzer's shortage was in the tax redemption fund, which he held in trust, and which he frequently asserted he had a right "to carry around in my vest pocket." Since the essence of the crime charged is failure to deliver funds to a successor, prosecutors expect no trouble with the statute of limitations which might arise from Sweitzer's long tenure of office.

The grand jurors, led by their foreman, John Bremner, biscuit manufacturer, appeared at 2 o'clock in the afternoon before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court. Judge Sullivan instructed his clerk to set the case for arraignment today.

Reveals Lindy as Biologist; Builds 'Heart'

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today was revealed in a new rôle, that of research biologist. The revelation was the result of an achievement as startling in the realm of pure science as was that of his flight to Paris eight years ago in the field of aviation.

Rockefeller institute announced today that Col. Lindbergh has developed an artificial heart and lungs that make possible the revival and growth of entire human organs outside the body. This means that a heart or a kidney, for instance, can be taken out of a body, connected to the device, and kept alive, growing, and operating entirely independently of the human system for any desired length of time. In 26 separate experiments organs have been "transplanted" in this fashion and their resurrection, growth, and operation studied by scientists.

Opens New Disease Study.

The advantages of such a scientific development are immediately apparent even to the layman. It makes possible the manufacture outside of the body of the hormones of the ductless glands, themselves only slightly plumbed by science. It makes possible the isolation of the substances that make the glands grow and function; the discovery of the laws that govern the association of organs, the "coöperation" between parts of the body that has long been a mystery; the production and treatment, outside the body where they can't cause pain and death, of all sorts of organic and circulatory diseases, such as heart ailments, kidney disorders, hardening of the arteries, tuberculosis, diabetes. It is hoped that even cancer can now be made to start and grow outside the body, where it can be watched and where it may be learned what it is and how it can be controled.

Works with Nobel Winner.

Lindbergh's achievements in biology came to light through the publication of an article in Science, official organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, largest body of its kind in the United States. The article was signed by Col. Lindbergh and Dr. Alexis Carrel, Nobel prize winner for his development of methods of simple tissue culture, which have enabled him to preserve life in part of a heart taken in 1912 from an embryo chick.

It was Dr. Carrel who revealed that Lindbergh turned to the Rockefeller institute laboratories just before his son, Charles Jr., was kidnaped and slain. A few weeks after the body was found he returned and buried himself in work. Dr. Carrel describes Lindbergh as a brilliant student in the field of biology and says that his talents haven't heretofore been even suspected by the public. He is now Dr. Carrel's "best assistant," the scientist asserts.

"The name he will leave in that science will be as illustrious as in aviation," Dr. Carrel declares.

Notable Work 4 Years Ago.

Lindbergh's first achievement in his latest field of endeavor was made four years ago, when, again with Dr. Carrel, he signed an article "C. A. Lindbergh, Rockefeller Institute," that described the development of a device for the separation of blood corpuscles. The apparatus operated on the principle of the cream separator. It was then applied to the same purpose as the new equipment, but failed in minor points to fulfill its designer's hopes in this regard. The new artificial heart and lungs, with their man-made "blood," are the result of the continued experimentation since that time.

The new Carrel-Lindbergh apparatus is regarded by science as one of the most sensational in the annals of medical history. A method of maintaining life in complete organs outside of the body was recognized as early as 1812 by the physiologist Le Gallois as the best means of peering into the myster-

GOVERNOR GETS HOME RULE AND HANDBOOK ACTS

Legal Race Wagers Await Horner.

Home Rule Passes

Control of local Chicago transportation by the city administration was voted by the legislature last night and the so-called home rule utility bill sponsored by Mayor Kelly was sent to Gov. Horner for his signature. Details on page 2.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—By a vote of 31 to 14 the Illinois senate today approved the bill sponsored by Mayor Kelly that would give Chicago authority to license, regulate and tax the business of making bets on horse racing. Whether this power is to be vested with the city now rests in Gov. Horner's hands.

The governor's attitude has been the subject of considerable speculation during the last few days. Numerous queries have been made to him to ascertain his stand, but he has refused to make known his position on the bill. Today he repeated what he has said previously, as follows:

"I have no comment to make. It will be time enough for me to comment when the measure reaches my desk."

Three Courses Open.

Three courses of action are open to the governor. He can sign the bill, let it become a law July 1 without his signature, or veto it. Before he follows any one of these procedures he will have on his desk an opinion from Attorney General Kerner as to the form and constitutionality of the measure. The question of public policy is for the governor's decision.

Mayor Kelly was seated on the rostrum when Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] called up the bill, which was introduced in the house May 28 by Representative John M. Bolton [Dem., Chicago]. Ward sought to have a previous roll call applied to the measure, but objections immediately arose.

"There is no need of making an explanation of this bill," Ward said in support of his request. "Every one knows that it licenses handbooks and applies only to Chicago."

Little Comment Heard.

Little comment attended the calling of the roll, in marked contrast to the scene in the house on its passage there. Arguments for and against it were made by two downstate senators.

"I'm sorry that the bill does not apply to the entire state so my city and other cities also could regulate handbooks," said Senator James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville].

"I believe it to be perfectly proper to license handbooks. We learned during the prohibition era that we cannot control personal liberty by law. Neither can we control gambling by legislation. Although it may sound heinous to stand here and argue for legalized gambling I am firmly convinced that it is the only method by which it can be controled.

Better Than Corruption.

"We can't suppress betting in handbook establishments, as we know from experience. They pay protection money to the police and keep on operating. It is far better, I believe, to have the handbooks paying revenue to the city rather than corrupting the police forces."

In opposition to the bill was Senator Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], the only one of the fourteen who voted in the negative to voice his objections. Mason began his remarks with a quotation from a newspaper headline reading: "City would rule handbooks as it does liquor."

"I am told," Mason continued, "that some things in connection with the regulation of liquor in Chicago are not as they should be. If the same system is applied to handbooks, applicants for licenses would have to be sponsored by and pay their ward committeemen. That means political domination of legalized gambling as well as of saloons, and I vote no."

One Chicagoan Against Bill.

The roll call showed 28 Democrats and three Chicago Republicans voting for the measure. Only one Democratic senator from Chicago, T. V. Smith, professor at the University of Chicago, voted against it.

To promote temperance through the drinking of wine instead of stronger alcoholic liquors the senate by a vote of 32 to 3 approved the Monroe bill that seeks to lower the price of wine and make its purchase easier. This measure goes to the house for concurrence.

Under the Monroe bill the state and cities could license wine retailers. The state fee is fixed at $50 annually, and cities would be limited to a fee not exceeding that of the state. The state gallonage tax would be reduced from ten to five cents a gallon for wine containing 14 per cent or less of alcohol, and from 25 to 10 cents for stronger wines. There would be no license for a person manufacturing wine in Illinois from fruits grown by himself.

The wine retailer establishments would be package goods stores and they would be permitted to refill from bulk containers brought in by customers. They would not be permitted to sell wine for consumption on the premises.

Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton] was successful today in obtaining passage of his mortgage moratorium bill. This would empower the courts to stay until July 1, 1937, foreclosures of mortgages on real estate, and in actions upon a note secured by a mortgage on real estate proceed to judgment, but to stay payment until the same date.

"Some jurists believe the courts now have that power and this bill clears up any doubt," said Williams, who failed to pass the bill a day ago.

The senate also passed another bill along the same line. This measure, introduced by Senator Frank J. Huckin Jr. [Dem., Chicago], prohibits deficiency decrees after property has been sold to satisfy a mortgage debt. Objections were raised to both bills, but each was accorded 34 affirmative votes.

Delay Insurance Bill.

Efforts to pass the revised insurance code were postponed until next week, when an attempt to pass the voluminous measure today failed by six votes. Some of the senators had started for their homes when the bill was called, and the bill's sponsors then decided not to try to pass it at the late afternoon session.

Over the objections of Senator Peter P. Kielminski [Dem., Chicago] that Chicago would lose revenue and controling power over restaurants, the senate passed a bill giving the state department of health the authority to license and inspect restaurants.

Pass 26 House Bills.

Late today the senate passed 26 house bills and seven of its measures that will be taken across the corridor to the house for concurrence.

One series of house bills passed provide four year terms for officials of cities and villages. Another series authorizes trustees, guardians, insurance companies, and others to invest funds under their supervision in bonds or other obligations of national mortgage associations under the authority of the national housing act, thus creating a market for these new deal securities.

The senate adjourned until 10 a. m. Tuesday.

PASS AUTO BILL

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—The senate today passed a financial responsibility bill, designed to rule reckless and judgment proof automobile drivers from the streets and highways. To become enacted, it must likewise be passed by the house before this session of the general assembly is ended a week from Saturday.

To become effective, a financial responsibility law must be accompanied by a drivers' license act. In enforcing the proposed financial responsibility law, the secretary of state would suspend the license of a driver found guilty in a civil suit for damages until after the judgment was paid and the defendant had posted an insurance policy or bond to protect the public from any future accident this driver might cause.

Threaten Defeat by Delay.

The senate yesterday approved a drivers' license bill and today it was on first reading in the house where such a measure has encountered strong opposition. This opposition threatens to delay action so that the proposal will be defeated by the ending of the session.

The senate today also advanced two bills already passed by the house designed for reforms in motor trafic regulation.

On motion of Senator W. L. Finn [Dem., Iuka], a bill requiring vehicles to have adequate mufflers in constant operation was pushed to third reading, the passage stage. On motion of Senators Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], and George M. Maypole [Dem., Chicago], the clerk moved from first to second reading a bill to repeal the 45 mile an hour prima facie limit, a favorite weapon of shakedown cops.

Amendments Are Demanded.

In the meantime, the administration's bill rewriting the Illinois trafic regulations, passed by the senate yesterday, ran into a snag this afternoon in their race with the adjournment deadline. The house roads and bridges committee insisted upon amendments. If the house passes the bills with amendments, the measures will have to go back to the senate for concurrence and the life of this general assembly is becoming short.

ILLINOIS HOUSE PASSES UTILITY HOME RULE BILL

Kelly Wins Control of Traction, 86-45.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Complete control of Chicago local transportation companies by the Kelly city administration was voted by the house tonight as the bill completed its legislative course. The vote was 86-45 and the measure goes now to Gov. Horner.

Charges that the bill would result in advantages for the Chicago Rapid Transit and the motor coach companies accompanied consideration and were denied.

Tonight's battle was more or less along partisan lines, Democrats favoring the bill, most Republicans being against it.

It was the second try for passage. Majority Leader Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], who handled the legislation, attempted to obtain approval, but he could round up only 63 votes. Tonight it was different.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago Republican leader, was the principal accuser tonight.

Charges "L" Lines Favored.

Schnackenberg's charge was based on the theory that "since this bill seems to be directed toward granting the elevated lines an advantage inimitable to the surface lines and of dubious benefit to the public in Chicago, it should be defeated."

"The highly improper manner in which the city council of Chicago handled the regulation of local transportation in that city led to the creation, in 1913, by the legislature, of the state utilities commission," he said.

"In 1929 the legislature enacted certain statutes providing for a comprehensive unification of the street railways and elevated railroads in Chicago. These statutes bestowed power upon the city council of Chicago to draft a comprehensive plan for traction control, subject to the approval of the people and the companies.

Question Still Unsettled.

"Since then the city council has not succeeded in bringing into effect such a solution of the Chicago traction problem. It is apparent that the bill now before the house is directed in the narrow channel of affording to the elevated lines an opportunity to build extensions which, in many instances, will be competitive duplications of services now rendered by the surface lines.

"The city council should proceed under the statutes of 1929 without further delay to work out a comprehensive and definite solution of the Chicago traction problem to the end that the various sections which need extensions of either surface lines or elevated roads may obtain these extensions in the near future."

Objects to Curtailed Rule.

F. W. Lewis declared that the city administration was worthy of confidence but that the Illinois commerce commission was equally worthy of support. It would be denied control of the Chicago transportation companies by the Kelly bill.

"There is no power in the city council now," Adamowski said in closing the debate, "to regulate motor bus, elevated, and street car companies. We only want to be able to say to these companies how, when, and where they should operate."

On roll call, Minority Leader L. M. Green [Rep., Rockford] made an attack upon Mayor Kelly, who was sitting on the rostrum, charging that "the same man who is here tonight asking us to pass this bill is the man whose power killed honest election bills for permanent registration."

Labor Fights Passage.

Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville], read a telegram received by several members today from officials of the street car men's union—including William Taber and Joseph J. Kehoe—which declared that organized labor would be harmed by passage of the bill.

Then with little debate the house passed the Horner administration's bill to assess the recently enacted 3 per cent sales tax—the Hopkins bill—on public utility services. The vote was 84 to 49.

Against the administration's wishes the bill was amended to exempt sales of gas and electricity used for power. The bill now goes back to the senate for concurrence in the house amendment.

"It will be a tax upon users of utility products," said Republican Leader Green.

Relief Measure Is Taken Up.

Consideration of the next bill began with a sharp brush between Green and Speaker Devine. This was the measure to extend the life of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

"I object," said Green, "to the calling of this bill out of its regular order."

Apparently the speaker did not hear him.

"Are you deaf or dumb—or both?" Green snapped at the rostrum.

"Neither!" returned the speaker, leaning over his desk.

"You act like it," said Green.

Vote to Suspend Rules.

"I'm not," said Devine. "You have made your point and it will be acted upon." Majority Leader Adamowski then moved to suspend the rules and consider the bill immediately. The Democrats roared "aye" and the relief administration question was before the house once more.

Debate preceding roll call featured the accusatory remarks of Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville], who made an attack on Robert J. Dunham, former chairman of the commission and new federal works progress engineer for this territory. Lyons referred to the income tax litigation between Dunham and the federal government and declared that during his régime as head of the commission he had done nothing to correct alleged abuses of relief distribution.

When Lyons concluded Adamowski moved adjournment until 10 a. m. tomorrow, at which time a roll call on the bill will be held.

DEMOCRATS REJECT 2 REPUBLICANS' PLEAS FOR SEATS IN HOUSE

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Election contests filed by two former Republican state representatives were dismissed in the house today by the votes of the Democratic majority. Former Majority Leader Roger F. Little of Champaign and Miss Josephine Perry of the Woodlawn district in Chicago were the contestants.

The same procedure was followed in each case; an elections committee report recommended dismissal, Republicans presented a minority report in opposition, arguments were made in behalf of each and then the Democrats voted solidly against the Republicans.

Little's contest was brought against Representatives Hugh M. Rigney [Dem., Arthur], Everett R. Peters [Rep., St. Joseph], and E. E. Sturdyvine [Dem., Champaign], who were declared elected from the 24th district. F. W. Rennick [Rep., Buda], pleaded for Little declaring that on the basis of tally sheets alone, he had been elected by 21 votes instead of defeated by 54 votes.

Miss Perry was defended by T. MacDowning of Macomb, Republican, who presented the minority report which alleged that Miss Perry, who was declared defeated by Louis G. Berman and B. J. Kewin, Democrats, and William J. Warfield, Republican, had had 4,905 votes counted against her which actually had been cast for her.

"Senator Bidwill," Downing said, referring to the recent unseating of a Republican by the Democratic senate, "was thrown out on the basis of 14 photostatic copies of tally sheets the Democrats declared fraudulent; Miss Perry offered to produce 76 copies of tally sheets in her behalf, but the committee refused to consider them. The way this contest was handled made it a sham."

On a straight party vote the house denied each contest and the sitting members will retain their seats.

CRUSHED UNDER PIANO; DIES.

Jennings Potter, 40 years old, 3535 Princeton avenue, died yesterday in the Southtown hospital of injuries incurred Saturday when a piano he and two other men were taking down the stairs from a third floor apartment at 1809 West 55th street, slipped and fell on him.

CRIMINAL CODE REVISION PLANS WILL BE DELAYED

Defeat Is Feared in Last Minute Struggle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Up against a last minute jam which he feared might result in too hasty judgment and perhaps defeat of the proposed new criminal code, House Majority Leader Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], sponsor of the bill, decided today not to press its enactment this session but to renew the move at a special session which Gov. Horner is expected to convene in September.

Lawyers in the house have been so at odds over the 250 page measure that disinterested consideration has been next to impossible. And the final days of the current session—scheduled to adjourn sine die some time after midnight on June 29—will be packed with action which does not augur well for prolonged study of any bill.

Asks Study by Commission.

So, after a conference with Judge Harry M. Fisher of Chicago, principal draftsman of the code, Adamowski decided not to push the code and introduced a bill which would provide for appointment of a commission of five senators and five representatives to study the code and report upon it at the next session.

"The proposed code," Judge Fisher said, "contains 570 sections and the members of the judiciary committee [the house lawyers] struggled with it earnestly and conscientiously for nearly two months. The sentiments expressed indicated that none is opposed to the criminal code. All seemed to agree that a revision of our penal laws is necessary, but, as might be expected, there were differences of opinion upon details.

Expects Wide Approval.

"I feel confident that with the debates already had before the judiciary committee, which resulted in agreement upon vital amendments proposed, the commission will be in a position to fully consider the few remaining controversial sections and report the bill in such shape as to merit a fairly unanimous approval of its report by the legislature."

HAMMOND POLICE CAPTURE ROBBER AFTER GUN FIGHT

One of two robbers, believed responsible for some fifty robberies in Calumet City and Hammond during the last six months, was wounded and captured after a running gun battle with police last night. His companion was being sought in the swamps near Calumet City.

The man captured and taken to St. Margaret's hospital with bullet wounds in his arm and hand gave his name as James Parker, 42 years old, but refused to give his address.

Parker and his companion were sighted in an automobile in Hammond near State street and the Burnham viaduct. They sped away as Capt. Sandor Singer and his men approached, and the police pursued. About fifty shots were exchanged, and the fleeing car was riddled with bullets.

One shot punctured a tire, and the automobile was abandoned at State street and Torrance avenue, Calumet City. After Parker was captured, Calumet City police and officers from the Homewood station of the county highway police surrounded the swamp.

ADMITS SLAYING HUSBAND HOPING TO GET LIFE TERM

Los Angeles, Cal., June 20.—[Special.]—In a final effort to secure a commutation of her death sentence for the murder of her husband Mrs. Nellie Madison has confessed the slaying and offered mitigating circumstances, it was asserted here tonight.

According to the purported confession, produced by Lloyd Nix, former Los Angeles city prosecutor, and his wife, Beatrice, also a lawyer, Mrs. Madison slew her husband only after he had attacked her with knives.

The husband, Eric, a film studio auditor, was shot to death in his apartment in Burbank on March 24, 1934. The purported confession, said to have been taken at the Tehachapi prison for women, recites that Madison had long carried on a campaign of both mental and physical abuse of his wife in an effort to force her to leave the city.

Mrs. Madison declared she went to his apartment with a gun to obtain a paper he had forced her to sign confessing falsely to relations with other men.

ROUSED FLORISTS RUSH TO REVEAL UNION VIOLENCE

Grand Jury Widens Quiz; Calls Oak Park Police.

New charges of threats and coercion practiced by officials of the Florist Drivers' union were disclosed yesterday as the grand jury broadened its investigation into the slugging of two Oak Park florists on June 12.

Delaying the return of indictments against Fred Bohlman and Larry Monahan, who are accused of the slugging, the grand jurors announced that they intend to go into all phases of the affair including charges that Chicago police interceded in behalf of union members arrested by Oak Park policemen after the violence.

At the jurors' direction, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty subpenaed eight men to appear before the jury at 11 a. m. today. The eight are: James A. Howe, village president of Oak Park; Policemen Frank Kerber, Harvey Thor, and Chauncey Bisch of Oak Park; and Lieut. Charles Egan, Sergt. Andrew Carroll and Policemen William McCullough and Norman Sims of the labor detail of the Chicago department.

Now Deny Plea for Pickets.

The Oak Park policemen had previously alleged that Carroll and his squad, on the day of the slugging, had sought the release of five pickets arrested at the home of Peter Javaras, 1145 North Harlem avenue, Oak Park, soon after Javaras was slugged in downtown Oak Park for his refusal to join the Florist Drivers' union. Carroll and his squad have denied the charge.

President Howe has demanded that the Oak Park policemen be allowed to testify as to the interference. Howe is to confer today with Otto Kerner, attorney general of Illinois, on his demand that Kerner investigate the whole union situation in Cook county and alleged protection by Chicago police of union sluggers.

The grand jury is reported to have voted true bills Wednesday charging Monahan and Bohlman with assaulting Javaras, and Bohlman with carrying concealed weapons. The indictments were to have been returned yesterday, but were delayed because of the widened scope of the inquiry.

Allman Awaits Charges.

Police Commissioner Allman said yesterday he had not yet received a formal accusation from Oak Park against the Chicago policemen who allegedly interfered in the arrests. Allman said he was "still studying" the report submitted to him by Capt. Daniel Gilbert, head of the uniformed division, under whose direct orders the labor detail works. Gilbert, in his report, recommended that the Chicago policemen "be not disciplined."

That officials of the Florist Drivers' union envisioned a statewide organization was indicated in interviews with several suburban florists yesterday.

Efforts to unionize wholesale and retail florists in the Chicago area apparently began soon after the annual convention of the Illinois Nursery Men's association in the Hotel Sherman in January.

At this meeting, Frank Sperry, president, and E. J. Price, secretary of the Florist Drivers' union, told of plans to draw into the union employés of some 350 large greenhouses and nurseries throughout the state, according to association members who attended. Soon after that representatives of the union began their campaign for members, it was said.

Officials of the Naperville Nursery company in Naperville told of visits from union agents early this year. Their suggestions that "you ought to join" grew swiftly into threats, the officials said.

Call Deal a Shakedown.

In the middle of May, the officials related, a loaded truck of the Naperville nursery was halted in Ogden avenue by 35 or 40 men who demanded $100 for each of five drivers employed at the nursery before they would allow the truck to proceed. There was some bargaining back and forth, the officials said, whereupon the union men agreed to accept $50 for each of two drivers.

"We paid the money and signed a year's contract," one of the nursery officials said. "We didn't want to, but we knew we'd lose more than that if we refused.

"We declared that we considered the affair a shakedown and threatened to appeal to the state's attorney. 'Go to the state's attorney,' we were told. 'Go to Washington. See what you'll get.' Clearly the union men spoke with assurance that they had nothing to fear from the state's attorney of Du Page county."

Mrs. Victor J. Mense, wife of the manager of Beaudry's nursery at 1030 Crawford avenue, Oak Lawn, told a similar story of the manner in which her husband was induced to join the Florist Drivers' union.

"My husband," she said, "was returning with a truckload of shrubbery from the Naperville nursery on May 17 when he was halted by two automobile loads of men. They refused to let him go on until he promised to join the Florist Drivers' union. He replied that he didn't see why he should join, since he drove his own truck, and threatened to complain to State's Attorney Courtney.

"The men indicated that they weren't worried about Courtney and refused to recede from their demands. To avoid trouble my husband joined."

Officials of the Swain Nelson & Sons Nursery company in Glenview told of a one day strike called against them by the Florist Drivers' union last fall and subsequent annoyance from the union that culminated in the company's employment of two union drivers last March.

"We didn't want to unionize," one official said. "We were paying about the same as the union scale, and we didn't want union officials bossing our business. The union men kept after us and instilled fear into our hearts. We held a special meeting this spring and decided to join to avoid trouble."

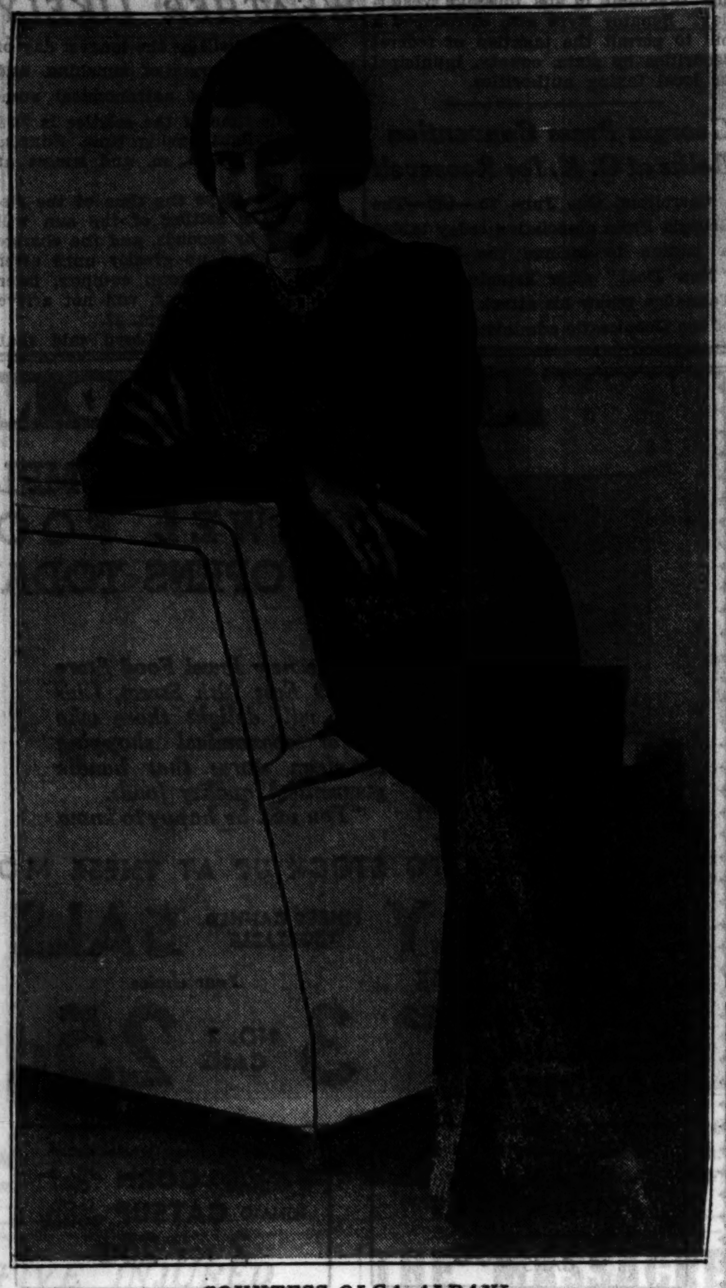
Charges "Grab" in Maywood.

A small independent florist in the southwestern part of Cook county also told of unsuccessful resistance he offered to the Florist Drivers' union demands that he join.

Earlier in the day President Howe charged that Chicago police had stood guard in Maywood while a "hand-picked union with synthetic officers, many of them with criminal records," manipulated a $150,000 business building into union control. The building was owned by a Maywood union not affiliated with the International Teamsters' union, the Oak Park official charged.

He repeated demands for an investigation of "police protection for union pickets and sluggers" in Oak Park and declared he could substantiate his charges of the Maywood incident through records of the federal court of Judge William H. Holly.

Secret Bride of H. Wallace Caldwell



COUNTESS OLGA ALBANI.

Married on June 8

County Commissioner H. Wallace Caldwell yesterday announced his marriage on June 8 to the Countess Olga Albani, radio singer, at Hot Springs, Ark. The former countess, he said, was born Olga Hernandez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Hernandez of San Juan, Porto Rico, and is the granddaughter of a Spanish admiral and a descendant of Spanish royalty.

Countess Albani won a divorce in Chicago from Count Arturo Albani in Judge Rudolph Desort's court three months ago. Mr. Caldwell's first wife died four years ago. He is 39 years old and his bride is 32.

Commissioner Caldwell said he left immediately after the wedding for Springfield to attend the Grass Roots convention. His bride went to New York to finish a motion picture at the Warner Brothers studio. When this is completed the couple will sail for Porto Rico, Caldwell said.

LAWYER'S OFFER TO "SOLVE" CLUB MURDER REFUSED

Courtney Willing to Act, Will Not Hire Ex-Aid.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday indicated he would not take advantage of the offer of Attorney John E. Northup, former first assistant state's attorney, to submit evidence in the murder case growing out of the slaying of Louis K. Straub in the Saddle and Cycle club last Feb. 3.

Mr. Northup's proposition carried the alternative that he must be permitted to present the evidence, personally, to the grand jury, and when that suggestion apparently was refused, Attorney Henry L. Kane, associate of Northup, said the offer was withdrawn.

Represents Insurance Company.

Attorney Kane is special counsel for an employer's liability insurance company which is resisting a claim for $4,000 insurance on Straub's life. The insurance company is liable, Kane said, only if Straub was killed in the line of duty, and it is the attorney's contention that the murder had no connection with Straub's employment as manager of the club.

Attorney Kane said that he had private investigators working on the murder for some time and when he had gained certain evidence he consulted with Attorney Northup whose opinion was that he had circumstantial evidence enough to justify an indictment. But he insisted that Mr. Northup be empowered to act as a special state's attorney in the matter.

Attorney Kane said he had positive proof that Mrs. Melba Straub, widow of the slain man, did not purchase a revolver from her father on Oct. 31, 1934, as she had informed the police she did.

Hits Story of Gun Sale.

The attorney said he had positive proof Mrs. Straub did not, as she had said, sell that gun to Peter Brickie, a friend. Brickie, Attorney Kane said, was out of the city at that time.

The attorney said he had other evidence, not of a negative character, but he said he was not prepared to reveal whom he suspects of the murder. He implied that he had obtained an identification of a woman reported to have been driven to the Saddle and Cycle club, on Foster avenue just east of Sheridan road, about the time of the murder.

Prosecutor Courtney said he will cooperate with Attorney Kane in every way, but added he sees no need of employing Attorney Northup. His office has been conducting an investigation of the Straub murder since it happened, he said.

RUSSIANS CLAIM BALLOON ASCENT TO 34,448 FEET

MOSCOW, June 20.—(AP)—Two soviet airmen today claimed a world altitude record for open gondola balloons, asserting they had reached a height of 10,500 meters [34,448.75 feet] in a balloon of 2,200 cubic meters capacity. They reported a temperature at their maximum height of 40 degrees below zero. They used oxygen equipment.

[A balloon of the capacity indicated ranks in the fifth category, for which no international altitude record is listed. The record for the sixth category—balloons of 2,201 to 3,000 cubic meters—is officially recognized as held by Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray, United States army, March 9, 1929, Belleville, Ill., 28,508.413 feet.]

Women's Altitude Record.

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—The Montecelio airfield announced today that the Marquise Carina Negrone, Italian aviatrix, had broken the woman's world altitude record. The field claimed that the marquise had flown higher than 12,000 meters [39,370 feet] by unofficial computation, thereby surpassing the record established June 17 by Mlle. Maryse Hilsz of France, who reached a height of 36,771 feet, official recording.

EDWARD J. LEHMANN AND SISTER OF CAFE OPERATOR MARRIED

Edward J. Lehmann, 31 years old, 422 Melrose street, heir to a department store fortune and former husband of Virginia Pine, motion picture actress, was married yesterday to Miss Dorothy Patterson, 29 years old, who is associated with her brother John in the management of the Subway, a café at 507 North Wabash avenue. The ceremony was read by Judge Walter T. Stanton of the Superior court in the office of County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, immediately after the couple had obtained a marriage license.

Following the wedding, which was witnessed by the bride's brother and his wife, as well as Mr. Flynn, the party went to the Subway for a wedding dinner. Mr. Lehmann said that he and Mrs. Lehmann would leave for New York in a short time and sail on the Normandie for Europe.

Mr. Lehmann is the grandson and namesake of the founder of The Fair store and a nephew of Otto Lehmann, turfman. His former wife, a daughter of the late Adolphus Peine, wealthy Chicago clothing manufacturer, obtained a divorce in the Circuit court here on March 20, 1934. They had been married in 1931 after Miss Pine [spelling changed for professional purposes] had divorced William Waibel.

CRIMINAL COURT.
EDWARD IDZIKOWSKI, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Selection of a jury to try Arthur Emblen, Gary hoodlum, for assault with intent to murder Eli Daiches, advertising executive, who later was slain, was begun yesterday before Judge Grover C. Niemeyer in the Criminal court.

According to the state's charges, Emblen had been hired to follow Daiches and had been promised $1,000 if the advertising man was "put out of the way." Emblen is said to have confessed that he entered Daiches' office on Jan. 24, 1933, beat him with a gun butt, and left him for dead.

Daiches recovered, however, but subsequently was slain by shotgun assassins at 53d street and the Outer drive on March 3, 1934. It is the assault in 1933 for which Emblen is being tried.

A charge of conspiracy to murder Daiches against Emblen was nol prossed before Judge Niemeyer two weeks ago when Walter Murphy, the state's main witness, refused to give testimony.

Murphy previously had been a witness against Irving Weitzman, south side baker, who was found guilty of arranging the Daiches slaying and sentenced to life imprisonment.

DOESN'T WANT CUSTODY.
Coldwater, Mich., June 20.—[Special.]—Nellie Markley filed suit for divorce in Circuit court here today and asked that her husband, Theodore, be given custody of two sons and a daughter. The court ordered the case investigated.

EXECUTIVE KILLS HIMSELF; BLAMES DIVORCED WIFE

Weir Williams Is Found Dead in Garage.

Weir Williams, 43 years old, killed himself yesterday by inhaling carbon monoxide fumes from his automobile in a garage behind his home at 6039 Sheridan road. He had been long identified with the commercial financing in Chicago and had recently been sales director of the Bankers' Commercial corporation, 520 North Michigan avenue.

Williams, who was divorced on May 14 by Mrs. Vera Beryl Williams, left a note giving his explanation for the act.

Home Wrecked, He Says.

"Vera is not content in wrecking our home and happiness, but enjoys cruel abuse," the note said. "The unfairness and hopelessness of it is wrecking my nerves. I love my children, family, and friends. I am seeking peace."

Mrs. Williams, who has lived in the Seneca hotel since the divorce, said that her husband was of a nervous temperament as a result of an automobile accident some years ago. This created a situation, she said, which made it necessary to obtain a divorce. She added that they had been friendly and that Williams called her yesterday to say he was going on a trip to Iowa.

Given $1,500 as Alimony.

In the divorce settlement, approved by Judge Allegretti of the Superior court, Mrs. Williams was granted $1,500 as alimony. She is the daughter of the late David Beryl, London publisher, and was married to Williams in 1928. Williams has three grown children of a previous marriage.

After the body was discovered firemen were summoned and an unsuccessful attempt to revive Williams was made.

DR. JEAN FERNEL IS CHARGED WITH ABORTION DEATH

Dr. Jean Paul Fernel, plastic surgeon, was formally charged with murder by abortion last night by the Chicago avenue police as a result of the death of Mrs. Virginia Donley, 21 years old, 4036 Mozart street. Mrs. Donley died Wednesday in the Swedish Covenant hospital.

Dr. Fernel will be arraigned today in Felony court. Mrs. Donley's husband David, 27 years old, will be arraigned on a charge of accessory to the crime, police said.

At the arraignments, however, police will ask a continuance until after the resumption of the inquest. It was postponed yesterday until July 9.

WHIG CAMPAIGN BADGE OF 1852 IS PUT ON DISPLAY

A brass Whig campaign badge, worn in Gen. Winfield Scott's presidential campaign in 1852, was placed on exhibition yesterday in the Chicago Historical Society museum in Lincoln park. The emblem was received by THE TRIBUNE from W. M. James of Cazenovia, Wis., and was turned over to the historical society. Mr. James said he found the badge on an Ohio highway 50 years ago. The inscription, "General Winfield Scott, first in war, first in peace," is on one side of the badge and "Scott and Graham, Union and Constitution," on the reverse side.

POLICE HUNT MISSING WOMAN.

The Shakespeare avenue police were requested yesterday to search for Mrs. Rose Jalinsen, 57 years old, 1926 North Albany avenue, who has been missing from home since Tuesday.

GREAT AMERICAN FORTUNES FACING NEW DEAL PERILS

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Largest of American family fortunes which would be affected by President Roosevelt's plans for redistribution of wealth and heavy inheritance taxes are those of Henry Ford and his son Edsel Ford, Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, and the Rockefellers, father and son. All three were rated as the world's greatest at various times before the depression by many authoritative spokesmen. Despite declines and crumbling values, they are still rated in the tip-top brackets.

The fortune founded by Henry Ford and his low priced car that revolutionized America's countryside some eight years ago was estimated at $1,200,000,000 by one authority, and in 1922, the Wall Street Journal proclaimed Mr. Ford "richest man in the world." The present size of the Ford wealth, father and son, cannot be estimated with any degree of accuracy.

Valued Over Half Billion.

One indication is the Ford statement filed in Massachusetts in May which gave a total surplus of $580,276,391. In June, 1933, the net worth of the Ford company was placed at $629,000,000 and at $686,000,000 one year earlier, according to statements of the company filed in New Hampshire in those years. In one single depression year, Henry Ford's automobile interests lost $68,000,000, but wrote it off as mere circulation of money, so Ford officials reported four months ago.

Figures are not available on the existing division of the Ford estate between father and son, but at Detroit business men speak of the family wealth as "probably a billion dollars." Income from the making of automobiles has been poured back into the plant. At Detroit it is argued that if a radical inheritance tax —perhaps as high as 85 per cent if to one heir— should at some time be applied and liquidation be forced, the automobile establishment might bring much less than its accurate paper value.

Depression Hits Rockefellers.

For years John D. Rockefeller was known as "world's richest man." One estimate in 1927 figured the Rockefeller family fortune, father and son, in excess of $600,000,000. At its height it was estimated by financiers at "over a billion dollars."

The depression is said to have hit it heavily. In September, 1929, the Standard Oil holdings of John D. Rockefeller Jr. were estimated at 800 million dollars.

Market values dropped, the Radio City development became a drain, other investments depreciated. The holdings of John D. Rockefeller Jr. in Standard Oil when he reported them to the securities and exchange commission were valued at $250,000,000. There are other investments, but if the Rockefeller Jr. Standard Oil holdings were willed entirely to one heir, the inheritance tax under the rates tentatively considered by the treasury department in the wealth redistribution program, might be 213 millions dollars, leaving 37 millions for the heir.

Mellon in Upper Bracket.

Ex-Secretary Mellon, who some years ago was rated by some authorities as America's richest man, placed his personal fortune at 200 million dollars at a hearing on the income tax suit brought against him by the government last spring. At the peak many authorities placed him in the "billionaire class."

Some expert financiers a few years ago held that Mr. Mellon controled more wealth and of wider variety, in banks, railroads, aluminum works, mines, oil companies, and varied other interests, than both Mr. Ford and Mr. Rockefeller combined. Under the tentative proposals at the treasury, a fortune of 200 million if inherited under certain conditions might have to pay 175 million dollars.

In 1933 a French economist rated the Fords as the richest men in the world, the Rockefellers in twelfth place and Mellon fourteenth place. In second place he put Edouard de Rothschild of France and in third place the duke of Westminster, in fifth place the gaekwar of Baroda, India.

The "Richest Girl."

Mrs. J. H. R. Cromwell, who as Doris Duke, the tobacco fortune heiress, was known as "richest girl in the world," inherited 53 million dollars from her father, James Buchanan Duke, who at his death in 1925 left an estate valued at 101 million dollars. The shrinking process begun in 1929 is said to have reduced Mrs. Cromwell's 53 millions to 30 million dollars. Cromwell himself is a wealthy banker with a fortune running well into the millions.

Another American woman of wealth is the Countess Haugwitz Reventlow, the former Russian Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani, the Woolworth 5 and 10 cent store heiress. As recently as last year her holdings were estimated at 40 million dollars, on which she is piling up much of the 2 million dollar a year income she draws. Reports in New York have had it that the heiress' marriages to the two titled Europeans have cost the family no small slice of the fortune built up by the 10 cent store magnate.

Kresge's 5 and 10 Fortune.

Among the country's hundred richest men is listed S. S. Kresge, another 10 cent store fortune builder. A report filed with the security and exchange commission in Washington in February showed Kresge had $26,000,000 invested in his chain store system alone.

George F. Baker Jr., son of the late founder of the First National Bank of New York, who was known as "the Grand Old Man of Wall Street," inherited about 62 million dollars from his father's estate in addition to the fortune he enjoyed in his own right at the time. He is rated among America's "richest men."

Another is Eugene du Pont. His holdings in the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company were given as $10,325,000 in a report to the securities commission, this in addition to other vast property interests. A 10 million dollar estate going to one heir would pay $4,400,000.

"Millionaire Straphanger."

Irenee du Pont and other members of the famous powder manufacturing family of Delaware likewise rate high among the millionaires.

The late John E. Andrus of Yonkers, known as the "millionaire straphanger," left properties estimated anywhere from 100 million to 800 million dollars. At the time of his death Andrus was reputed to be one of the twelve richest men in America. His heirs include his children, Mrs. W. H. Taylor, Hamlin Andrus, John Andrus Jr., Mrs. Wadsworth Williams, Mrs. Samuel S. Thrope of Minneapolis, Mrs. Frederick Davenport, and Mrs. Albert Benedict.

The bulk of the Andrus fortune is invested in Standard Oil, the Singer Machine company, the Consolidated Gas company, and in chemical companies, lumber tracts, gold mines, and real estate.

Huge Weyerhaeuser Fortune.

One of the huge fortunes is that of the Weyerhaeuser family, which was recently in the international headlines due to the kidnaping and $200,000 ransom of George Weyerhaeuser, 9 year old Tacoma boy. This family fortune was built by Frederick Weyerhaeuser, lumber king.

When he died in 1914 he was reputed to be one of the richest men in the United States, and 25 years ago he was proclaimed by many financiers to be richer in potential wealth than John D. Rockefeller. They figured his fortune in excess of a billion dollars. He controled 32 million acres of timber land.

Among leading possessors of the Weyerhaeuser fortune are J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Frederick Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, and Mrs. F. R. Whitcomb of Tacoma, Wash. Present size of the family wealth is not accurately known.

Wealth of Fortune Ryan.

Another great family fortune was that left by the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, Wall street financier and traction magnate. At the time of his death in November, 1928, his estate was estimated to be worth half a billion dollars. In February, 1932, the tax transfer appraisal placed the value of the estate at 141 million dollars, thus disclosing the effect of the crash upon the fortune. Nevertheless the estate remained as the second largest ever appraised in New York. The greater portion went to Mrs. Mary T. Ryan, widow, and to John Barry Ryan and Clendennin Ryan, sons. The estate paid federal and state taxes of 25 million dollars.

Another tobacco fortune is that of Smith Reynolds of the Reynolds tobacco family, who died of a mysterious bullet wound in 1932 leaving an estate of 30 million dollars to be fought over by lawyers representing his widow, the former Libby Holman; an infant son, and other relatives.

481,126 ESTIMATED TO BE ELIGIBLE FOR STATE AGE PENSIONS

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—If the old age pension plan is put in effect in Illinois, an estimated 481,126 persons will be entitled to apply for its benefits.

The probable cost of the pension plan and number of eligible persons was made today by Dr. Peter T. Swanish, head of the division of statistics and research of the department of labor.

"Based upon assumptions gathered from the experience of other states having the old age pension plan, Illinois will have to pay about 6½ million dollars, plus administrative costs," Swanish said.

"Of the total number of persons more than 65 years of age, it is assumed only about 7,264 per cent will actually qualify, based upon the experience and average of New York, New Jersey, Montana, Ohio, North Dakota and California during 1934."

Dr. Swanish, in making his calculations on the cost of the plan, assumed the actual amount which will be paid will be about 48.13 per cent of the maximum provided by the bill now before the governor—one dollar a day.

HOUSE REPUBLICANS FILIBUSTER AGAINST APPROPRIATION BILL

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—A Republican filibuster against the 224 million deficiency appropriation bill today slowed a speeding house down so much that it postponed final action on the measure until tomorrow.

The Republican parliamentary campaign against the measure—carried on with demands for quorum calls, roll calls and order on the floor—faded away as the day neared an end, but not until Democratic leaders had decided against their previous intention to go into a night session.

was opposed to complicating the tax extension measure with a new revenue amendment, and that he would so advise the senate upon calling up the resolution for action.

Doubts Passage This Session.

Senator Harrison was rather emphatic in his expression of doubt that the President's program can be carried out at this session of congress.

"I don't think it would be possible to give the measure the necessary consideration it deserves in time to pass it at this session," he said. "Such a tax measure should be studied for several weeks in both the house ways and means and the senate finance committees."

Asked whether the President would insist upon the enactment of his program at this session, Harrison replied:

"The President would like to see it enacted as soon as possible, but I am certain he will leave the question of the proper time to the discretion of the congress."

Study War Profits Bill.

Harrison appointed a subcommittee to consider the house bill to "take the profits out of war" by levying taxes of 100 per cent on war time profits.

Senator Harry F. Byrd [Dem., Va.] introduced a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to permit the taxation of state securities by the federal government, as proposed by the President in his message yesterday. Senator Byrd also introduced a bill to permit the taxation of federal securities by state, county, municipal or local taxing authorities.

Georgia Press Convention Balks at O. K. for Roosevelt

Carrollton, Ga., June 20.—(AP)—The Georgia Press association today tabled a motion to indorse the Roosevelt "New Deal" after listening to Gov. Talmadge renew his attack on policies of the Democratic administration.

SUMMER ARRIVES TOMORROW; COOL WEATHER LIKELY

Tomorrow will be the longest day of the year, in terms of sunshine, and the beginning of astronomical summer. The time of the solstice is 8:38 a. m., daylight saving time. Sunrise will be at 5:15 a. m. and sunset at 8:29 p. m.

For some days the time of the rising and the setting of the sun will vary only by seconds, and the change will not speed up greatly until after July 1. The autumn equinox, later than usual this year, will not arrive until 6:39 p. m. on Sept. 23.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said that showers were expected today and possibly tomorrow, with cooler weather due tomorrow. Yesterday was partly cloudy, with the mercury climbing from a low of 52 in the morning to a high of 70 at 4 p. m.

Slugged by Burglars He Finds Leaving His Home

George Anders, a motion picture operator, returned from his work last night and was walking up the stairs to his second floor flat at 714 California terrace, when he saw two men coming down, loaded with valuables from his home. Anders sought to halt them, but was slugged with a blackjack and the burglars escaped. Anders told police he had lost jewelry and clothing valued at more than $800.

'DANCE OF DEATH' TOLD IN GIRL'S 4 FLOOR PLUNGE

Fall Accident; Free Son of Ex-Police Captain.

Richard Martin, 25 years old, 6342 Magnolia avenue, was released from custody by the Town Hall police yesterday after a coroner's jury had failed to determine the reason for the death of Miss Pauline Turner, 24 years old, who was fatally injured Wednesday night in a fall from a window of her fourth floor apartment in the Carlos hotel, 3834 Sheffield avenue.

Martin, who is the son of John Martin, a retired police captain, testified at the inquest in the American hospital that he had been keeping company with Miss Turner for five months and was in the room with her Wednesday night, but was asleep when she fell. Under the questioning of Deputy Coroner Martin S. Gerber, Martin said he and the girl had been drinking. He said she was dancing in her underclothing when he dozed.

Window Sill Dancing.

Martin and two former roommates of Miss Turner said that whenever she came under the influence of liquor it was her wont to tap dance and sing. On two recent occasions, Martin declared, he had pulled Miss Turner down from window sills where she was doing her dance.

The dust on the window sill in Miss Turner's room in the Carlos hotel had not been disturbed, leading police to believe that she had not attempted to mount it, but had fallen backward to her death while she was dancing about the room.

"All I remember is falling asleep while watching her dance," Martin testified.

Sees Body and Crowd.

"When I woke up about 11 p. m. she was gone. I looked in the bathroom, but she was not there. Then I saw the open window—the screen was up—and I looked outside and saw her lying on the ground and a crowd gathering."

Mrs. Annabelle Kachele and Miss Mary Melsha, who had roomed with Miss Turner at the Hermine hotel, 4108 Kenmore avenue, until she moved to the Carlos last Sunday, testified to her tap dancing inclinations whenever she was intoxicated.

INDICT EX-JURY FOREMAN AND 5 IN AUTO THEFTS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 21; recovered, 20; stripped, 1 [from police records for 24 hours ended at midnight Wednesday].

John Jurs, 49 years old, a garage owner of Gilberts, 10 miles northwest of Elgin, was named in three indictments returned yesterday by the Cook county grand jury charging him with auto theft. His son, Marvin, and four other men also were named.

Jurs was to have been foreman of the Kane county grand jury, which convened last Monday in Geneva. He was removed from this post after his arrest on the theft charges.

The four others named in the indictment are Edward Magoon, 24 years old; Alfred Kelem, 22 years old, of Elgin; Francis Cantone, 22 years old, of Melrose Park, and Nick Waselevitch.

Jurs and his son have confessed to the state's attorney's police that they disposed of the automobiles stolen by the others. All the others except Waselevitch also have confessed, the police said.

Bonds ranging from $10,000 to $30,000 were set for the six men.

ONE IS MOTHER, OTHER BRIDE-TO-BE

Two actresses who figured in the Hollywood news yesterday. Gloria Stuart (left), in private life Mrs. Arthur Sheekman, became the mother of a daughter, named Sylvia. Lillian Bond (right) announced she would marry Sidney Smith, New York broker and former husband of Florence Rice Smith.

FIVE INJURED AS FOUR AUTOS CRASH IN SUBURB

Five persons were injured, two of them severely, last night in a spectacular automobile crash involving four machines at Dempster street and Keeler avenue in Niles Center.

Thomas Ranier, his wife Lena, 38 years old, and their son Roy, 9 years old, of 2645 Morse avenue, were going east in Dempster street when their car sidewiped that of Earl Guenther, 18 years old, School street, Morton Grove.

A moment later two other cars plowed into the wreckage of the first two. These cars were driven by E. Y. Hamilton, 2150 Sherman avenue, Evanston, and M. J. Heiser, 1426 Chicago avenue, Evanston.

The most seriously injured was Mrs. Ranier. Roy Ranier also suffered severe bruises and lacerations. Ranier, Guenther, and Miss Emily Rugen, 18 years old, Morton Grove, who was riding with Guenther, suffered less serious hurts. All were taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston.

James Alexander Brown, 80 years old, a retired lumberman, died in his room at the Rienzi hotel, 600 Diversey parkway, yesterday of complications that developed from injuries incurred April 27 when he was struck by an automobile at Lehman court and Diversey parkway.

Mr. Brown's death and one other increased the 1935 trafic toll for Cook county to 420. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 340 had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 7,204 injured. The other death yesterday:

Mrs. Susanna George, 50 years old, 850 Fullerton avenue. Died in the Columbus Memorial hospital several hours after she had been struck by an automobile as she crossed the outer drive at Oakdale avenue in Lincoln park.

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

RECKLESS DRIVER IS FINED $199 AS DUAL OFFENDER

Dominick Porto, 35 years old, 27 West Superior street, a waiter, was fined $199 yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Safety court for reckless driving. Porto was arrested April 16, after his automobile struck a car driven by Paul Korshak, president of the Chicago State Pawners' corporation, at Chicago avenue and La Salle street.

While Porto was at liberty in bonds pending the hearing of this case, he again was arrested for reckless driving and was fined $25 by Judge Edgar A. Jonas, it was learned yesterday.

SON OF TROTZKY JAILED IN RUSSIA, MOTHER REPORTS

LONDON, June 20.—(AP)—The arrest and imprisonment of Sergei Trotzky, son of Leon Trotzky, in Moscow six months ago was reported today by his mother in a letter to the Daily Herald.

"Sergei never occupied himself with political questions," the letter said. "When we were exiled abroad Sergei still was a student. The authorities permitted members of our family either to accompany us or remain in Russia. My correspondence with my son always has been limited to 'neutral' questions of everyday life and never touched upon questions of politics."

WOMAN RIDER'S STORY ENLIVENS SUIT OVER WILL

Fannie's Lovemaking Jolt to Aurora Friend.

A deposition from Mrs. Victor Bedini of Aurora, read yesterday in the federal court of Judge John P. Barnes, enlivened the hearing of the suit of Lionel R. Barbour to set aside the will of Mrs. Fannie B. Henderson, elderly Aurora widow, in which she left $650,000 to charity. Mrs. Henderson was 77 years old when she died in 1931.

Barbour, a 43 year old Detroit attorney, claims that he married her in a common law ceremony in Detroit in 1925. He is demanding an accounting of $185,000 of the estate. William George, former Aurora banker and executor of the estate, is the chief defendant.

"One of World's Greatest."

The deposition, in which Mrs. Bedini identified herself as "horse trainer and one of the world's greatest horse riders in the show business," was introduced by Attorneys Harold Shapero of Detroit and Harry Hershenson of Chicago, counsel for Barbour. It was read in court by Hershenson.

In the deposition Mrs. Bedini described herself as an intimate friend of the widow Henderson. Then she told how in the summer of 1925 she was appearing in a theater in Detroit "when Fannie Henderson sent the stage manager backstage for Mme. Bedini." Fannie then presented Lionel, and said, "We're just back from buying our trousseau." A few days later, according to the deposition, they returned.

"Well, we have done it, Bedini," said the bride, according to the horsewoman's deposition. "We are married."

"She was putting her arm around him and they were just as loving," Attorney Hershenson read from the deposition.

Puts Witness at Ease.

"You may sit in the witness chair," said Judge Barnes.

The attorney settled himself in the witness chair and continued in a more leisurely vein.

"I don't know," the words of Mrs. Bedini went on. "It may have been a shame, because she was an older woman. She did not look as old as she was, though, and she was dressed real nice."

Once Fannie and Lionel, after the Detroit "marriage," visited the horse trainer and rider in her barn in Aurora, where she was practicing, according to the deposition, which continued:

"She was honeying and sweethearting him. She told me then they were going on their honeymoon trip."

Evidenced Affection.

The deposition, as read by Attorney Hershenson, continued:

Q.—When they visited you on later occasions did there seem to be any affection between them? A.—Yes, very much so. Every time she came she showed me something she bought him. 'Well, how do you like my honey?' and 'My sweetie looks nice in his new suit,' she would say. She bought him a new overcoat and said she paid $175 for it. I know she bought him a diamond pin. She said, 'How do you like my sweetie's diamond pin?'

Attorney Cassius Poust, who with Attorney John K. Newhall of Aurora is defending Mr. George, read the cross-examination of the witness, Mme. Bedini. Some of the questions and answers:

Q.—You were kind of ashamed of it, were you? A.—Well, I don't know. As I say, they were loving, and I don't like to see that—my husband never loves me up, and I have been married 40 years.

Distressed by Love Making.

Q.—What were you ashamed of? A.—To see them love one another up.

Q.—You really were ashamed because you did not think they were married? A.—Well, I do not know, because she told me she was married.

Defense attorneys asked Mme. Bedini if Fannie sometimes told "wild tales." She replied, according to the deposition: "She used to talk a lot about young boys—she liked them." She admitted that in her opinion Fannie's appearance was disreputable, her stockings sometimes down. On one occasion she said she "was ashamed to see what cheap stockings a rich woman like that had on."

Fannie moreover told her that she "never took a bath," according to the circus performer. At one point Judge Barnes laughed heartily. Mrs. Bedini had been asked if she knew Attorney Newhall intimately. "Well," replied the witness, according to the deposition, "it depends on what you mean by 'intimately.'"

'ELECTRIC EYE' USED AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR TURNSTILE COUNTER

The use of the photo-electric cell or "electric eye" as a means of counting large groups of people was explained yesterday by H. D. Euwer, an engineer for the American Car and Foundry company. Chicagoans were given their first glimpse of the working of the electric eye for this purpose when the Rebel, new streamlined train of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern railroad, was on display Wednesday at the Union station. The train will soon be placed in operation between Jackson, Tenn., and New Orleans.

The electric eye, which has many other industrial uses, was placed directly across the aile from the entrance to the train. As each person entered the light beam from the photo-electric cell was broken by his passage. Each break was recorded on an electric counter. A reading of the counter at the end of the day gave the total number of persons who had visited the train.

Mr. Euwer said that it is likely the electric eye will be substituted for turnstiles in public places where it is necessary to determine the number of people passing in or out.

NEW DEAL ACTS AS HOME UTOPIA DREAM TOTTERS

Half of 65 Communities Are Doomed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Another New Deal institution—subsistence homesteads—is tottering.

The dream of the professors of the brain trust, to create a multitude of little Utopias, is not panning out.

As a result of the failure of theory to triumph over fact, the entire undertaking is being reconsidered, it was learned today, with the probability that nearly half of the 65 communities so far planned will be abandoned.

Professors' Theory Recalled.

The theory was that of the marriage of industry and agriculture in each little Utopia. Indigent families were to be resettled in a rural community, each provided by the government with a plot of ground and a brand new house, with all modern conveniences, for which it would pay in easy instalments in 30 years. The family would raise enough food for its needs and the other necessities of life it would obtain from the proceeds of part time employment in local industries.

Industries, the professors magnanimously proclaimed, would be accorded the privilege of establishing themselves or setting up branch factories in the homestead communities. But the expected rush of factories to the new Utopias failed to materialize. Then the industries were invited and finally implored to come. After two years, however, only one factory has been brought to the 36 homesteads so far located. Homesteaders to whom part time employment is essential to existence, are in sore straits.

New Brain Trusters in Control.

A new set of professors under Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, has now taken over the subsistence homesteads, as a branch of the resettlement administration, and is proceeding to overhaul the work of the first set of professors who inaugurated the 25 million dollar experiment under Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes.

Meanwhile, today President Roosevelt received about 50 directors of the rural resettlement program and gave instructions that they must see to it that the future population from farm regions lives and grows up "according to adequate American standards."

"We can not, must not, and will not let politics enter into this work," he declared.

Amount to Be Spent.

The President placed emphasis on the fact that on the average no more than $1,143 can be spent for each family taken care of. He said also that attention should center primarily on taking and keeping families off relief rolls. Another objective he said was the highest possible land utilization.

Having failed to bring the industries to the homesteads, the Tugwell administration is now considering ways and means of bringing the homesteads to the industries. It is proposed to rescind the location of twenty-nine rural communities on which work has not actually begun and locate all homesteads in the future in the suburbs of cities where industries already exist.

The cost of this New Deal fiasco to taxpayers is a matter of conjecture. Of the 25 millions of PWA funds allocated by Mr. Ickes about 22 millions are now in process of expenditure. About 5,000 families have been accepted for resettlement, but only 400 up to date have been established in the new communities. On the following twenty-six subsistence homestead projects the dwellings either have been completed or are in course of construction:

Birmingham homesteads, Birmingham, Ala.
Piedmont homesteads, Monticello, Ga.
Penderlea homesteads, Wilmington, N. C.
Decatur homesteads, Decatur, Ind.
Westmoreland homesteads, Greensburg, Pa.
Tygart valley homesteads, Elkins, W. Va.
Rural homes in Arizona, Phoenix, Ariz.
First homestead unit of Dayton, O.
Reedsville experimental community, Reedsville, W. Va.
Duluth subsistence homesteads, Duluth, Minn.
Austin homesteads, Austin, Minn.
Cumberland homesteads, Crossville, Tenn.
Houston gardens, Houston, Tex.
Dalworthington gardens, Dallas, Tex.
Three Rivers gardens, Three Rivers, Tex.
Beauxart gardens, Beaumont, Tex.
Macomb homesteads, Macomb, Miss.
Tupelo homesteads, Tupelo, Miss.
Meridian homesteads, Meridian, Miss.
Hattiesburg homesteads, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Jasper homesteads, Jasper, Ala.
Longview homesteads, Longview, Wash.
Burban homes, Elmonte, Cal.
Granger homesteads, Granger, Ia.
Greenville homesteads, Taylors, S. C.

On the following ten projects construction has not yet begun:

Denver homesteads, Denver, Colo.
Delaware homestead community, Wilmington, Del.
Southern Illinois homesteads, West Frankfort, Ill.
Lake county homesteads, Libertyville, Ill.
Laurel Homesteads, Laurel, Miss.
Jersey homesteads, Heightstown, N. J.
Monroe county homsteads, Rochester, N. Y.
Tulsa county homesteads, Tulsa, Okla.
Newport News homesteads, Newport News, Va.
Virgin Islands homesteads, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

In addition there are 29 projects which have been located, but the acquisition of land for which has not yet begun. These are the settlements slated for abandonment.

The only industry which was induced to locate in one of the communities is the Electric Vacuum Cleaning company of Toledo, O., a subsidiary of the General Electric company, in which President Roosevelt and his mother own 5,792 shares. The General Electric and Gerard Swope, its president, are closely identified with the New Deal. Mr. Swope was one of the leading architects of the NRA and the General Electric is doing a highly profitable business in New Deal contracts and in the manufacture of electrical appliances, the purchase of which by rural and other consumers is financed by New Deal funds. The company has an arrangement with the government to manufacture electrical equipment for sale to consumers of electrical power developed by the Tennessee Valley authority.

The New Deal having done a great deal for the General Electric, the General Electric was finally prevailed upon to do something for the New Deal. Its subsidiary, the Electric Vacuum Cleaning company, consented to locate a branch at the Arthurdale subsistence homestead at Reedsville, W. Va., the homestead community in which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is deeply interested. But General Electric took no chances. All risk of loss was assumed by the Arthurdale homestead or by the government, or both.

Government Advances $35,000.

The government advanced $35,000 for the construction of a factory for the Electric Vacuum Cleaning company by the Reedsville Community association, which comprises the subsistence homesteaders. The cost of the factory is to be liquidated by the homesteaders by addition to the payments by which they are to reimburse the government for the cost of their homes in the thirty year period. The association then rents the factory to the company for $1,750 a year, the company to pay insurance and taxes, if compelled to, for it is contended that no local taxes will be assessable on the homestead communities, inasmuch as they are government property until paid for. The company furnished the plans for the factory and is to install its own equipment. It guarantees 36 weeks' employment annually for 40 homesteaders at 36 hours a week at the NRA code wage of 35 cents an hour.

This industry will employ less than 20 per cent of the Arthurdale homesteaders. Unless, therefore, other industries can be brought there the community is doomed to failure.

SEEKS REMOVAL OF ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT FROM PARTY OFFICE

Dallas, Tex., June 20.—(AP)—Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, stood on loose ground in Texas politics tonight.

A belligerent clique staunchly behind states' rights and resentful of the intrusion of young Roosevelt in functions of the Young Democrats of Texas, tomorrow night will seek the political scalp of Roosevelt, first vice president of the state group.

Phil Overton, Dallas attorney, will present a resolution asking for removal of Roosevelt from his official capacity.

"If Elliott Roosevelt stays in as vice president," said Overton, "it will split our organization."

The movement to oust the President's son started after the recent state-wide convention of Young Democrats. Overton said his group resented an attempt by Roosevelt to "have Texas' Young Democrats approve constitutional amendments which would keep alive the principles of the national recovery act."

"Our group is strictly for states' rights, and if that means being against the New Deal we're against it," Overton said.

AWARD HUSBAND ALIMONY AFTER WIFE SUES HIM

John Edward Cawkwell, a commission merchant, was awarded $15 a week "temporary alimony" by Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday from Mrs. Mary Cawkwell, 5200 Sheridan road, who is suing for separate maintenance.

After filing the suit recently for Mrs. Cawkwell, Attorney Norman Becker gained an injunction tying up Cawkwell's assets, including $17,500 he received from the sale of his interest in Hunter Walton & Co., 35 West Kinzie street, butter and egg concern. Attorney John C. Melaniphy asked dissolution of the injunction on the ground that Cawkwell is "left penniless by it."

Mrs. Cawkwell said she had received $4,000 from the sale. Attorney Becker explained that she was acting now to save her husband from squandering his money on drink.

"Will you pay your husband $15 a week?" Judge Desort asked Mrs. Cawkwell. She nodded and Cawkwell also signified his assent. The judge ordered the payments and continued the dissolution motion to next Friday.

PIQUETT JURORS GET SUPPRESSED VERSION OF PLOT

Accused Dillinger Lawyer Wins Point in Trial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

New and lurid details of his adventures with the Dillinger-Van Meter gang of outlaws in the summer of 1934 were related on the witness stand yesterday by Dr. Wilhelm Loeser in the second trial of Attorney Louis Piquett, which is being held before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. Piquett is charged in this case with harboring Homer Van Meter, Dillinger lieutenant, who was later slain in St. Paul. In his first trial the lawyer was acquitted of harboring John Dillinger.

In an effort to discredit Dr. Loeser's story of how Attorney Piquett had hired him to perform facial and finger tip operations on Dillinger and Van Meter while they were hiding in a house at 2509 North Crawford avenue, the defense won from the court yesterday the right to present as evidence the first statement which Dr. Loeser had made to federal agents shortly after his arrest in July, 1934.

O'Leary in First Statement.

In this statement Dr. Loeser said that he did not recall having talked to Piquett at all until after the operations had been performed. The man who approached him, he said, was Arthur O'Leary, at that time an investigator for Piquett. The story was vastly different from that which Loeser has related in this trial and which he gave in the first trial.

Asked by the prosecutor, Brien McMahon, why he had made this first untrue statement, Dr. Loeser replied that his mind was clouded at the time and he was also in mortal fear of Piquett and his gangster friends. He had done what Piquett told him to do, he said, in fear that otherwise he would be killed.

The suppressed statement was the feature of the trial yesterday. Dr. Harold Cassidy, a thin, dark, nervous young man who was an accomplice of Dr. Loeser and O'Leary in the conspiracy to harbor Dillinger and Van Meter, was another witness for the government, but he merely related the story that he had told before, which puts Piquett in the position of having paid him $600 to perform the Dillinger operation. He had improved his memory on this point, he said.

"The Truth," Says Piquett.

"Dr. Loeser's first statement," said Piquett, during a recess, "is the whole truth of my connection with this affair. I had nothing to do with it except that I knew it was going on.

"Dr. Loeser told the truth at first. Then the government got busy with him. The attorney general was running around the country talking about lawyer-criminals and they decided to make a horrible example of me. That's all there is to this case."

Mr. McMahon objected to introduction of the first Loeser statement on grounds of public policy. He said there were things in it the department of justice did not want made public. The motion of Defense Attorney John Elliott Byrne, however, was allowed. The doctor was cross-examined on the basis of the statement, after he had read it and admitted that he had made it.

Things are different now than on the night of June 3, when Dr. Loeser says he operated on Van Meter. On that night, in the house of Jimmy Probasco on North Crawford avenue, were O'Leary, Cassidy, Dillinger, Piquett and for a brief time, Baby Face Nelson, he said.

Liquor Supply in Kitchen.

The hunted outlaws had liquor in the kitchen, and wandered back and forth between sitting room and kitchen. They kept their money wrapped in newspapers in a dresser drawer. Van Meter took two morphine tablets every few hours. He carried an automatic in his pocket. A month later Dillinger was dead, two months later Van Meter was dead. Still later Nelson was shot and killed. Probasco was a victim of an accident, falling from a window of federal agents' offices on the 19th floor of the Bankers' building. All the others in the house were indicted and convicted, with the exception of Piquett. That was how successfully this gang beat the law.

In his first statement, which was read during cross-examination, Dr. Loeser still unflustered and wearily methodical in his testimony, told of his wife, Bertha, who went insane and whom he divorced in Mexico, while he was a violator of parole from the federal prison at Leavenworth, where he had been sent on a narcotic charge.

Subsequently he married his secretary of many years, Anna Patzke, he said, but she was not sure yet whether the divorce was legal. Anna is still faithful to him and visited him a few days ago.

Tells $5,000 Threat.

While he was on parole, he testified, he was visited by Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general of Illinois, who later committed suicide, and one L. K. Eastman, and was told he would have to pay them $5,000 or his parole would be revoked and he would have to serve out 20 months more at Leavenworth as a narcotic violator.

He met Piquett, he said, "in politics" nine years ago and had kept in touch with him at intervals. Anna Patzke had some business relations with Piquett while he was in prison and when he got out he looked up the attorney again. This was in January, 1934.

About that time, he said, O'Leary came to him and said he was working for Piquett and that he had a cousin, a Dr. Cassidy, who was doing some work in changing finger prints. O'Leary wanted him to supervise this work on a man named Lane. He related in the statement he accompanied Cassidy and O'Leary to a hotel in Elgin in May, 1934, and performed this operation.

He learned that the "Mr. Lane" was a federal fugitive, one William Elmer Meade, wanted in the Bremer kidnaping and other cases.

Puts Blame on Piquett.

On the stand yesterday he changed this statement. He said that Piquett had arranged for this job and had demanded $1,000 from Meade. Meade would not pay this and later met Dr. Loeser alone and Loeser accompanied him to Louisville, where the operation was performed.

It is left up to the jury to choose the story to be believed. One involves Piquett and the other does not. Dr. Loeser said also that he overheard O'Leary talking about the killing of two federal agents. In his statement he said that he had refused to go out to the Crawford avenue house, but that O'Leary told him it would not be healthy for him if he did not, and when he got there both Dillinger and Van Meter pulled automatics on him.

Details of Killings Overheard.

He heard Van Meter and O'Leary talk of the killing of a garage man in Waterloo, Ia. He was afraid to notify the authorities.

He did not tell the truth in this statement, Dr. Loeser testified in examination by McMahon. The reason was that Piquett had told him on June 15 that he would be killed if he did.

"In that statement I followed Piquett's advice and put the blame on O'Leary and Cassidy," he said. "I was afraid. They were all alive then, Dillinger and Van Meter and Baby Face Nelson."

"Is your statement on this stand true?"

"It is, so help me God."

O'Leary's Version of Plot.

O'Leary was called to the stand late in the afternoon. He had been arrested and had pleaded guilty on Sept. 1, 1934, he said. He was in jail seven months and is awaiting sentence on July 8. In the meantime he is at liberty on his own word. He was employed by Piquett as salesman and promoter for a lime company in 1933. After January, 1934, he was given work as an investigator by Piquett.

O'Leary's connection with Dillinger while he was in jail at Crown Point, Ind., was ruled out. He testified that he met Dillinger on May 2 at Probasco's. On May 15, he added, he had met Dillinger on Sacramento boulevard and had discussed the plastic work with him. He said that he had told Piquett that Dillinger wanted the doctors on the place to stay during the operation. Piquett told him he would see what he could do.

Given $500 by Dillinger.

Dillinger gave him $500 for this job at their first meeting, of which he gave two-thirds to Piquett. It was Piquett, he said, who found the Probasco hideout. It was Piquett who first mentioned Dr. Loeser. The nature of the work and the price was discussed about May 1 at Loeser's home, according to O'Leary.

He said that on the night of May 27, Piquett drove him to the Crawford avenue place where they met Dillinger and the doctors and that Dillinger paid Piquett $3,000 at that time.

O'Leary's examination will be continued this morning. The government may conclude the main points of its case today. There will be a half day session of court tomorrow.

DIES SUDDENLY

MRS. POLLY TIPTON DUNN.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

An inquest is to be held today to determine the cause of the death of Mrs. Polly Tipton Dunn, 35 years old, 3750½ Lake Shore drive. The body of Mrs. Dunn was found yesterday morning on the floor of the bathroom in the family home by her husband, Harry P. Dunn, head of an oil company bearing his name at 624 South Michigan avenue. Although a physician expressed the opinion that Mrs. Dunn had died of heart disease, the Town Hall police requested the coroner's office to hold the inquest.

Name of Beach Station Changed to Dunes Park

The Chicago and North Western railway station between Waukegan and the Wisconsin line, formerly known as Beach, will be called Dunes Park after July 1, it was announced by the railroad yesterday. The three and one-half miles of beach along Lake Michigan at that point has been increasingly popular in the last two years as a spot for outings.

SENATE TO BARE HIDDEN THREATS BEHIND NEW AAA

House Gag Rule Keeps Peril Concealed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—The amended Agricultural Adjustment act jammed through the house late Tuesday is scheduled for a searching fire from senatorial critics, it became evident today as a study brought to light phases of the bill which previously had remained obscure.

Whether purposefully or not, the Democratic leaders forced the bill through the lower body in such a rush that the highly technical measure remained a mystery to most congressmen. Attempts of the minority to discuss the amendments in detail were balked by a majority gag rule limiting debate to six hours.

Word of Others Taken.

The representatives had to be content with the assurances of the bill's proponents that the amendments reduced the powers of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and brought the act within the constitutional limitations set up in the Supreme court's Schechter case decision.

Only two days have passed since the house, without a record vote, approved the amendment and sent them to the senate, but already two points have arisen which have aroused senators, both Democratic and Republican, to a realization that the secretary's powers may not be restricted, but enlarged by the amendments.

Light was shed upon one of the new amendments when Jerome D. Barnum, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, took note of a circularized letter sent to all publishers by Secretary Wallace.

The letter was in answer to a bulletin of the A. N. P. A., which pointed out that under the amendments, then not approved, there was a possibility of placing a processing tax on newsprint paper and power to restrict advertising.

Wallace declared that no tax was being levied on newsprint paper and that no such tax was contemplated. He asserted, moreover, that the AAA had no intention of restricting advertising and that if publishers feared that such steps might be taken he would indorse amendments making certain that their fears would not be realized.

Barnum proposed that a provision be added after the provision for the paper tax to the effect that no such tax should be levied on newsprint paper or "any of the component elements thereof."

Wallace Says Nothing.

No recommendation to such an effect was proposed in the house, however, and Wallace today remained quiet on the question whether he would sponsor such an amendment if it were proposed in the senate.

Again, Wallace declared that if publishers believed that authority to interfere with advertising were present in the amendments, he would not object to an amendment specifically providing that nothing in the act should be construed as giving any authority to regulate advertising. No such amendment was offered in the house, but undoubtedly will be proposed in the senate.

As sent to the senate, the amendments provided for grade labeling of milk, tobacco, fruits, nuts and similar products. Such articles are widely advertised, it was pointed out, and the amendment might provide an entering wedge for interference of the department of agriculture with advertising.

Amendment Suggested.

Barnum suggested that an amendment should be added to the act reading as follows:

"No order shall be issued under this act prohibiting, regulating or restricting the advertising of any commodity or product covered hereby, nor shall any marketing agreement contain any provision prohibiting, regulating or restricting the advertising of any commodity or product covered by such marketing agreement, nor shall approval of any marketing agreement be withheld because of a provision for advertising sought to be included therein by those subject to such a marketing agreement."

Barnum also referred to the "unfriendly attitude" of the department of agriculture, and especially of Under Secretary Tugwell towards advertising. He recalled that the Tugwell definition of false advertising, after it had been rejected by congress, was placed in nine codes covering the handling of food products.

Tugwell Opposes Advertising.

"Prof. Tugwell on many occasions has condemned advertising as economic waste," he reminded Wallace. "In May, 1934, he stated that your department was giving serious attention to provisions in marketing agreements restricting advertising."

The second phase of the amendments which already has caused much discussion is that barring any person from suing for a refund of processing taxes.

A futile fight against this section was waged in the house by Representative Charles L. Gifford, Massachusetts Republican. The Democratic majority quickly disposed of his suggestion that the section be eliminated.

Failed to Show Damage.

Officials of the department of agriculture told the senate agricultural committee frankly, it was learned, that the amendment was suggested by the Supreme court's gold clause decision which held that an act of congress abrogating the gold clause was unconstitutional, but that holders of such obligations could not recover because they had not shown they were damaged.

In the AAA amendment the theory is set up that the courts are closed to suits to recover processing taxes on the ground that such taxes are passed on to the consumer and the processors have not been damaged.

This was the first admission by AAA officials that processing taxes were being passed on to the consumer and that the program has heightened grocery bills for the man in the street. Previously, such assertions had been met by the New Dealers with the contention that the processor alone was bearing the tax.

NEW NRA MEASURE DRAFTED TO OFFSET LAW HELD INVALID

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—Legislation for still another NRA, created by union of the hamstrung "stopgap" recovery agency and the federal trade commission, was disclosed today to have been drafted by an important administration group.

Whether President Roosevelt had ordered the step or approved the plan could not be learned definitly. But it was recalled that in setting up the fledgling NRA the President referred to an "opportunity" for future legislation. Further, word was passed on Capitol hill today that a broader law seeking to achieve limited but substantial objectives of the old code rule was under White House consideration.

While all plans were classed as tentative, some congressional quarters viewed another NRA as a companion measure to the new federal tax program.

Live Power Blazes New Trails

...ON LAND ...IN THE SKY

NOW IT'S CHICAGO TO OLD MEXICO OVERNIGHT

Now comes the first through-line by air from Chicago south to Mexico, with direct-connection flights to Mexico City and the Central American countries. Climb aboard the "Starlight Express" in Chicago at 9 o'clock any evening—you're at Corpus Christi, Texas, at 7:00 the next morning—at Brownsville by 8:00 and then, if you wish (via Pan-American Airways) on into Mexico City itself by 1:45 that afternoon. And those big, sleek, bi-motored Lockheed-Electras, which carry you over this route, are fueled with Standard's Live Power gasoline—the exclusive choice of Braniff Airways, Inc., after thorough performance-tests.

New travel possibilities open up for you in your car, too, when you can draw on that swift, sure, mile-eating Live Power, released by Standard's gasoline. Distant points don't seem so distant. You're ready to tackle the toughest routes.

Take on a tankful of Standard Red Crown and see if it doesn't put LIFE in that motor of yours. Pick out the meanest hill you can find and watch how it takes the up-grade. Try its pick-up and speed on the open highway. Keep an eye on your mileage, too.

Then just remember, Live Power like that is always on tap at thousands of Standard Red Crown pumps, on highways and by-ways throughout the middle west. And with it goes . . . STANDARD OIL SERVICE.

ROBINSON, LONG UNITE TO URGE SEATING OF HOLT

Senate Foes Stage Damon and Pythias Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—The momentous question of seating Rush Holt, the proletarian Messiah from West Virginia's coal mines, came up for debate in the United States senate today and all was love and kisses between Joe Robinson of Arkansas and Huey Long of Louisiana.

After five hours of discussion Senator Walter F. George [Dem., Ga.], chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, said it was obvious that a vote could not be reached tonight and the matter was put over until tomorrow.

Moonlight and Magnolias.

Not since early in the session had Long and Robinson spoken a civil word to each other. At that time they were supporting an amendment to lay processing taxes upon rice, a question in which Louisiana and Arkansas had a mutual interest. Today they fought to seat young Holt, who became of age yesterday, for he has promised to be a good New Dealer and a wealth distributor.

Huey Long is not a good New Dealer, but on the proposition of distributing the wealth he agrees with President Roosevelt's recommendations of yesterday. So he went to the aid of Majority Leader Robinson today and Mr. Robinson was particularly kind to Huey.

Try Yessing Each Other.

"That's right, that's right, the senator is exactly right," Huey would say while Joe was talking. "That's just what I was trying to say."

"The senator has said it, and very ably," Joe would reply.

Society writers gush about Jane, for she will be Washington's youngest official hostess.

Question of Constitutionality.

The question was whether the constitutional requirement that a senator must be 30 years of age means at the time of his election, at the beginning of the term for which he is elected or at the time he presents his credentials.

Huey Long, using himself as a precedent argued that a man who is elected to the senate can continue to serve as governor for months or an indefinite time and then take his seat in the senate, although the courts have ruled that the two offices are incompatible. The eligibility of a senator elect who continues to serve for a time as governor was upheld, he said, in the case of Senator Robinson and in the case of Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], who argued vehemently against seating Holt.

Even Connally Bolts.

Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.], in one of his rare breaks with the administration, also contended that Holt was not eligible for seating, relying upon the Albert Gallatin precedent in 1793 and the James Shield case in 1849. These senators, Gallatin of Pennsylvania and Shields of Illinois, lacked a few months of the nine year citizenship requirement at the beginning of their terms and the senate declared their elections void.

"They ask us why we should pay any attention to what they did in 1793," Connally declared. "Who was here in 1793? Why, just some of the men who sat yonder at Philadelphia and framed the constitution. Who was here in 1849? Who was the senator from South Carolina who debated the Shields case?"

"John C. Calhoun," yelled Senator Ellison D. [Cotton Ed] Smith, who comes from South Carolina.

Senator Johnson said he was reluctant to oppose te seating of Mr. Holt, but that he had taken an oath to support the constitution.

CHICAGO HOUSEWIVES ASK CONGRESS QUIZ INTO FOOD 'MONOPOLY'

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—A dozen housewives from Chicago and New York today demanded a congressional investigation of an alleged monopoly in food prices and heard farm administration officials explain they were working toward a balance between supply and demand.

The delegation, representing the united conference against the high cost of living at Chicago and the New York City action committee against the high cost of living, threatened a buyers' strike, if prices, particularly of meat, are not reduced.

Petitions said to be signed by more than 20,000 workers were presented to the AAA with these demands:

Congressional investigation of monopoly in food prices.

Immediate reduction of the price of meat.

Abolition of the AAA food destruction program.

Enactment of the Lundeen bill for unemployment relief.

Headed by Mrs. Lillian Saffern of Chicago and Mrs. Rose Nelson of New York, the delegation related tales of starvation and privation among working classes because of high food prices.

REVEAL KIDNAP PLOT ON DISTANT BORAH RELATIVE

Canton, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Canton police were notified today of an apparent plot to kidnap 8 year old Billy Borah of Peoria, a distant relative of United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho.

Two men were reported to have lured the boy into an automobile yesterday while he was playing at the rear of the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Proebsting, with whom he was visiting. They drove around for a time and finally put him out of the car six miles north of the city, where a passing motorist picked him up and brought him back.

The boy's mother told police that the men made extensive inquiries into the financial condition of his father, John Borah, who is a cousin of Senator Borah. John Borah is manager of the Illinois inspection bureau office at Peoria.

Dismisses Ouster Action Against Governor Olson

Minneapolis, Minn., June 20.—(AP)—District Judge H. D. Dickinson today dismissed the ouster action brought against Gov. Floyd B. Olson by 29 petitioners who charged he violated the corrupt practices act in the 1934 gubernatorial election.

50 GRASS ROOTS LEADERS TO PUSH G. O. P. MOVEMENT

Committee Meets Within Next Fortnight.

Permanent organization of the Grass Roots Republican movement is to be taken up within the next fortnight, according to word yesterday from Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa national committeeman, head of the ten-state group which called the recent Springfield conference.

The Grass Roots delegates provided for a permanent committee of five members from each of the ten states, and it is proposed that they meet in Kansas City, St. Louis, or Chicago before the end of the month to start operations.

Organize in All Precincts.

A statement issued by Mr. Spangler yesterday through Jacob D. Allen of Chicago, secretary of the conference committee, said that activities are to be carried into all precincts in the ten mid-west prairie states. It reads as follows:

"The conference committee and the temporary and permanent officers of the midwest Republican conference held at Springfield are deeply gratified by the many expressions of approval of the conference program being received from every section of the nation and from every class of American citizens.

"From many localities word is being received from local workers who are planning energetic activities in organization work. Within a short time the committee of fifty which was provided for by the conference to outline and carry on future plans will meet. At that time plans will be perfected for future activities to be carried forward in all the counties and precincts in these midwest states.

Team Work Is Aim.

"Such a general plan is necessary and must be followed in order that the most good will result. Team work and coördinate action will be the aim instead of a large number of plans which are somewhat local in character and which will not fit in with general activities.

"The enthusiasm being shown by individuals and local groups everywhere indicates that a general and intensive drive will be most successful. It is most encouraging that an ever increasing number of people see the damage to the country in the destructive policies of the New Deal and that they are willing to give their time and energies to the cause."

FALL FAR SHORT IN DRIVE TO CUT RELIEF ROSTERS

10% Goal Dwindles to Approximately 5%.

The results of the first three weeks of the campaign for a 10 per cent reduction in the number of families on the rolls of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission indicated yesterday that a cut of only 5 per cent will be effected and that this represents the normal seasonal decrease from May to June.

The reduction of the relief rolls was ordered last month during the temporary cessation of relief and is to be completed through the reëxamination of families on the rolls. At the time it was estimated that 10 per cent of the families could be taken off relief and administrative costs reduced proportionately.

4.8 Per Cent Cut So Far.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, disclosed yesterday that reports covering the first three weeks of the reëxaminations showed a reduction of only 4.8 per cent.

In the 101 downstate counties, 84,171 of 146,108 families who were receiving aid prior to May 1 were notified that they must reapply for continued relief. Of this total, 55,812 have reapplied and 4,266, or 7.7 per cent have had their applications rejected.

In Cook county, from a total of 145,869 families on relief rolls during May, 97,080 are subjected to reexamination. Up to last Saturday, 40,159 of these had reapplied for assistance and only 300, or 7-10ths of 1 per cent, had been rejected.

Discloses Few Chiselers.

"The 4.8 per cent reduction in relief rolls indicated is substantial evidence that the families who have been supported from public funds in Illinois are actually in need," Mr. Reynolds said. "That few of the families who have been rejected under the reexamination are 'chiselers' is indicated by the fact that the normal seasonal drop in the relief rolls from May to June is 5 per cent. The bulk of the families dropped are those who normally would leave the relief rolls at this time of the year."

In two counties, Kendall and Lawrence, the relief reduction has been completed. In Kendall county a 12 per cent cut was effected while in Lawrence county 6 per cent of the relief families were rejected on reexamination.

Woman Granted Residence Following Seventh Divorce

Rockford, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hilda Laparr, who several months ago was granted a divorce from her 7th husband, Henry, on grounds of cruelty, was awarded the family residence and the furniture in the house in a property settlement in court this afternoon.

$1,340,000 PAID AS COUNTY SUES TAX DELINQUENTS

2 Million More Expected This Year.

A total of $1,340,482 in delinquent personal property taxes for the years 1931 and 1932 have been paid to the county treasurer so far this year as a result of civil suits filed in half a dozen Cook county courts by State's Attorney Courtney's assistants, it was disclosed yesterday.

This sum, plus $4,629,065 gathered as a result of court actions during the two previous years, brings the aggregate personalty tax collections made since State's Attorney Courtney took office to $5,969,547. The report in which these figures were made public was prepared by Gerald G. Koerner, auditor for the tax division of the state's attorney's office.

Expects Two Million More.

During the last half of this year a total of nearly $2,000,000 more in delinquent personalty taxes should be turned into the county's coffers, said William J. Touhy, assistant prosecutor who is in charge of the tax division. Most of this sum should be collected through the suits against property owners delinquent in payment of their 1933 personalty taxes, he said.

At present an average of 50 suits daily are filed in the Circuit court against individuals and business houses assessed $1,000 or more. At the same time the state's attorney is filing 100 suits a day in the Municipal courts against other property owners whose assessments are smaller than $1,000. A total of 43,000 suits already have been filed to collect 1932 taxes and more than half of these remain to be heard in the courts. It will be several months before suits for 1933 taxes go to trial.

Fifty More Suits Filed.

Otto K. Eitel, general manager of the Stevens hotel, was sued for $2,701 in delinquent 1933 personalty taxes in one of the fifty suits filed in the Circuit court yesterday. According to Assistant State's Attorney Philip H. Treacy, the suit is on an assessment of Eitel's own belongings in the hotel.

Flyer Waves to His Wife; Plane Crashes, Two Killed

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 20.—After waving to his wife from a plane, a naval aviator lost his life today when the plane dove to the ground and burst into flames. The two occupants, both naval officers, were killed. The plane had been flying low over a residential section. It skirted a tall apartment house. Lieut Cavalcanti's wife stood in a window. The officer waved and the plane fell into a vacant lot.

Size, color, texture, condition . . . all these have something to do with aroma and flavor

Leaf by leaf, the sun-ripened Turkish tobacco is selected or rejected to get just the right kind for Chesterfield's milder, better taste.

And just as much care is taken to pack the tobacco to preserve the delicate aroma during its 4000 mile journey to this country.

So important is the preparation of Turkish tobacco in making Chesterfields, that Liggett & Myers have their own modern leaf handling plants in seven important tobacco centers of Turkey and Greece.

DUNHAM STARTS MACHINE TO GIVE JOBS TO 225,000

Works Relief Cash Will Be Ready July 10.

Robert J. Dunham, federal works progress administrator for Illinois and president of the Chicago Park district, returned yesterday from four days of conferences in Washington and announced that steps will be taken immediately to set up the administrative machinery for the works progress administration in this state.

He said the administration will be ready to receive applications for loans from President Roosevelt's 4 billion dollar work relief fund by July 10 and he hopes to have the first group of relief clients at work in August. He plans on giving employment to 225,000 workers.

While in Washington Mr. Dunham filed tentative applications for Chicago city and park projects totaling $50,000,000. The city projects, estimated at $30,000,000 for wages and material, include repaving of 400 miles of streets and regrading of 100 miles of unimproved streets.

Thirty-one Thousand Jobs in City.

The park program, estimated at $20,000,000, includes resurfacing drives and boulevards, construction of subways and passerelles, and wading pools in several parks. The two programs are planned to give employment to 31,000 men.

In explaining plans for setting up his administration, Dunham said he had appointed Ralph H. Burke, chief engineer of the Chicago Park district, as his deputy administrator. Maj. Arthur R. Lord, now director of the division of works and rehabilitation of the Illinois emergency relief commission, will be assistant administrator, and Walter Roy, now assistant chief of the park district's recreational division, will be director of professional and technical projects for the WPA. Burke and Roy yesterday were granted one year leaves of absence by the park commissioners.

Will Draw Aids from Industry.

Dunham said that he intended to call upon private industry in Illinois to furnish him with the best men in the state for executive positions under the works program.

In explaining the administration of the works program, Dunham pointed out that Illinois has been divided into seven districts, which in turn have been subdivided into forty-nine administrative areas. Nine of these areas will be in Chicago.

"The administrative unit in rural areas will be approximately 4,000 works progress workers, as distinguished from relief administrative offices with the county as a unit," he said.

"As soon as the administration set-up is complete the applications for projects should originate in small administrative areas and pass through the district areas to the general administrative office in Chicago."

Subject to Review.

Dunham said that projects when once approved by the state administrator may be subject to a general review by Washington authorities as to character but not as to engineering details. Employment of relief workers on projects will be made through certification from the state relief agencies and only relief clients will be entitled to employment on approved projects. He said that workers will be presumed to have the security of works administration wages for a period of one year.

He pointed out that the work relief division of the IERC will be used as the basis for the new administrative organization. Workers in the accounting, disbursement, and procurement division of the organization will be responsible to officials of the United States treasury, according to Dunham.

Job Applications July 15.

"The administrative offices will not be ready to receive employment applications until July 15, and we will use relief clients in the offices as far as possible," he said.

He said that the question of the allocation of funds for projects does not permit favoritism for one area but will be based on the number of workers in each area.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary for the relief commission, who returned from Washington with Dunham, said there would be no appreciable decrease in relief rolls, due to works progress activity, until Aug. 1.

"The first wave of employment will be on projects formerly handled under work relief," Reynolds said.

Mrs. Jack Koehne Wins Divorce and Alimony

In a brief hearing before Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday Mrs. Helen Koehne, 23 years old, 917 Castlewood terrace, daughter of Harry Fawcett, hotel owner, was awarded an uncontested divorce from Jack W. BOARD RE-ELECTS DUNHAM AS HEAD OF PARK DISTRICT

President Names Group to Foster Art.

Robert J. Dunham was reëlected president of the Chicago Park district at the annual meeting of the park commissioners yesterday. Harry I. Joseph was reëlected vice president.

After the election Mr. Dunham announced the formation of a committee of 19 Chicagoans interested in art and music to study all available facilities in the park district and to foster and promote exhibits of fine arts and commercial art and festival events of benefit to the public.

Chauncey McCormick Chairman.

Chauncey McCormick was named chairman of the committee. The other committee members are:

Potter Palmer	T. E. Tallmadge
Mrs. F. W. Upham	Jerzy Bojanowski
Mrs. C. B. Goodspeed	Dr. E. B. Zeisler
Mrs. C. H. Worcester	John Alden Carpenter
Miss Kate Buckingham	Mrs. Maude R. George
Robert B. Harshe	The Rev. E. Hoover
Mrs. W. S. Brewster	Edgar Nelson
Albert D. Lasker	Dr. Frederick Stock
John F. Cuneo	Mrs. Emmons Blaine

Mr. Dunham said a meeting of the committee will be called in the near future to discuss its program.

Protest Ban on Hot Water.

One hundred residents in the vicinity of Hardin Square park, 26th street and Wentworth avenue, protested in a petition to the park board against the denial of hot water in park shower baths. The board recently ruled that as an economy measure water for showers would not be heated in park fieldhouses.

The petition explained that many residents of the Hardin Park district do not have bathing facilities in their homes and rely on the park for their baths. The subject was referred to George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S SHARE THE WEALTH.

There was an element of the unexpected in the delivery of the special message of Mr. Roosevelt to congress giving his recommendations for the redistribution of wealth by taxation. The message is referred to in the news reports as containing the President's heralded plan for the leveling down of wealth for its wider enjoyment. Significantly, however, the redistribution has been advocated for months with bell, drum, sounding board, loud speaker and trumpet in a number of other tents.

Two years ago Mr. Roosevelt had the undisputed command of the situation. The plans were his plans and they proceeded to unfold at his direction, with the details worked out when and how he pleased. He chose the time and he selected the measures. Legislation awaited his advice, advocacy hung on his decisions, and administration followed his wishes.

Now there are men out in front of Mr. Roosevelt and his message on redistribution of wealth reveals his awareness of that fact. In the expectations of the people to whom Mr. Roosevelt's message is addressed there was more attention being paid to the words of other levelers. The true levelers were Huey Long, Father Coughlin, Dr. Townsend and Upton Sinclair. Mr. Roosevelt's peaceable revolution was passing into other hands, as revolutions have a way of doing. Leadership was going to men who promised more. The consequence is that the erstwhile head of a state has been reduced to the status of competitor for head of a faction. No man of our age has been so thoroughly undermined in so short a time. The stability of a great office has been lost while its holder scrambles for the support of the least stable element of our population in competition with men known as the leaders of the lunatic fringe.

PUTTING MORE CHAINS ON TRANSPORTATION.

The Eastman bill to provide for the national regulation of highway transport is now being considered by the house. Before votes are cast each congressman should ask himself: "Would there be any necessity for such regulation if we had no railways?" We believe that no member could conscientiously and honestly answer in the affirmative. There was never any agitation for the regulation of draymen or of horse drawn vehicles of any description, so that the bill is clearly directed toward the curbing of the efficiency of the modern vehicle, and just at a time when the Diesel engine, improved metals and development of the special purpose truck are increasing its value to the public.

Mr. Eastman has said: "With the principle that no public regulation should be provided merely for the sake of protecting one form of transportation against the competition of another I wholly agree." Yet what other reason is there for hamstringing the evolution of highway transportation? Why not frankly admit that an archaic system of regulating railroads has reduced them to impotency; that burocracy will attempt to stall progress rather than relinquish one iota of control over the railroad industry? The public interest be damned!

END OF A FUTILE INQUIRY.

It is reported that the investigation into Red influences in the colleges has come to an end. Results have given little significant information on a subject which properly has caused much justifiable concern in the public mind. The conduct of the inquiry has shown the characteristics of political investigations offering the possibilities of sensational advertisment, the evasion or covering up of uncomfortable facts and the confusion of public opinion, on the model of certain notorious self-styled investigations by committees of the United States senate. In this procedure teachers deserving rebuke and restraint may have been protected, but at the expense of the university. As an educational institution the university has suffered through the activities and utterances of a few individuals on its faculty who indulge in the exhilaration of posing before inexperienced youth as daring opponents of the sinister powers of wealth, and also from the unfortunate conduct of President Hutchins in the pretended bus strike that was attended by such tragic consequences.

The "investigation," in short, leaves the public, which has a right to know what actually is going on in all educational activities, virtually where it was, with its doubts unanswered. A more thorough and candid inquiry, we are confident, would have emphasized the character of the University of Chicago as one of the world's greatest institutions of higher learning, disparaged unjustly but not without reason by a few of its members who are willing to exploit their own ego at its expense or impair its public repute by the advertisment of their own subversive theories.

With this outcome of Mr. Walgreen's protest the trustees of the university must be as dissatisfied as other friends of the institution are and will know how to correct the conditions which brought it about.

THE CHANGING CITY PLAN.

The physical conditions of life in Chicago have undergone profound changes since the Chicago Plan was conceived. The Plan must be subjected to continual modification to take account of these changes if it is to be of service to the community. That was the theme which Col. Albert A. Sprague, chairman of the Plan commission, emphasized in his interview the other day and it cannot be repeated too often.

Since the Plan commission was organized in 1909 the automobile has come into general use. The filling in of the lake shore as indicated in the Burnham plan has been of invaluable service in providing express highways north and south along the lake, but experience has shown that others equally free of cross-trafic are required to the west. The widening of boulevards and through streets has not met the need either for greater safety or greater mobility. Elevated highways which were not required in 1909, except possibly in the central area, are now needed to carry trafic across the city, and the Plan commission has rightly directed its attention to this problem.

The automobile has created a parking problem as well as a highway problem. This matter, too, has received some attention from the commission and no doubt will be given additional study. No city has yet evolved an adequate solution.

Under Col. Sprague's able leadership the commission has been giving careful study to the question of locating an airport close to the business district and yet free from the hazards presented by tall buildings. It is significant that the commission is on record as favoring lake front landing fields, for the Plan commission can hardly be suspected of being indifferent to the physical beauty of the shore line or its value for recreational purposes.

A few of the changes dictated by mechanical progress in the last quarter century have been mentioned. Other changes have been necessitated by shifts in the centers of population. Areas that were open prairie 25 years ago are now heavily populated and areas which then were crowded are now characterized as "blighted." In the face of these mass movements numerous revisions in the Plan must be made to provide adequate facilities for the people where they want them and with a further view to removing eyesores.

Col. Sprague emphasizes the need for constant revision, but he is far from saying that the original plan must be discarded. No one with his roots as deeply sunk in the soil of Chicago as are Col. Sprague's could suggest the scrapping of the Burnham-Wacker conception. It is precisely because he recognizes its larger values that he insists upon regarding the Plan as a growing, not a finished, thing. He is carrying on the tradition of the fathers of the Plan when he proposes reconsideration of its details and the bringing of new blood into the organization.

ALABAMA PITTS AT BAT.

Judge Landis in ruling on the case of Alabama Pitts had to be something of a Solomon. The judge, as the court of last resort in professional baseball, had to decide whether or not an athlete paroled from Sing Sing penitentiary might play baseball on Johnny Evers' Albany team. The president of the minor league organization had said it was not to be permitted. Judge Landis reversed him, and Pitts is to play.

The dilemma lay between two questions: Should a prison career be made an attraction for box office purposes in a popular sport? Should a man convicted of a felony, having behaved himself under punishment and paroled on good behavior, be denied the best chance he had of making his living and reëntering society as a self-supporting person?

In prison Pitts was a triple threat half back and a good baseball player. The athletic opportunities at Sing Sing were such as permitted the penitentiary star to gain almost as great a reputation as any of the boys who played on college fields. Sports made prison life a slightly fantastic affair, and in the fall Sing Sing in the public eye took on a fairly good collegiate color. What effect this has upon the general public state of mind can be merely conjectured. Certainly some of the seriousness of criminal consequences diminished as the prison sports gained a fandom outside the prison walls.

That the Albany club wanted Pitts because he had made his reputation as an athlete while he was imprisoned cannot be doubted. He had gained a press and no doubt has a fan mail. Judge Landis has ruled that regardless of the extraordinary circumstances the young man has a chance to become a self-supporting, orderly member of society, and organized baseball will not deny it to him. The wisdom of the ruling will be determined somewhat by the young man himself and somewhat by the public attitude towards the morals of the event.

Editorial of the Day

[Decatur Herald.]

The house of representatives recently approved and sent to the senate a bill repealing the provision in the District of Columbia liquor law that requires a bartender to mix cocktails and such underneath the counter, out of sight of the patron. Hereafter, according to the repealer, the mixologist will perform his rites above board with the customer watching and, perhaps, offering helpful suggestions.

Novices in drink mixing, young men recently graduated from the spigots of soda fountains, may not take kindly to the suggested change. They are not yet adept in the technique of blending two or three kinds of dynamite to make one smooth chalice of ambrosia, and they may like to refer to recipes pasted underneath the bar.

The old time bartenders, proud of their skill and able to judge with the eye the proper portion of authority or guile for any concoction ordered, will rejoice. Every ingredient will be added with the proper flourish and the mixing will become a rite rather than an exercise. The old restriction cramped their style. Their light, long hidden under a slab of mahogany, will shine again. Incidentally, the fabled "10,000 mile cherry" which is alleged to have traveled out of, and back to, the unseen mixing bar since repeal arrived in Washington now is due to be retired.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE BISHOP OF EXETER in describing to the House of Lords what he saw in a recent visit to Chicago said: "I saw there men starving, and just outside was the fertile province of Illinois, where I think they were burning their crops because they could not sell them. I asked why they didn't bring food to those starving people. The answer was two great machines controlled that Democracy—Democratic and Republican. One of the most interesting places I saw in Chicago was where gangsters went firing machine guns in a busy street. Where there was money a gangster could shoot with impunity, and as long as there is money to be made there need be no fear." I fear me, Bishop, that some one in New York told you those things. Oh, Bishop of Exeter! You can't believe a single word they tell you in New York about Chicago. Not a word, Bishop, not a single word! But if you do visit Chicago again, Bishop, please take me with you when you go around to see the things you speak of. Sometimes I think Chicago is a very unexciting place, but when I read what you saw here I want to strap on a couple of revolvers and carry my double barreled shotgun and start out in quest of adventure. But it's strange, Bishop, that you didn't see the Apaches and the Sioux, as well as the Siwash, scalping the whites in State street or on the Boul Mich. The Indians have been on the warpath for some time now and they often dash into Chicago ostensibly to kill the wild buffalo that roam in great herds along the Lake Front. If you will see me, Bishop, the next time you visit our fair city I will tell you the truth about things and show you the Indians screaming like fiends as they shoot their poisoned arrows at the brave drug store cowboys who are trying to drive them back to their reservation in Englewood. Do come back, Bishop; I should love to have you show me around. And then I could tell you the truth about our Chicago—the Indian raids, the big buffalo hunts on the Lake Front, and show you the elk and moose and grizzly bears roaming around the loop.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

MR. ROOSEVELT announces he is out to split great fortunes. God help the rich; the poor don't have to sell their steam yachts.

AND THE STIFF TAXATION on riches just approved by congress is going to stop one thing. Nobody is going around bragging he's a millionaire. And you'd better not get careless, no matter how mad you get, and call a man a millionaire after this. He's liable to strip off his coat and come at you with fists doubled as he says, "Smile when you say that; that's a fighting word where I come from."

MOST OF THE VERY RICH are down to their last steam yachts anyhow. But maybe the new increased-tax collectors will look suspicious at a smart looking automobile. And, darn the luck, I just had mine painted yesterday and it glistens now like the open air tiger's cage in the circus street parade. I'm going right out and sling mud on it and give it a swift kick in the fenders.

AS BETWEEN Mr. Roosevelt's "Share the Wealth" plan and that of Huey Long I don't care much. But when do I get my share? And how much? Can I carry my share in a wheelbarrow or will I need a coal wagon?

ANYHOW, THIS "SHARE THE WEALTH" thing sounds mighty good. If I get a share of riches here and a share there maybe after a while I can get quite a lot of money. Not that I am avaricious and greedy. Far from such. I deny that I would wish to have a million dollars. All I want is $999,999.75. If I had two bits more that would put me in the millionaire class, and the "Share the Wealth" boys would be after me, too.

"RIRE ET FAIRE RIRE."
(A motto of one François Marie Arouet, also called "Voltaire.")

Laugh, lad! And make others laugh—
Why else are we sapient apes together?
Laugh, lass! And let others laugh . . .
Let the theologians say "whence," "whither," and
"whether."

Grin, if you can, at the aching comedy;
Mountebank-man's a Falstaffian strain—
All you'll inherit is banked in a mirth-roll:
Chuckle away at the mise en scène.

Weighty philosophers strode peerless Athens,
Earth-shaking striders of mightiest mien,
Minds macrocosmic—aye, multimentalities . . .
Who, now, and where are they—these seers unseen?

Where are the youths we shared into the Argonne?
What has become of their sacrifice-flame?
Bandits and pundits, politico-diplomats . . .
Still play the same vile and selfish-staked game.

Laugh, lad! And make others laugh—
Why else are we sapient apes together?
Laugh, lass! And let others laugh . . .
Let the theologians say "whence, "whither," and

IS ICE CREAM A SAFE FOOD?

FROZEN milk pudding, now called ice cream, is consumed in larger quantities than any other milk preparation. The annual per capita consumption of ice cream in the United States is somewhat in excess of three gallons, or approximately one-half pint per person per week.

As a rule ice cream is not kept for a long period of time. This is fortunate, because we cannot depend upon a freezing temperature to kill all disease producing bacteria. It is only through cleanliness of manufacture, "untouched by human hands," and the pasteurization of the mixture before freezing that it is kept a relatively safe product. Whenever poisoning from ice cream does occur, it is usually traceable to foul utensils, contaminated hands, or insanitary conditions surrounding the manufacture of the product.

The industry started in a small way. In 1851 Jacob Fussell, a Baltimore milk dealer, manufactured the first ice cream sold at wholesale in the United States. He found himself with more cream on hand than could be disposed of and conceived the notion that by freezing cream he could preserve it from spoilage and market it in iced containers. About ten years later mechanical refrigeration came upon the scene and with it the manufacture and storage of ice cream on a large scale.

The ice cream cone was first used at the St. Louis world's fair. About the same time a machine called the homogenizer that broke up the globules of cream fat into very fine particles was invented by Gaulin of Paris. This device not only assisted in preparing a smoother "mix" but prevented the churning of cream into butter during the freezing process.

Years ago ice cream was condemned by medical and lay authorities alike as a possible source of intestinal disease. There was good reason for the warning. In 1894 examinations were made of samples of ice cream sold in London, with the startling result that the number of bacteria found practically equaled those contained in ordinary sewage. The water in which ice cream dishes were washed was also examined and found to be alive with organisms.

Before pasteurization came into general vogue in the manufacture of this popular food, numerous outbreaks of typhoid fever were traced to ice cream. In all, more than thirty epidemics, one of which involved 1,800 persons, came from this source.

All of this has changed. Under city, state, and federal health regulations the manufacture of ice cream, for the most part, is now carried out under sanitary conditions. Before freezing, the mixture is pasteurized at a sufficiently high temperature to kill disease germs.

Although pasteurization of the cream mixture is required in some states, it is not required in all, as it is well known that bacteria can enter the product through contamination by persons engaged in the manufacture, through flavoring materials, dyes, and dirt. All of which emphasizes the importance of thorough sterilization of utensils and containers, and the heating (pasteurization) of the mixture to 150 degrees F. for one-half hour. Furthermore, individuals with colds and infections and those with unclean habits should be excluded from manufacturing plants.

We may make ice cream under sanitary conditions and it may be in all respects fit for food, but carelessness in retailing may completely defeat every precaution. The article may be served in a soiled dish or in a dust laden carton. The ladle used may be taken from rinse water alive with bacteria. Original packages that are put up at the manufacturing plant are far safer.

Due to the widespread use of this frozen delicacy, ice cream manufacturers vie with each other in putting out a superior product—one that is prepared in a thoroughly scientific and sanitary manner and that has a high food value.

Ice cream is an excellent food even for invalids, but it must be clean and reasonably free from bacteria. Contaminated ice cream can become a frightful menace.

CREAKING JOINTS.

A reader writes: I have a friend who had to give up her profession of dancing because of creaking joints and swishing kneecaps. Is there any cure for this annoying condition?

REPLY:

Creaking knees are usually the result of too little synovial fluid. The ends of bones that form joints are covered with cartilage and this in turn is covered with a membrane called synovial. This membrane secretes a fluid that helps the joints to move smoothly and silently. Whenever the cartilage becomes absorbed or roughened as a result of disease [such as arthritis] or should there be too little synovial fluid joints will snap and creak.

It is necessary to employ rest and moist heat for hours at a time to remedy the condition.

DILATED PUPILS.

F. J. B. writes: I had trouble with my eyes and atropine was used to dilate the pupils, which have never gone back to their normal size. I can see much better out of a small hole than I can when the pupils are wide open. I have had this trouble four years.

REPLY:

If the condition is four years old it is not due to the atropine used, as the effects of this drug usually wear off within a few days. There may be some disease of the nerve or the muscle that controls the iris [pupil]. There are drugs that will contract the pupil and your physician may advise their use.

WARTS.

J. T. M. writes: I read where a woman got rid of warts by using castor oil. I tried it and now have five warts.

REPLY:

Any drug or other irritant that causes stimulation of the so-called prickle cells of the skin may cause those cells to grow, with the development of warts. Oil from the castor bean [castor oil] has long been a household remedy for warts. It may be too irritating for your skin.

Warts may be removed by the electric needle or cautery. Nitric acid, skilfully used, is satisfactory. X-ray or radium may be necessary if the warts are extensive.

MORTGAGE SECURITY.

Aurora, Ill., June 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I accepted HOLC bonds for a mortgage on property in a western state. The mortgagor agreed to pay any discount I would have to take to sell the bonds. On the day they were delivered to me they sold at a discount, but I did not sell them. Is there any provision in the law in connection with the HOLC which would penalize me if I collect the discount and commission charged by the bank as agreed? 2. As guardian of a minor in a western state, I got permission from the Probate court there to bring him back to Illinois, where is now living. His behavior is bad, and I want to know whether the western state still has jurisdiction in this matter, or whether the Probate court of this county in Illinois would have jurisdiction. S. W. M.

1. In a case decided Feb. 19, 1935, in New York City and reported in 2 U. S. L. W. 630, it was held that a second mortgage holder cannot enforce against the mortgagors a secret agreement by which the mortgagors obligated themselves to pay the mortgagees the amount relinquished and to execute another mortgage to secure the payment of such amount. The collateral agreement is void under a provision of the home owners loan act that "no loan will be made where a separate understanding or agreement calling for any payments other than those required by the corporation is made between the debtor and the holder of the mortgage. Additional penalties are specified in the act.

2. We suggest that you first take the matter up with the Juvenile court here.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TERMS OF WILL.

Decatur, Ill., June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—This relates to a certain will made by a man whose death occurred nine years ago, his wife being beneficiary to the estate, consisting of five city properties, to be held intact, she to receive the income until her death, [1] then to be equally divided among five children. In the meantime one of the children died, being unmarried and leaving no estate. There is a $2,000 mortgage on the four rental properties [the fifth of which she occupies], and the four children surviving are willing to assume this mortgage, share and share alike, and take over said properties. The mother is willing for the children to do so. She still has possession of the home and also the income from 200 acres of farm land. 2. Would the son, who died two months previous to his father's death, in any way interfere with this division? H. M.

1. It seems probable that the will is so worded as to give a vested interest to these five children.

2. It might be necessary to probate the estate and the claims of creditors of the deceased child might interfere with the distribution. We advise the employment of an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

STOLEN PASSPORT.

Chicago, June 13.—[Friend of the People.]—1. What would a person do who has had his passport stolen? Could he get a duplicate, and, if so, where? 2. Also, if a British subject wishes to enter Canada to live, does he need a passport and where would he apply for one? Does he need to pay head tax? M. M.

1. If a foreign passport is referred to, inquiry should be made of the consul of the country of which subject is a citizen. If an American passport is involved, inquiry should be made of the passport agent, state department, New Postoffice building, Chicago.

2. This inquiry should be made of the British consul. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT, District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

The DEBUNKER
By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

A leading New York psychiatrist recently stated that "by the age of 25 the average man is already on the decline intellectually as well as physically," and except in situations involving previous experience, the younger man is a "better bet" than the older man. These conclusions apply to the average man, and not to all men.

FROM A STREET CAR BONDHOLDER.

Chicago, June 17.—Announcement in THE TRIBUNE that the surface lines have solicited bids for 100 new street cars is of more than passing interest to users of this form of transportation, but how about the forgotten bondholders whose bonds were due ten years ago and have not been paid?

The company went into receivership for a debt of $60,000, yet they pay the president $150,000 a year (from paper reports) and the receiver gets $100,000 a year. They bought $3,000,000 worth of tax warrants and made more than that amount during the World's Fair. And now they want to buy new street cars.

I am the holder of $20,000 worth of bonds and if I only had part of that money due me I would not be on the verge of eviction from my home.

The bankers, who got the majority of people to turn over their bonds by honeyed words and false promises of collecting for bondholders, have done nothing. I think it is about time that the bondholders themselves get together and demand their just due, for if the street car company has money for everything else they should be compelled to pay the bondholders. It is not new street cars we need, but a little of the cash due us for which we have waited patiently for over ten years. MARTHA MCNABB.

NO ADVANCES.

Chicago, June 16.—I have just read a letter of protest against the use of Grant park by men the writer of the letter calls tramps and morons, "half" of whom she states "try to make advances."

I also am a woman and I have walked in Grant park many times. I have never seen "advances" made to any woman. The men naturally glance at the passersby, as the writer of the letter glanced at them, otherwise she would not have noticed some of them had removed their shoes. H. S.

UNSATISFIED.

Chicago, June 14.—The three senators, Graham, Hickman, and Barbour, put a stop to any further investigation by the committee into communistic teachings at the University of Chicago. This investigation, so I read in all the papers, was to be honest, nonpartisan, and public. How about, at election time, putting the senators on the shelf, where they belong, after such a farce? Is there no justice and a way to get at the truth in such an investigation? DOROTHY W. LONN.

YOU DON'T SAY!

Silverhill, Ala., June 17.—There is going to be war between the states and in Europe. By July 15 they will be fighting. The crops all through the middle west and in the east are going to burn up in a heat wave. This nation is going to receive what Israel received when they forget God. G. W. UTTER.

FREE DISCUSSION.

Chicago, June 16.—May I take the liberty of replying to Mr. L. E. Scott's letter in Saturday's TRIBUNE wherein he waxes ironic over Secretary Ickes' heartening words in defense of academic freedom? Mr. Ickes does not "favor the teaching in our schools of socialism or communism." He does not advocate the "teaching" of any radical political doctrin. But he does believe in the necessity of keeping the fresh air of our classrooms free from the disease germs of prejudice and bigotry.

Why is it disloyal to the Stars and Stripes to study the governmental ideas of other countries? Is it possible that our superpatriots are afraid that our democracy will suffer by comparison with communism or any other "ism"? Why should our students be forced to remain in ignorance of the facts concerning political and social doctrins that affect hundreds of millions of people throughout the world simply because our self-proclaimed patriots are too thick headed or cowardly to be open minded? AUGUST PHILLIPS.

AGRICULTURAL POLICY.

Chicago, June 15.—It looks like you boys are going to have to squirm around some way or other and put the scorch on the dear old grass rooters for what looks suspiciously like an indorsement of your favorite gripe, Henry Wallace.

After you get through doing that, take a good look at Canada's present wheat problem and learn, if you can, what happens when you haven't a guy like Henry around to point out the common sense of reducing production to somewhere near consumption.

If the world wants wheat at 36 cents a bushel and cotton at 5 cents a pound, let them sweat it out of the ground themselves. If you think we can fatten up over here at those prices, try it out some Thursday on your famous experimental farm and see how quickly you back away.

You and the grasshoppers really ought to get together on your stories. You wouldn't sound half so funny. AMUSED.

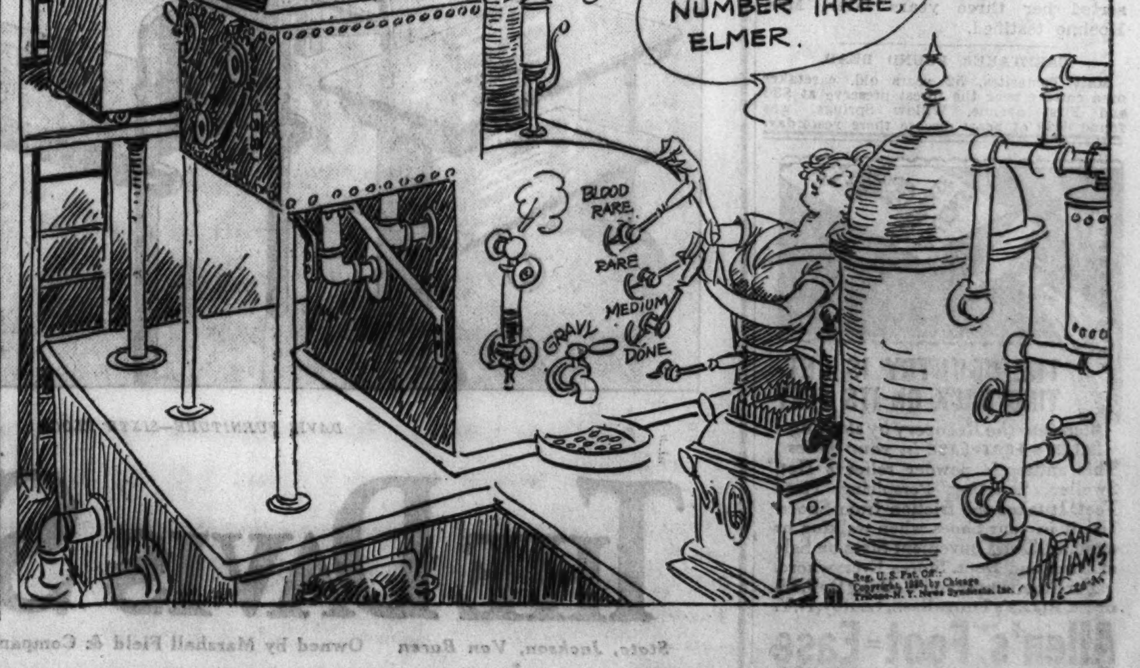
THE OAK PARK SLUGGINGS.

Chicago, June 18.—The Young Republicans' organization of the 22d ward urges you to continue your investigation into the Oak Park sluggings and the tactics of the Chicago police department under the direction of Capt. Daniel M. Gilbert, head of the so-called labor squad. C. HAVLIN, Chairman.

BICYCLES IN THE PARK.

Chicago, June 17.—Every time I go through the park I certainly am annoyed by bicycle riders. It's a wonder that they don't knock over baby carriages or pedestrians. Isn't the street wide enough? KITTY TYCHER.

OUR MARVELOUS MACHINE AGE



CHINESE BEGIN EXODUS BEFORE SURGE OF JAPS

Brave Gobi Desert to Seek Safety.

KALGAN, Chahar Province, China, June 20.—(AP)—Many Chinese, fearing that Japan's relentless penetration of China soon will engulf all Inner Mongolia, today were leaving this outpost on the caravan route across the Gobi desert.

They carried with them their wealth and belongings to seek farther south places of greater safety from the surge of Japan's advance into continental Asia.

Business men and Chinese officials agreed that Japan ultimately would reduce Kalgan, the picturesque frontier city at China's Great Wall, the rich province of Chahar and probably all Inner Mongolia to the status of Hopei province, which has come under the Japanese army's virtual domination.

Concessions Extended.

In support of that belief they cited the growing list of Chinese concessions to the Japanese army's demands and increasing evidences here of Japan's military might. These included:

1. Gov. Sung Cheh-yuan's dismissal by Nanking.

2. Authoritative reports that Sung's army would be removed shortly.

3. A swift increase in the Japanese population of Kalgan.

4. Presence of mysterious Japanese, often in Chinese garb, at the railway station to survey arrivals and departures.

5. Chinese officials' abolishment of Chahar branches of the Kuomintang, the national government party.

7. The reported granting of permission for the Japanese to construct an airdrome near Kalgan.

Airplanes Unhindered.

Though Japanese airplanes swoop low over the city and troops stationed in Manchukuo roam freely about Chahar's eastern limits, Gen. Sung's troops, warned not to provoke the Japanese, have offered no resistance.

A high staf officer of the provincial government told the Associated Press that Chahar province ultimately would be demilitarized on Japan's wish—which "may satisfy the Japanese temporarily," he commented, "though it is doubtful whether they will be contented in the long run with anything short of direct control."

Appeals to United States.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—The state department today acknowledged receipt of a cablegram from Chancellor Chow Lu of Sun Yat-sen university in Canton appealing for aid against Japanese aggression in north China.

Officials said Secretary Hull had no comment. What, if any, action he might take on the chancellor's request that copies of his message be forwarded to all signatories of the nine power treaty was not disclosed.

FIVE MORE BELIEVED VICTIMS OF FLOODS THAT SWEEP TEXAS

Dallas, Tex., June 30.—(AP)—Floods and rainstorms apparently had taken five more lives in Texas today, making a total of twenty-three deaths within a week.

At least six persons were missing in the vicinity of Uvalde while the various storms and floods had caused damage estimated at more than $6,000,000.

Three Eagle Lake men were believed drowned, although their bodies had not been recovered.

A windstorm near Ralls, on the south plains of west Texas, resulted in the deaths last night of W. T. [Bob] Easter, 60, and his wife, 55. Their home was destroyed.

In the panhandle two large dams and all subordinate dykes on the Hoover-Strader lake system near Canadian were washed out as nine inches of rain fell in twenty minutes. Thousands of game fish, including bass weighing as much as 10 pounds, were scattered over the prairie.

MANVILLE WILL SEEK SEPARATION FROM 4TH WIFE

New York, June 20.—(AP)—Tommy Manville, heir to the asbestos millions, today announced he had instructed his attorneys to start suit for separation against his fourth wife, Marcelle Edwards, "Follies girl."

Manville announced that his wife had knocked at his door late last night with two companions and characterized the visit as "a raid."

He said that he had barricaded the door and telephoned for a policeman, who persuaded the callers to go away. He added that he was alone in his hotel apartment and in bed at the time.

Manville said that his wife, who joined the cast of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" last Tuesday, had been offered $1,000 a month separate maintenance, but had asked for a lump sum instead.

SERBIA'S CABINET OUT; FIGHT OVER WHO KILLED KING

Croat Ministers Quit After Leader Is Attacked.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, June 20.—(AP)—A heated political argument among his ministers late today led to the resignation of Premier Bogolyus Yevtich's six months old government.

The question of responsibility for the assassination of the late King Alexander at Marseilles last October—the same issue that brought Jugo-Slavia and Hungary to hot words over league of nations council tables—figured in the quarrel.

Milan Banich, member of parliament, in an address yesterday, sharply assailed the Croat leader, Dr. Vladko Machek, and Croats in general. Banich accused them of complicity in Alexander's death and of seeking to destroy Jugo-Slavia.

Croat Ministers Angry.

His speech fired Marko Kozhulj, Croat minister of public works, to such anger that he demanded that Yevtich publicly repudiate Banich. When the premier hesitated, Kozhulj resigned. Two other Croat members thereupon quit, demanding that the whole cabinet resign.

At that Gen. Pera Ziykovich, minister of war, "strong man" in several cabinets and Jugo-Slavia's man of mystery, also resigned, forcing the premier to submit the resignation of the entire cabinet.

The head of the governing regency accepted the resignation, but entrusted Yevtich to continue handling governmental affairs until the new premier was designated.

It was generally believed Milan Stoynovich, outgoing minister of finance, would succeed Yevtich.

Shakeup Precedes Dispute.

A cabinet shakeup took place earlier in the day, before the political dispute flared, when M. Marushich, who held the social policy portfolio, was made minister of education succeeding Steven Shirich, who had been elected president of the skupshtina [the lower chamber of the Jugo-Slav parliament]. Hasan Begovich, minister without portfolio, took the social policy post.

Yevtich said a conference of the little entente nations, which was scheduled to take place Saturday, must be postponed until a new government is formed. Likewise a planned meeting between Yevtich and Premier Mussolini of Italy has been called off.

Those well informed politically voiced the opinion that the real cause of the cabinet fall was Yevtich's intention personally to negotiate with Mussolini in order to reach a better understanding between the two nations. It was pointed out that anti-Italian tendencies in Jugo-Slavia have been growing since the recent visit of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier. Goering had a long conference with Stoynovich, who studied in Germany.

LACK OF WATER PERILS ITALIAN ARMY IN AFRICA

Hundreds Reported to Be Dying of Thirst.

So far no sentiment against all whites in general has been started. Nevertheless, it is feared the Ethiopians in time of war might vent their hatred of Italians with little discrimination, especially in outlying districts where white people from time immemorial have been regarded as grasping intruders.

While saying he himself has gone on hunting trips without escort, a French official advised this correspondent against driving toward the Ethiopian frontier.

The natives are well armed and their one desire when they get a gun, he said, is to use it. He did not refuse the writer permission to circulate at will in French Somaliland, but indicated he expected visitors to refrain from any act that mght cause embarrassment to the French government, such as would arise if a border native took a pot shot at THE TRIBUNE man.

No Roads to Eritrea.

As for driving out to the frontier of Italian Eritrea, there is nothing doing. It does not look far on the map and it is not really far, but there are no roads. There are only camel paths and man sized mountains to cross. The procedure, if one is adventurous—the ordinary communications are carried on exclusively by sea—would be to cross Djibouti bay in an Arab dhow [sailboat], gather a caravan at Obok and start northward with the hope of arriving five or six weeks later.

A couple of British youths set the record for the Djibouti to Assab [Eritrea] trip a few years ago. They went in mountaineering trucks with a large supply of gasoline and oil. In some parts the mountain gorges were so deep the trucks had to be carried across by natives. The trip required two months. It's the record.

Warriors Cast Aside Shoes.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, June 20.—Ethiopia's tribal warriors cast aside their shoes today, ready to "defend the empire to the last man" against an anticipated Italian invasion.

European military advisers had tried to introduce the footwear, but the troops reverted to bare feet while plunging with almost fanatical fervor into a new, voluntary military training program.

"The shoes have been abandoned because agility and mobility was impaired," a high official said. "They were also an unnecessary expense. When the times comes, our soldiers will fight with bullets, spears, and sabers—not with their feet!"

The tribesmen submitted to western ways in one respect, doing away with the cumbersome and conspicuous white togas which are the national dress, adopting instead khaki garb to camouflage their movements.

The emperor's call for voluntary enlistment placed no restrictions on age. Elderly men were preferred, being considered more accustomed to the hardships of a rugged outdoor life.

WOMAN LECTURER UPHOLDS DUCE'S ETHIOPIAN POLICY

Italians, including many residing in the United States, are heartily in sympathy with the policies of Mussolini toward Ethiopia and would regard a war with that ancient kingdom as a defense of Italian rights and territorial integrity. This was the statement made in Chicago yesterday by Miss Carla Orlando, daughter of Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, Italy's wartime premier and executive secretary of the Italy-America society.

Here on a lecture tour, Miss Orlando questioned the authenticity of reports from Italy that preparations for a fight with Ethiopia are unpopular among the people and that Il Duce is encountering difficulties in raising an army for an African campaign.

"The Italians regard the Ethiopian border question as a patriotic issue," Miss Orlando said. "They do not consider this a war of aggression but one of defense, defense of Italian prestige and territory."

Miss Orlando lectured before the Italy-America society at the Tavern club yesterday afternoon on "Twenty Centuries of Italian Gardens." She will repeat this lecture before the Lake Forest Garden club this afternoon.

ITALY'S CAMPAIGN IN AFRICA COST $18,000,000 IN MAY

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—Italy's preparations for "following the line of her undeniable rights" in East Africa cost the Italian taxpayer some 225,000,000 lire [about $18,000,000] during May, a treasury statement disclosed today.

For the 11 months in the present fiscal year the Fascist government spent 845,000,000 lire in Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

The total treasury deficit for May was given as 314,000,000 lire, and for the 11 month period 2,509,000,000 lire. The corresponding 11 months of the last fiscal year, however, showed a deficit of 3,743,000,000 lire. [The lira is currently quoted at slightly more than 8 cents.]

HERE IS A GUIDE TO THE PRONUNCIATION OF NAMES IN EAST AFRICA

Here is a guide to the pronunciation of some of the geographical names appearing in news dispatches from east Africa in connection with the war which is threatened between Italy and Ethiopia:

ADDIS ABABA, capital of Ethiopia—AD [as in father]; is [as in ill]; A [as in father]; ba-ba [a's as in ask]. The accent is placed on the first and third syllables.

BAB EL MANDEB, straits between Arabia and east Africa uniting the Red sea and Indian ocean—BAB [as in father]; el [as in end]; MAN [as in father]; deb [as in end]. Principal accent on third syllable. The name, "Gate of Tears," comes from the navigation dangers in the strait.

DJIBOUTI, port of French Somaliland—Je [as in eve]; boo [as in food]; te [as in eve]. Principal accent on last syllable.

MASSAUA, port of Eritrea—Mas-SA-wa. [All the a's as in father.] Accent second syllable.

ERITREA, Italian colony—E [as a in ale]; ri [i as first e in create]; TRE [as in end], a [as in father]. The secondary accent is placed on the first syllable, while the principal accent is on the third.

SOMALILAND—So [o as in obey]; MA [as in father]; le [as in e in create]; LAND [as in am]. Principal accent on second syllable, secondary accent on third.

ASMARA, capital of Eritrea—As-MA-ra [all the a's as in father]. Accent second syllable.

The principal port of Italian Somaliland has a number of spellings, including: Mogadishu, Mogdishu, Mogadoxo, Magadiscio. Webster's New International dictionary uses Mogadishu and pronounces it MO [as in old]; ga [as in staf]; DE [as in eve]; shoo [as in moon]. Secondary accent on first syllable, principal accent on the third.

CAPITAL MUM ON ARMS STAND IN ETHIOPIAN CRISIS

U. S. Munitions Makers Ready to Ship.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—With American munitions factories preparing to rush arms to Ethiopia to be used by Emperor Haile Selassie in resisting Italian aggression, the administration continued to be silent today on its policy toward military shipments.

The state department, which has been following the African developments eagerly, has avoided pronouncement on arms sales to Ethiopia and Italy. Inquiry as to the department's position drew the answer that the department has not stated its position and does not intend to do so at this time.

No Laws to Prevent Sale.

At present there are no laws under which arms shipments could be barred to either of the impending combatants. Several bills, which would withhold war supplies from countries in situations similar to the Ethiopian-Italian crisis, are pending in congress, but are conceded to have little chance of passage at this session.

The failure of either of the countries involved to declare war has complicated the situation from the viewpoint of the state department. Should Italy declare war and publicly admit its rôle of aggressor, the state department might make a formal announcement that this government did not favor arms shipments to Italy.

While a mere expression of position on the part of the administration would not halt shipment of arms, such a declaration of policy might curtail shipments, it was said. It was reported that such a declaration in all likelihood would follow a declaration of war.

Should such expression fail to achieve the desired effect, the administration may follow the precedent set in the Gran Chaco dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay. By authority of a congressional resolution, President Roosevelt barred arms shipments to both belligerents.

A resolution in the Ethiopian-Italian situation might be drafted and passed by congress to give the President authority to halt munitions shipments to both or either of the countries, even without a declaration of war, it was said.

ROB SAFE IN UNION OFFICE.

Burglars broke open a safe in the office of local 62 of the Carpenters' union in Carpenters' hall, 6414 South Halsted street, some time Wednesday night and took between $200 and $300.

PARK BOARD BANS PROTEST PARADE BY NEGRO GROUP

The Chicago park district commissioners yesterday refused a permit to the Negro World alliance for a parade on Sunday in South park way from 31st street to Washington park. The colored group, through Jacob R. Tipper, editor of the Chicago World, said the parade would be a protest against Mussolini's policy toward Ethiopia.

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district, recommended refusal of the permit. He said: "There is no need for a protest in Chicago against what people are doing in Europe."

Snapshots bring 'em back Alive!

THERE ARE just as good pictures in the sea as have ever been caught. This pair will bring some home. Try it—one of the best sports ever discovered. Kodak as you go.

HE DOESN'T NEED a tape measure to prove how big they are—the picture tells the story. Give snapshots the job of telling stories for you.

(Above) WHEN THE SHOOTING'S OVER, there's always this to look forward to—the finished pictures. Aren't they grand? Something to save—something to keep the memories fresh for years to come.

(Below) SUCH A LITTLE FELLOW—but so well worth shooting. Have you one like this in your family? How long since you've made snapshots of him?

YOUR KODAK will be an important member of the party. For after it's all over you'll have your snapshots. Days pass and people scatter, but snapshots bring 'em back alive.

Try it out this week-end. Join the army of snapshooters who are taking advantage of these summer days—chock-full of snapshot opportunities. Get some of the pictures around home, too, while the flowers are blooming and everything's at its best. You're never sorry you have the snapshots—you're always sorry when you haven't.

Kodaks as low as $5; Brownies from $1 up . . . at your dealer's.

LOAD UP WITH KODAK VERICHROME FILM FOR THE WEEK-END

ANY CAMERA IS A BETTER CAMERA when it's loaded with Kodak Verichrome Film. Good snapshots come twice as easy—you get them in the shade and on cloudy days, as well as in the sun. You get the natural expressions of people, true to life. Your pictures "turn out." Don't take chances with the snapshots which may be so precious later on. Always use Verichrome and be sure : : : Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

DUCE THREATENS TO BOLT LEAGUE IN AFRICAN ROW

Ethiopia Asks Geneva to Curb Italy.

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—Italy tonight was authoritatively reported ready to follow Japan and Germany out of the league of nations if the league council intervenes in her dispute with Ethiopia.

That threat was voiced in high quarters after Ethiopia, in another note to Geneva, invoked article X. of the league covenant binding league members to respect the independence and territorial integrity of other nations.

Growing Tension Emphasized.

Two other developments in the course of the day served to emphasize the growing tension between the European and the African kingdoms:

FIRST—The foreign office received information that an Ethiopian aviator had torn the flag from an Italian legation automobile at Addis Ababa, and that the Italian minister there had protested vigorously.

SECOND—A front page article in the usually authoritative, sometime officially inspired Giornale D'Italia said Ethiopia should be ousted from the league because of her alleged non-fulfillment of conditions under which she entered the Geneva body.

The Italian government does not regard its controversy with Ethiopia as within the league's competence, it was stated. This contention was outlined in the publication "Affari Esteri" [foreign affairs], which said:

"The question is one which Italy intends to regulate following the line of her undeniable right."

Italy Voices Her Indifference.

Referring to articles X. and XV. of the league covenant [the articles Ethiopia invoked in several appeals], the publication said, "such references leave Italy completely indifferent" and declared article X., which guarantees the territorial integrity of nations, does not apply because it has been vitiated by the league's non-application of article XIX., which deals with territorial division.

Affari Esteri asserted these two articles were written to go together, and XIX. must be considered complementary to X. Mentioning Japan's and Germany's departure from the league, it said:

"Italy is on the threshold. One thing is evident: If another great European state leaves Geneva, the league is dead."

Charges Slavery Exists.

Giornale's suggestion that Ethiopia be forced out of the league was based on allegations that the African empire had not demonstrated ability to control all the territory governed from Addis Ababa, had not fulfilled the agreement limiting arms imports and had not abolished slavery.

Meanwhile it was learned the foreign office regarded as grave the diplomatic incident occurring at Addis Ababa in which, information received here said, an Italian flag was torn from the automobile of G. Mombelli, first secretary of the Italian legation, and Mombelli's chauffeur assaulted when he protested. The Ethiopian aviator was said to have been arrested.

Says War "Seems Imminent."

GENEVA, June 20.—(AP)—Ethiopia, in another protest to the league of nations, today charged Italy with preparing to make war against her.

Invoking the article X. which pledges members to respect the territorial integrity of other members, Emperor Haile Selassie's communication asserted aggression by Italy against "the independence and integrity of Ethiopia seems imminent."

"The Italian government has not ceased and does not cease," it continued, "to send to east Africa troops and munitions of war in large quantities, accompaning this with inflammatory arraignments and speeches full of threats to Ethiopia's independence and integrity."

The note accused the Italian press of constantly publishing reports of frontier incidents "with the manifest intention of disturbing the relations of Italy and Ethiopia." Benito Mussolini's government, it charged, is using these reports of frontier incidents as excuses for the vigorous defensive measures Italy is taking.

A neutral commission should be sent to the Ethiopian frontier, it was suggested, and examine the true state of affairs and report to Geneva.

OMAHA CAR STRIKE ENDS; SAME SCALE OF PAY WILL CONTINUE

Omaha, Neb., June 20.—(AP)—The Omaha street car strike was ended today by Gov. R. L. Cochran's arbitration board, formed under martial law. The 268 strikers will return to work tomorrow.

Military rule had been declared last Saturday after violence in which two persons were killed and about 150 injured. The strike started April 20 and had been punctuated with several outbreaks between strikers and local enforcement officers.

By terms of settlement the returning strikers will receive the same rate of pay as when they walked out two months ago. As to seniority rights, arbitration will continue.

Turkey to Buy 500 War Planes with Patriotic Fund

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 20.—The Turkish government has decided to increase its air force by 500 planes, including 150 bombers, it was learned today. The planes will be purchased in England and a special mission is due to arrive in London soon to negotiate the deal. The sum of $25,000,000, to be raised by patriotic subscription, has been allocated for this purpose.

ROOSEVELT OFF TO SEE SON IN RACE WITH YALE

Talks with Richberg as Departure Nears.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today reiterated his warning that politics must be kept out of relief in outlining the objectives of the rural resettlement division of the 4 billion dollar works relief fund to Division Director Rexford Guy Tugwell and his aids.

The President made his statement shortly before he left Washington for New London, Conn., to witness the annual Harvard-Yale crew races on the Thames river tomorrow afternoon. From New London he will go to the family home at Hyde Park, N. Y., for the week-end.

Doesn't Care for Labels.

"We cannot, we must not, we will not let partisan politics interfere with this work," the President told the aids of his No. 1 brain truster. "I don't care what a family calls itself. if they need help, we have got to help them out."

In his brief talk the President told his hearers to center their attention on getting employables off relief rolls by giving them work on community projects. He cautioned them to keep within the set average of $1,200 per man.

"We want to devote land resources to their highest uses and approach land conservation with the future in mind," he said in charging them to approach their problems humanly and with the highest degree of efficiency, pointing out that the regions in which they will work "will be the reservoirs of the future population of the country."

Will Visit N. Y. Home.

On his return to Washington the President will visit his residence on 65th street in New York City. With Mrs. Roosevelt, other members of his family and a few friends, he will have dinner in his town house Sunday night and leave for the White House at midnight.

The President's chief interest in the races is that his son, Franklin Jr., is a member of the Harvard junior varsity crew. A year ago Mr. Roosevelt journeyed to New London to see his son row for the Harvard freshman crew which lost to the Yale crew.

Several weeks ago the President saw Franklin Jr. and his teammates lose to a Navy crew at Annapolis. This time he hopes his visit will bring his son more luck.

Talks with Richberg.

As he prepared for his departure the President had a long chat with Donald Richberg, who ousted Gen. Hugh Johnson as chief of the old NRA and who in turn resigned without protest from the administration when his legal argument failed to save the Blue Eagle from death at the hands of the Supreme court. Their "good-bys" were exchanged during a desk luncheon in the executive offices.

Richberg said he told the President the present time offers a splendid opportunity to sit back for a calm and careful survey of the NRA to see what can be done to preserve the features of the former setup by legislation.

He added that he believed there is a growing sentiment in congress for such legislation and that he believes a constitutional amendment is not necessary.

ROB GARAGE ATTENDANT.

Three robbers, two of them colored, took $3 from the night attendant at the White Sox garage, 610 West 35th street, early yesterday then drove away with a truck in which they had loaded tires valued at $1,500.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Praise for Bantams.

June 20, 1935.

THE little bantam hens on the Wheaton experimental farm are getting lots of praise from the boys because of the way the birds have stuck to their jobs of incubating game bird eggs. These little hens are all business. They won't let anything interfere with their business of sitting tight on the eggs.

If one of the bantams strikes for "higher wages" it won't be surprising. This particular hen was put on a nest of ringneck pheasant eggs in May. The clutch didn't produce a single bird. The undaunted little bantam has been given some quail eggs. Yesterday she was putting in time on this new job which all of us hope will turn out more successfully. Carl was hesitant about giving the bantam the new assignment, but Matt Woolfe, an experienced game breeder, said that she would keep right on with her work, so she was given the job. Another bantam is going to be given a clutch of ringneck pheasant eggs to see if she will have any better luck with these birds.

A bantam took charge of a setting of Chukar partridge eggs yesterday. This Chukar is such an interesting member of the partridge family that I hope the clutch comes through all right. It's a species that comes from Asia Minor and north Africa, an arid country. The Chukars won't feel very much at home in Chicagoland. The bird has red legs, a red bill, is sandy colored with black bars on its flanks, and much leggier than the Hungarian partridge which farmers and sportsmen see in Chicagoland.

Another interesting bird that is getting some attention at the farm through a setting of eggs is a variety of western or "California" quail known as the Valley quail. This variety is a beauty with a gay topknot. There is one bantam incubating Bob White eggs and another hen will be put to work within a day or two on a second clutch of these eggs.

Then there are eggs of the beautiful Lady Amherst pheasant also being incubated on the farm, so it is going to be mighty interesting to keep an eye on the pens for the next few weeks to see all of these birds hatch out. [Mutant pheasants already have hatched out.]

In setting the quail and Chukar partridge eggs, nests made of about 3 inches of clay, hollowed out in the middle, were provided for the sitting hens. Inside the clay foundation is placed several inches of nesting material.

The sheep are having a great time these days in the rich, flourishing pastures on the farm. The grass is very high as a result of so much rain this spring. Against the deep rich green of the pastures the ewes, sheared of their heavy wool coats, loom up creamy white. The lambs are not nearly so light in color because they still have their grayish coats intact.

Both experimental farms now have guides who will escort visitors over the grounds. Rex Kinsley is the official host at the Wheaton farm, and Charles Doetschman at the Yorkville farm.

CHARGES FRAUDS IN AIDING ALIENS ILLEGALLY IN U. S.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Evidence involving nearly a score of persons, including many government employés, was presented to the federal grand jury today by Assistant Attorney General Samuel H. Kaufman as a part of his special investigation of the activities of a group of racketeers doing a $5,000,000 annual business in forging naturalization papers and passports for aliens illegally in the United States.

Much of the information was obtained from Ben Bergman, reputed head of the ring, who was found dead two weeks ago outside a room he had rented in the Williamsburg branch of the Y. M. C. A. Bergman had told a fairly complete story before his death, but his absence as a witness is admittedly a handicap to the government.

Various estimates of the number of aliens in the United States illegally run from one million to four million.

CUMMINGS ACTS TO SIFT CHARGE OF CORRUPTION

Orders Accusations of Mitchell Aired.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—A sweeping investigation of all charges of graft and corruption made by Ewing Y. Mitchell, who was dismissed from his post as assistant secretary of commerce by President Roosevelt, was ordered today by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Cummings directed Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan and a corps of assistants to press an inquiry and make recommendations regardless of the outcome of the senate commerce committee's investigation. The attorney general's inquiry is not to be limited to Mitchell's charges, he said, but will be "sweeping enough to reach a definite conclusion."

Reveal Opinion Request.

Cummings revealed that Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper brought the question of the sale of ships for scrapping to the department of justice for a legal opinion some time ago. This contract was one of the "appearance of corruption" in the department of commerce, according to Mitchell.

Late in the Hoover administration, Mitchell has charged, a contract was made between the shipping board and the Boston Iron and Metal company of Baltimore calling for the sale to the latter of 124 ships at $4,600 each. Mitchell said he abrogated the contract when he discovered it, but not before forty ships had been turned over to the iron company and a profit of $35,000 was made on each of the forty ships.

The attorney general dismissed Mitchell's suggestion that he be employed as a dollar a year special assistant to conduct the investigation.

Appears at Senate Hearing.

Meanwhile, Mitchell, who owed his former post to Postmaster Farley, made his second appearance before the senatorial investigating committee and encountered the same hostility he met yesterday. Secretary Roper, who came to the hearing prepared to answer his former subordinate, smiled as Mitchell resumed his table thumping.

Mitchell asserted that the lives of Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico and four others killed in a recent air crash might have been spared if the air commerce bureau had "functioned properly." He also declared that if the steamship Morro Castle had been "properly inspected" before the fatal voyage that ended in fire at sea with the loss of many lives "there might not have been such a disaster."

No "Direct Evidence."

Under sharp questioning by committee members Mitchell said he had no direct evidence of "apparent corruption or graft" in connection with either of the tragedies. He said he believed that correction of "inefficiency" in the department may have prevented them.

At the outset of the hearing Mitchell took issue with President Roosevelt's explanation of the laying up of the Leviathan. Mitchell insists that a "gift" of $1,720,000 was made to the International Mercantile Marine in the contract which retired the vessel.

President "Tells Why."

The President yesterday said that he had approved the retirement of the Leviathan because the contract provided that money the company would otherwise have lost on its operations would be applied to the construction of a new ship.

Mitchell pointed out that if the United States Lines, which he insists is controled by the International Mercantile Marine, was already obliged to build a new ship to keep its ocean mail contracts and there was no reason to make the gift.

Names Vincent Astor.

Mitchell named P. A. S. Franklin, Kermit Roosevelt, and Vincent Astor as controlers of I. M. M. at yesterday's hearing. Astor has been host to the President on fishing excursions aboard the yacht Nourmahal. Kermit Roosevelt has been a guest on such excursions.

If the United States Lines are to renew their contracts for a five year period this fall, Mitchell said, they must construct or recondition two ships for use on one of their routes or by transferring two ships to the route they must build one ship for another route.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In an item yesterday concerning picnics being given by political "boosters' clubs" mention was made of a yacht party for employés in the office of Coroner Frank J. Walsh and their friends and relatives. It was stated that the party would be held tomorrow and that tickets were $1.50 each. Coroner Walsh said yesterday that the party will be June 29 and that there will be no charge for those attending. He said he is paying the entire bill.

COURT APPOINTS LAWYER FOR TWO KIDNAP SUSPECTS

Tacoma, Wash., June 20.—(AP)—The government encountered a 24 hour delay in its attempt to speed Mr. and Mrs. Harmon M. Waley to prison for life for the $200,000 ransom kidnaping of George Weyerhaeuser at the arraignment today of the former convict and his 19 year old wife.

Both the Waleys at first waived the right to have attorneys, indicating they might plead guilty to one or more of the charges involving them and the fugitive William Mahan.

But when the husband professed a lack of understanding of one of Cushman appointed counsel for them.

Stephen J. O'Brien, the attorney appointed, then requested and received a continuance until 2 p. m. tomorrow for their pleas.

Agents Get Ransom Cash.

Butte, Mont., June 20.—(AP)—On the authorization of J. P. Weyerhaeuser of Tacoma Butte police yesterday turned over to K. D. Deaderick, chief of the federal agents here, $15,155 in ransom currency abandoned in a Utah-licensed car when William Mahan, alleged kidnap ringleader, fled from police ten days ago.

"I SUFFERED WITH CONSTIPATION* FOR SIXTEEN YEARS"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief to Mr. McNeil

We quote from his unsolicited letter: "I suffered with constipation* for 16 years. Finally, I started using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in connection with other nourishing foods.

"I consider myself a well man at this time, not having had an attack for over two years. I am sure ALL-BRAN helped wonderfully by overcoming constipation."*—Mr. L. M. McNeil, Lockwood, W. Va.

Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid elimination. Also vitamin B and iron.

This "bulk" resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is more effective.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HITLER'S RETURN TO LEAGUE PUT UP TO BRITAIN

Nazi Chief Reveals Terms in Talk with Baldwin.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 20.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and Joachim von Ribbentrop, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's ambassador-at-large and his private expert on disarmament, discussed conditions for Germany's return to the league of nations today, according to reports in diplomatic circles.

Germany, it is said, will be prepared to reënter the "family of nations" if two major conditions are realized. They are:

FIRST—Conclusion of a western European air pact.

SECOND — Satisfactory interpretation of the bearing of the Franco-soviet mutual assistance pact on the Locarno treaty.

Germany Seeks Assurance.

Germany wishes to be reassured that the original Locarno treaty will continue to operate for her protection without reference to any action which France may take in pursuance of her undertaking to assist Russia under certain circumstances.

[The Locarno treaty guarantees the Franco-German frontier from invasion by either of these two powers.]

The Hitler government recently addressed a note on the subject to the British, French, Belgian, and Italian governments, but so far has received no reply. The British government is expected to act in an effort to secure an agreement on the terms of a joint answer.

Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league affairs, who left for Paris today to explain the new Anglo-German naval agreement, will go to Rome after his conversations with Foreign Minister Pierre Laval, it was officially announced. He will discuss "with Premier Mussolini the same subject of his talk in Paris, namely the naval question and the next steps to be taken toward a western air pact," the announcement said. It was hinted that the Italo-Ethiopian dispute also will be discussed. Eden expects to meet Mussolini next Monday.

Seeks British Pledge for Aid.

PARIS, June 20.—(AP)—A possible French demand that Britain promise to protect her against attack by Adolf Hitler's new fleet loomed tonight as Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league of nations affairs, arrived in Paris to explain the new Anglo-German naval agreement.

Guarantee of the British fleet's assistance in case the German navy attacked was termed necessary in some French quarters to offset what they said was the scrapping of the Washington and Versailles treaties through the Anglo-German pact.

Authorities indicated Premier Pierre Laval would reproach Eden for Britain's "violation" of the Anglo-French agreement of Feb. 3, while being careful not to alienate the British.

To Meet German Challenge.

As officials said privately that France would meet the German naval challenge by strengthening her fleet "as much as necessary," these remarks stood out in official and semi-official comment on Britain's decision to allow Germany naval tonnage 35 per cent of her own:

1. The Washington naval treaty of 1922, which expires at the end of 1936 by reason of Japan's denunciation, has ceased to apply.

2. Britain, in effect, has canceled the Versailles treaty, which specifically limited the German fleet.

3. The separate Anglo-German accord violates the spirit of the Anglo-French understanding reached at London in February.

4. France is free to do as she chooses in naval matters.

5. Efforts to "repair the damage" done by Britain should take the form of air pacts and other accords among Britain, France, and Italy, as originally contemplated.

France's intention to block any British effort to negotiate an air accord, similar to the naval accord, which would accept Germany's new air fleet, was authoritatively indicated.

Germans Lack Raw Materials.

BERLIN, Germany, June 20.—(AP)—The pace of Germany's new naval building program, expected to add 390,595 tons of ships to the present navy, probably will depend on the reich's success in getting sorely needed raw materials, it was indicated tonight.

Unofficial calculations placed naval additions possible under the new Anglo-German agreement at the near 400,000 ton figure, and authorities said construction would start at once.

However, the nation's unfavorable trade position, with the resultant shortage of foreign exchange and lack of raw materials, is expected to be one important factor making for delay in building the fleet up to the figure specified.

Submarines will get first attention, naval experts said, because their cost is least. Twelve 250 ton submersibles already are being constructed.

TORONTO RESEARCHER DISCOVERS VITAMIN TO TREAT DIABETES

TORONTO, Ont., June 20.—(AP)—Discovery of a vitamin which may help in the future control of diabetes was credited here today to Dr. C. H. Best, professor of physiology in the University of Toronto and co-worker with Sir Frederick Banting in his insulin researches. Dr. Best declined to comment.

Collaborating with the Toronto scientist in his reported discovery, it was asserted, were Dr. J. M. Hershey, chief chemist in the university's insulin testing laboratory, and Miss M. E. Huntsman, demonstrator in physiology.

It was said reliably that the essential chemical of the new vitamin is choline, a well known compound that dilates blood vessels. Choline was discovered in the course of insulin investigations.

Dogs that had no pancreas, the insulin secreting organ, lived only a few months, even when given insulin injections, it was reported, but lived for years when they were fed minced pancreas. Chemical study of the pancreas revealed that this organ, in addition to producing insulin, contained choline. It was further stated that the researches showed diabetes may in some cases be a liver disorder rather than a disorder of the pancreas, since it was found the lack of choline caused liver ailments.

William Larsen, 46 years old, 1808 North California avenue, not only beat his wife last Tuesday but took her false teeth, Judge Thomas A. Green was told yesterday in the Shakespeare Avenue court.

"It was just a little joke, judge," Larsen explained.

"But he jokes too often," replied his wife, Martha. "It's the third time he's taken my teeth."

"Then I will have my little joke," said the judge to Larsen. "You can work out a fine of $200 in the Bridewell."

BOY WHACKED; LANDLORD SUED.
Louis Geatros, 124 South Paulina street, filed a $25,000 damage suit in the Circuit court yesterday against Theodore and Gus Kalpaki, of the same address, owners of the building. Geatros alleges that the two men struck his son, John, 14 years old, for spilling some water on a back porch on May 11, and then had the boy arrested.

LINDBERGH TURNS SCIENTIST; MAKES ARTIFICIAL HEART

Joins Carrel in Work as Biologist.

ies of life's most vital processes, and even into the mystery of life itself.

Over the 123 years since Le Gallois it has been the constant search and dream of science to find this technique. The best that has been accomplished previously was the work of Dr. Carrel himself, that of keeping bits of tissue alive indefinitly. But to maintain life and growth in whole complicated systems, such as a heart, an ovary, a spleen, a thyroid or adrenal gland, until now has been but a hope.

To illustrate the complete success of the Carrel-Lindbergh technique, the article today describes one experiment of the 26, which was performed on an ovary. The organ not only lived and grew in its artificial medium, but produced corpora lutea, the mysterious "yellow bodies" which appear periodically on the gland, and without which motherhood is impossible.

The apparatus itself is not described in the article and the institute refused to explain its form or operation until it had published its own complete report. However, it is presumably a closed system, to prevent possibility of contamination and infection, as was the earlier device.

The artificial heart circulates a fluid containing all the known properties of blood, the article explains, including the proteins, acids, and salts in their proper proportions, body sulphur, insulin, thyroxin, the isolable vitamins and enzymes. The fluid even is colored to its natural shade by the addition of a red phenol dye.

A mixture of gas, 40 per cent oxygen, 3 or 4 per cent carbon dioxide and the rest nitrogen, is forced into the fluid at intervals, just as through the lungs of the human body. The "heart" beats at the rate of 60 times a minute. In order to carry the glucose and bicarbonate ingredients in the proper proportions, the "blood" has to be 2,000 times the volume of the organ to be nourished.

FRENCH BANDIT CHIEF, SLAYER OF SIX, TO DIE TODAY

BASTIA, Corsica, June 20.—(AP)—Andre Spada, "the tiger man," one of the last of the Corsican bandit chieftains, will take the walk to the guillotine at dawn tomorrow.

President Albert Lebrun refused to consider a plea of mercy from the convicted slayer of at least six persons.

Anatole Beibler, "Monsieur de Paris," France's aged hereditary headman, set up the guillotine in the courtyard facing the prison today.

Spada spent his final hours playing checkers and cards with his guards. He complained his chains were too tight and fasted as a sign of penitence.

"My fate matters little," he told the prison chaplain. "I am at peace with my conscience. I confessed the seventh murder, but nobody believes me. Heaven has forgiven my other crimes. Let it be as short and as quick as possible."

NEW SHIP BILL WOULD SET UP ANOTHER BUREAU

Proposal Gives Subsidies in Three Forms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—The house merchant marine committee today completed drafting a bill creating a United States maritime authority, composed of five members, to approve loans for construction, reconditioning and operation of American-owned vessels in order to build up a merchant marine.

The measure was on the "must" list of President Roosevelt and will be considered by the house within two weeks. The committee asserted that action on the billl was essential at this session.

Otherwise, it was pointed out, the President will be confronted next Oct. 31 with the responsibility of canceling or modifying ocean mail contracts, with a multitude of lawsuits and "other dangers." The bill extends until June 30, 1936, the period for cancellation of the contracts.

Deny Two Demands.

The committee reported that its bill meets the requirements set up by President Roosevelt in his "ship subsidy" message except in two particulars. It took exception with the chief executive on the continuance of construction subsidies, insisting that this was necessary "to prevent monopolies" and encourage shipbuilding, and opposed the President's proposal to transfer the shipping duties from the department of commerce to the interstate commerce commission.

"The committee seriously doubts," stated a representative, "the advisability of transferring such powers at any time to a body whose entire study and work has been devoted to railroad matters, which is not informed on the problems existing in the most highly competitive international trade in the world, which is not acquainted with transportation on the seas with foreign countries."

"Duty of Government."

The report pointed out the need for a merchant marine and declared that the American merchant marine was in danger of destruction without new construction and replacement immediately. It declared that it was the government's duty to aid shipping.

"We feel," the committee reported, "that the government must aid in loans for shipbuilding, just as it has aided the bankers, the farmers, the industrialists large and small, the railroads, and all other branches of industry where the competition has been local and not world-wide, as it is in shipping."

Subsidy in Three Forms.

The various forms of subsidies under the bill are as follows:

1. Payment by the government of the differential in the cost of construction between a vessel in an American shipyard and a foreign shipyard.

2. Payment of the differential in the cost of operating ships due to the same conditions.

3. Financial assistance will be available, in case of need, for the support of "progressive and efficient operators" in approved efforts to secure a fair share of commerce.

An analysis of the present condition of the oceangoing merchant marine was attached to the report. In the case of modern ships the committee reported that "the status of the United States is appalling." A table showed the United States having less tonnage of vessels 10 years of age and under than Great Britain, Germany, Japan, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, and France.

Slayer Who Dies Tonight Offers Body to Science

Canon City, Colo., June 20.—(AP)—Lee Belongia, 24, who said he expects some "fun" when he is executed tomorrow night for the murder of a rancher, offered his body to science today to determine what made him a criminal against his will. He suggested that it be sent to the University of Denver Medical school.

4 out of every 5 miles you drive—are within 25 miles of your doorstep

5 blocks on Main St. can use more gasoline than a mile on a highway

Today's starting, shifting and accelerating waste your money if your gasoline hasn't these Three Kinds of Power...

YOU often start your engine 10 TIMES a day... start your car moving from a dead stop 30 TIMES a day... and shift gears 60 TIMES a day!

No wonder leading car manufacturers say that you get from TWO to FOUR miles LESS per gallon on "around town" driving than you do on the open road!

To save money on today's "stop-and-go" driving, you must have a gasoline that is made to fit today's driving conditions!

You need a gasoline that contains 3 different kinds of power—yet that doesn't "skimp" on ANY!

This means that you need a gasoline that not only STARTS quickly... that not only ACCELERATES rapidly... that not only SAVES on steady running... but that does ALL THREE of these things.

Shell engineers have finally perfected a gasoline with these three different kinds of power in the right proportion—in perfect balance. It is SUPER-SHELL, the FIRST truly balanced gasoline. You can get it at more than 30,000 neighborly Shell stations spread from Coast to Coast.

With its 3 kinds of power, Super-Shell saves you money in 3 WAYS! Stop at a Shell station and fill up your tank with it TODAY! You'll see why so many thousands of motorists are becoming Shell "regulars"!

SAVES in 3 ways

STARTING—Super-Shell can save up to a cupful of gasoline on every "cold" start. Even on sizzling summer days, your engine is relatively "cold" when not running, because normal temperature under the hood when running is over 150°.

PULLING—It can save up to a cupful in 10 minutes of hard pulling, or in rapid accelerating, or hill climbing.

RUNNING—It can save up to a cupful, many motorists report, in an hour on the long stretch—thus saving on LONG RUNS as well as on short trips.

Double YOUR MONEY BACK

IF YOU DON'T AGREE

this bread is best for your children!

READ THIS REMARKABLE OFFER MADE POSSIBLE BY OUR NEW WONDER BREAD—BAKED FOR YOUR CHILDREN

HERE is a remarkable offer that only the best bread would dare to make! All this week, you can serve the new Wonder Bread at our risk, and get back twice what you paid if you do not agree with everything we have promised you in this new bread.

Go to your grocer's tomorrow. Buy a loaf of the new Wonder Bread baked for your children. Serve half of it in any way you choose. If you do not agree with our statements, write a short note telling us why. Mail it to us at the address below with the unused half loaf in its original wrapper. You will receive twice what you paid for the loaf.

Fair enough, isn't it? You simply can't lose! And we think you will agree, as so many thousands have, that the new Wonder Bread is by far the best bread you can serve your children or your whole family. For, even before these improvements, it was so good that it was served on more tables than any other bread.

This amazing double-your-money-back offer is for Wonder Bread bought any day this week, including Saturday, June 22nd. Be sure to see your grocer tomorrow and get your new Wonder loaf. Look for the name Wonder, and the red, yellow and blue balloons on the new wrapper.

CHURCH WORKERS SURVEY 50 YEARS OF THE COVENANT

Greetings from Prince Mark Golden Jubilee.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Transformed from a small mission church composed of immigrants from Sweden into a major American denomination during the last 50 years, the Swedish Evangelical Mission Covenant church—generally known simply as The Covenant—surveyed its American history yesterday and turned to plans for its second half century.

The occasion was the semi-centennial celebration and national convention of the Covenant which began a four day session on the campus of North Park college at Kedzie and Foster avenues after an inspirational massmeeting Wednesday night. Although Swedish characteristics of the Covenant are rapidly giving way to American speech and mood, yet neither ties with Scandinavia have entirely been severed nor the church's earlier conservative faith smothered with modern materialism.

Greetings from Crown Prince.

A greeting to the convention from Crown Prince Gustaf Adolph of Sweden and the crown princess was read yesterday by the Rev. O. W. Genander of Stockholm, Sweden, fraternal delegate from the Covenant of that country.

The message expressed "their appreciation and great joy for the good will that was accorded to them on their recent visit to America," and urged members of the American Covenant to "reflect honor in your new land upon the heritage that is yours from across the sea."

Minister Stresses Conservatism.

The Rev. Harold M. Carlson of Rockford was a speaker at last night's session. His address reflected the conservative religious position of The Covenant. He not only declared that the church was "no pillow for conflict—an escaping from life"—but rather an implemented and aggressive "spiritual message in the field of conservative Christianity."

BERMAN LOSES WRIT BATTLE; IS TAKEN WEST

Jacob Berman, federal prisoner who has been resisting efforts to remove him to the government fortress at Alcatraz island, off San Francisco, lost his legal fight yesterday. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward quashed a writ of habeas corpus on Berman's behalf and remanded him to the custody of United States marshals. Berman was immediately taken to the Chicago airport under heavy guard and was on his way to California by plane last night.

Berman was found guilty in 1928 of using the mails to defraud in the collapse of the $60,000,000 Julian Petroleum corporation of Los Angeles. His seven year sentence expires at midnight tonight. However, he still faces three successive terms of 1 to 14 years each on state charges of promoting swindles in Los Angeles.

Berman had been serving his mail fraud sentence in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. Last week he was taken from Lewisburg for transfer to Alcatraz, where he can be turned over to Los Angeles authorities when his federal sentence is completed. Last Saturday night he was taken from the train here when his attorney, Eugene Garry of New York City, filed the habeas corpus petition. It was pointed out that if Berman had been released from federal custody here he might have fought extradition to California.

THREE DENY PLOT TO FORGE WILL OF DR. LIPINSKA

D. L. Olcese, real estate dealer with offices at 10 South La Salle street, took the witness stand in the Probate court yesterday and denied that he had conspired by means of a forged will to gain control of the $250,000 estate of Dr. Sophie Lipinska.

Olcese and Max Drezmal, a lawyer, and Dr. Harry C. Rome, a dentist, are charged before Probate Judge John F. O'Connell with conspiracy to probate a forged will of Dr. Lapinska, who died in Orlando, Fla., on Feb. 11, 1934. Olcese is named in the will to manage the estate, the bulk of which is left to a charity in Poland.

The real estate dealer denied specifically the testimony given Wednesday by Dr. Lipinska's former nurse, Marion Kuchta, that, five hours after Dr. Lipinska's death, she had signed the physician's name to the will.

Earlier in the day Dr. Rome and Drezmal testified that Drezmal had guided Dr. Lipinska's hand as she signed her will in her home at 2200 North avenue on Jan. 13, 1934. The same night, they said, they signed the will as witnesses.

2 SLAIN, 4 HURT AS 700 JUGO-SLAV CONVICTS MUTINY

NISH, Jugo-Slavia, June 20.—(AP)—A mutiny at the once "jolly" prison here today cost the lives of two prisoners and left four wounded. One was expected to die.

Gendarmes and prison guards opened fire on 700 prisoners when they refused to return to their cells after the daily exercise period to protest refusal of their demand that they be allowed to see newspaper men to complain against prison conditions. They also threatened to set fire to buildings.

Authorities explained that inmates of the Nish prison until recently were granted certain privileges not ordinarily allowed prisoners, such as smoking and drinking in moderation. A new man recently relieved the director responsible for the "jolly" régime. His rigid application of prison rules, officials said, stirred up opposition among the convicts, especially the older inmates.

EXONERATE ROBBER'S SLAYER.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the death of Tony Majcher, 20 years old, 5219 South Winchester avenue, a robber who was shot and killed by George Harrington, bartender in a tavern at 6852 South Ashland avenue.

SHIP LOSES RACE TO SAVE LIFE OF YANK ON HONEYMOON TRIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 20.—A dramatic dash to save the life of Franklin W. Hobbs, prominent Boston broker, failed at Cobh today.

On a honeymoon trip with his wife aboard the liner President Roosevelt, Hobbs was taken ill with appendicitis. He was successfully operated upon by the ship's surgeon last Sunday, but suffered a relapse soon afterwards. His condition became critical.

A wireless message was sent to Cobh to have a tender in readiness, but Hobbs' condition was so serious when the vessel arrived that the overland journey to Cork was considered inadvisable. The tender carried him to Cork by river, a distance of 14 miles. The stricken man was accompanied by the ship's surgeon, Mrs. Hobbs and several nurses. Hobbs, however, died soon after reaching the Cork hospital.

Policeman Schuler Loses Leg in Fishing Accident

Otto Schuler, 37 years old, 4711 Ohio street, a policeman attached to the central station, was reported in a serious condition yesterday in a Muskegon, Mich., hospital after the amputation of his right leg below the knee. Schuler was spending his vacation in Michigan and caught his foot between two rocks while trying to land a fish. Blood poisoning developed from a cut he received and the amputation became necessary to save his life.

THREE IN AUTO KILLED AS ARMY PLANE HITS IT

Los Angeles, Cal., June 20.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Dan Krauss of Glendale, Cal., and their 2 year old daughter were killed today in the crash of an army plane in a poor takeoff near the Griffith Park National Guard airport.

The undercarriage of the heavy ship struck their parked automobile and dragged it 75 feet before dropping it against another automobile. The plane then crashed into a bank of earth. Witnesses said one of the craft's motors apparently cut out and the other, the throttle wide, pulled the plane to one side.

Two army men were hurt.

Veteran Pilot Dies in Crash.

Pampa, Tex., June 20.—(AP)—Tom Keenan, 26, veteran transport pilot and operator of a flying school here, was killed today when a plane he was piloting crashed into a wheat field a half mile north of Pampa. Pat Loving of Wellington, Tex., a passenger, was seriously injured. Keenan was married only last Sunday.

Mrs. William Klockzin, 73, Found Dead in Home by Son

Mrs. William Klockzin, 73 years old, a widow, was found dead last night in her home at 119 Linden avenue, Glencoe, where she had resided alone for several years. The discovery was made by her son William, a Chicago policeman, when he went to visit her. Death, attributed to heart disease, apparently had occurred on Wednesday. Besides her son, Mrs. Klockzin is survived by two daughters.

SINGER'S FAMILY WILL VIEW BODY IN LAKE MYSTERY

Relatives of Mrs. Mary L. Bosler, singing teacher who has been missing from her home at 181 Lake Shore drive since May 27, were asked yesterday to come here from Burlington, Ia., to determine whether a body that was buried in the potter's field at Oak Forest a week ago is that of Mrs. Bosler.

A search was started for Mrs. Bosler when friends failed to find her at home. Attorney Robert M. Woodward and several of the close friends of the missing woman viewed pictures at the county morgue and decided that one of a woman who had been taken from the lake on May 29 was a photograph of Mrs. Bosler. They have requested that the body be exhumed.

Mrs. Bosler was a vice president of the Illinois Women's Republican club. Ferdinand Meyer of Burlington, her brother, said yesterday that Mrs. Bosler was 61 years old and that she was formerly a student at the Chicago Musical college. Attorney Woodward, who took possession of her effects, said it appeared she had been a heavy loser in stocks of the Insull utilities.

COURT UPHOLDS JAIL SENTENCE FOR REPORTER

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—On the ground that there is no law protecting the right of newspaper reporters to withhold their news sources, the Appellate division today unanimously upheld the jail sentence of Martin Mooney, New York American reporter, who refused to give the March grand jury the source of vice and racket stories printed in that paper.

Mooney was given a 30 day sentence and fined $200 by General Sessions Judge Morris Koenig. A writ of habeas corpus was dismissed by Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew and the case went to the Appellate division.

DR. L. H. MURLIN, FORMER DE PAUW PRESIDENT, DIES

Wayland, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—Dr. L. H. Murlin, 73, Methodist churchman and educator, who served as president of three universities, died here tonight after a brief illness.

Dr. Murlin was president of Baker university at Baldwin, Kas., from 1894 to 1911; president of Boston university from 1911 to 1925, and president of De Pauw university at Greencastle, Ind., from 1925 to 1928.

In his activities as a churchman he was a member of five general Methodist conferences and served for a time as pastor of the American church in Berlin, Germany.

C. A. Tuttle, Wesleyan Professor Emeritus, Dies

Middletown, Conn., June 20.—(AP)—Charles A. Tuttle, professor emeritus of Wesleyan university and widely known in economics and social science circles, died during the night at his home here. A native of Hadley, Mass., Tuttle was professor of economics and social science at Wesleyan from 1913 to 1928. He was on the faculty of Wabash college, Indiana, teaching history and sociology, from 1893 to 1913.

Normandie Arrives Second Time in New York Harbor

New York, June 20.—(AP)—The giant French liner Normandie put into New York harbor tonight for the second time, making the crossing in four days 15 hours and 42 minutes. Most of the time, Capt. Rene Pugnet said, the weather was bad.

Dr. C. F. Pearson, Former Chicagoan, 80, Is Dead

Rock Falls, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Dr. C. F. Pearson, 80, died in his home here last night. He was born and received his medical training in Chicago.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Concerts by the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra in Lewisohn stadium in New York are to be broadcast by the Mutual Broadcasting system with W-G-N as the local outlet every Saturday evening beginning June 29. Running a full hour from 7:30 to 8:30 the concerts will be aired exclusively over MBS.

José Iturbi, famed concert pianist and director, will conduct the first five concerts. Thereafter the baton will be taken over by Willem Van Hoogstraaten for the remainder of the season, running through Aug. 17. This is the 18th season for the Lewisohn outdoor concerts.

The March of Time will return to the air on CBS Aug. 30, a month earlier than usual, Roy E. Larsen, circulation manager of the magazine sponsoring it and one of the originators of this ace dramatic program, announced here yesterday. In recalling the beginnings of the March of Time Larsen revealed that the idea was almost abandoned before it ever reached the airways. The sponsors couldn't hit upon a scheme for pacing the program as briskly as they felt they needed. Then Larsen happened to see "Grand Hotel," which was just having its stage première.

Its rapid fire clip, with four or five plots swinging along together, convinced him that a similar technique might be employed for their contemplated radio program. Shortly thereupon the March of Time was born. Thus Vicki Baum's novel, "Grand Hotel," went a long way. It made a successful stage play, movie, and also a radio program by that same name now originating in Chicago NBC studios. And it helped inspire the March of Time.

Alumnus Horace Heidt and his band will provide the music for the summer formal of the Chicago Culver club tonight at the Drake hotel. The W-G-N maestro plans to present a program of special music for the Culverites on his broadcasts this evening. Heidt was an all star athlete at Culver and later distinguished himself in football at the University of California. Special guests tonight are to include B. B. Culver, head of the Culver Foundation; Admiral Hugh Rodman, and Brig. Gen. L. R. Gignilliat.

Roy Shield, musical director for NBC in Chicago, has gone to Hollywood to compose and record music for several Hal Roach pictures. He is to be gone about a fortnight. Shield came to radio from the cinema five years ago.

There's an unusual new program on WENR five nights a week at 9:30. It's called Song a Day. Each night a song written around a title suggested by a listener is presented. Dave Stemper, veteran "Follies" writer and composer of many popular songs, including "Shine on Harvest Moon," and Fred Herendeen, another songsmith, turn out words and music for the night's ditty every afternoon. Jack Owens sings the new song on the air. Among the titles suggested so far have been, "It's a Cold, Cold Spring," "Lovely Lady," and "Just You, Just Me." When the songs are published the contributors will share in the royalties, if any.

M. Meyerfield, Former Head of Orpheum Circuit, Dies

San Francisco, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—Morris Meyerfield, 80, head of the old Orpheum circuit for 23 years, died at his home here today. He expanded his theaters here and in Los Angeles to a circuit of fifty show houses with international affiliations. Until his retirement in 1920 he was president of the circuit. The man who was named by San Franciscans "the Rockefeller of vaudeville" was born in Beverlunger, Westphalia, Germany, in 1855 and received his schooling at Cologne. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nannie Friedman Meyerfield, and a daughter, Mrs. Leon Roos of San Francisco.

SEIZED ON PAL'S STORY; ADMITS 50 ROBBERIES

The third member of a robber band composed of two young men and a girl who say they "made Dillinger look like a piker" was taken into custody yesterday at his home, 5170 Bloomingdale avenue.

He is Michael Grue. The two already in custody, having been captured Wednesday as they fled from a lingerie shop at 625 Diversey parkway, where they are alleged to have stolen $30, are Miss Jean Grue, 754 Wellington avenue, sister of Michael, and James Telford, whose address was not given.

After his capture Telford talked freely to Sheffield avenue police, confessed about 50 robberies, and seemed thoroughly eager to see that Grue would be charged with them also. He gave the Bloomingdale avenue address to police.

He also displayed bruises on his face which, he says, were inflicted by Grue in a quarrel over his attentions to Grue's sister. Telford declared that most of his robberies had been committed with a toy pistol and that Grue had been with him on every occasion. Grue, when captured, admitted this.

DAIRY WORKERS PRESENT DEMAND FOR PAY BOOST

Representatives of the Dairy Employés' union, local 754, last night presented to the Associated Milk Dealers of Chicago a demand for a $5 a week pay increase. The demand was presented at the dealers' headquarters, 309 West Jackson boulevard, and was taken under advisement by them.

The union is composed of 2,000 inside workers. In addition to the $5 raise they asked $3 a week more for each employé working at night, asserting that night workers deserve extra compensation. The present pay scale of the union ranges from a minimum of $31 to a maximum of $41 a week, depending on the type of work done. Frank Gillespie, of the union delegation, said the workers had authorized a strike unless the raise is granted.

A demand of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union for a $5 raise has been rejected by the dealers, but the matter is still under negotiation.

LEARNS HUSBAND ALREADY IS WED; WINS ANNULMENT

Mrs. Gertrude Auersperg, 4635 North Winchester avenue, widow of Otto Triebwasser, Lake Forest florist who died in 1931, was granted an annulment by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday of her marriage last Dec. 1 to Reynold M. Auersperg, real estate man with offices at 6 North Clark street. She testified that she did not learn until June 5 that Auersperg's frequent "absence from town" in realty were spent with his wife, Anna, whom he married in 1913 and with whom he lives at 3923 Ellis avenue.

Mrs. Gertrude Auersperg said she met Auersperg in November, 1933, when he answered her advertisment for a real estate man to sell her late husband's greenhouses. Auersperg has promised to deed to the widow 5,500 acres of Tennessee land she alleges he bought with half the $60,000 obtained from sale of the greenhouses.

FINE HOME GROWN VEGETABLES RULE CHICAGO MARKET

Shipped In Items Suffer; Buyers Benefit.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Consumers are being greatly benefited by the situation developing in the marketing of vegetables. Home grown vegetables seem to have the advantage over crops grown in distant trucking areas. Local truck gardners are delivering an assortment of the most excellent vegetables they have produced in years. With quantity, quality, and relatively low transportation costs, home grown products are crowding into first position on the greengrocers' counters.

Recent weather conditions have favored the development of crops in local gardens. They were given a late start, which delayed harvesting about a week, but now great truck loads of vegetables are coming from farms situated within a few miles of the loop and at the edge of many nearby suburbs.

Stored Products Crowded Out.

New vegetables and fruits gradually are replacing in retail stores such stored products as apples and potatoes. Prices are slightly lower on baking potatoes coming out of storage. Eating apples are becoming scarce and high.

The supply of new green cooking apples is increasing. Freshly picked apples are coming from southern Illinois. Prices of this year's crop are coming down gradually.

Shoppers will find several foods lower in price today and tomorrow than they were this time last week. Flour prices on the lower grades took a tumble this week. In some stores a 24½ pound sack is from 4 to 6 cents lower than last week.

Bacon Prices Reduced.

Almost all of the stores surveyed by THE TRIBUNE this week are offering for the benefit of week-end shoppers some grades of sliced bacon at reduced prices. Many stores have cut their bacon prices as much as 6 cents a pound on some grades.

Dried onions, like old potatoes and apples, must meet the competition of the new crops. They will be found lower in price.

Prices of head lettuce are off slightly. This spring's cool, wet weather has favored the development of high grade lettuce in local gardens. The quality of this home grown lettuce is excellent. It is being given preference in city and suburban stores. Although the quality of the heads is superior, the retail price generally is lower.

Vegetable Costs Down.

Fresh tomatoes continue to go lower in price, and the quality is good. Carrot prices generally are down, too. Celery is lower in some stores.

Strawberries are cheaper. Some stores have reduced the price as much as 2 cents a box. Virtually all strawberries coming to Chicago now are from Michigan patches, according to market experts. The quality of the berries is good, although heavy rains have "peppered" the berries with sand. Some are reaching the market in a slightly "gritty" condition.

Red raspberry prices are about the same as last week. They are coming mainly from southern Illinois, Kentucky, and California. Berries shipped to the city during the first few days this week were soft as a result of rains. Shipments within the last few days indicate that the quality is improving.

Green Beans Arrive.

The first green beans from southern Illinois gardens arrived in Chicago this week. The quality is high.

Many of the retail butcher shops in suburban towns and also in the city were making preparations yesterday for special meat sales today and tomorrow. They are featuring high grade cuts of beef at lower prices. Some also are offering roast chicken, pork loin roast, and a few kinds of fresh fish at prices lower than last week.

PASTRY MAY BE KEPT IN STORAGE FOR EMERGENCY

Pastry may be made ahead of time, wrapped well in waxed paper, and kept in the refrigerator for a week or more. For emergency meals you can roll and bake individual tart shells in a few minutes and fill them with fresh raspberries or strawberries. Some prefer to mix all the pastry ingredients except the water and keep them in a covered crock in the refrigerator. With the addition of cold water a flaky pastry is achieved. This mixture may be kept even longer than the pastry which is entirely mixed.

SCIENCE SEEKS TO FIND ONION'S "TEARS" POWER

Cornell U. Conducts Experiments.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 20.—[Special.]—Ever since the dawn of "odorless" cabbage, people have suggested that something like that should be done about onions, garlic, and possibly some other vegetables.

Now experiments are under way in the department of vegetable crops at Cornell university to determine on which types of soil or in what locality either mild or strong onions may be grown, and what determines the power of the onion to bring tears to the eyes.

Dr. Hans Platenius, engaged in research for the department, says it is still too early to draw conclusions from the tests, but that "it is likely that some day we may be able to predict the soils and localities that will grow mild or strong onions."

Studies Soil Effects.

The department has long been interested in onion strength, he says, and "we are wondering if it would be possible to grow onions in this state, with respect to mildness, that could compare favorably with the imported red Italian onions or the Bermuda types grown in Texas which are sold on the markets.

"To determine why some onions are more pungent than others, it seemed necessary to find out first what in particular gives the onion its particular flavor and odor. The answer was given about 40 years ago by a German chemist, F. W. Semmler. He found that the 'tears' in onions really result from a volatile oil, present in very small amounts.

Oil Found Potent.

"To study the chemical composition and nature of the oil he had to distill more than a ton of onions. Even then he obtained less than one-tenth of a pint of pure oil. What it lacks in quantity, however, is made up in power of the oil.

"As some of our experiments have shown, a fraction of a drop of this oil is enough to make the odor of onions noticeable throughout several large buildings. Based on the findings of Semmler, a chemical method was developed to measure the pungency of onions accurately by giving the amount of volatile sulphur in the onion oil. This method had to be developed because the common tasting test is unreliable.

"Next," says Dr. Platenius, "we had to discover which varieties are mildest and which strongest. Onions of all the leading varieties were obtained from different parts of the country. Analysis of the samples showed that our commercial varieties can be placed in three distinct groups: the mildest, medium, and the strongest onions.

"Some of the experiments showed that the red Italian onions grown in this country are decidedly stronger than those grown in Italy, although they were milder than most of the other varieties. This fact points out that other things besides variety help to determine the strength of onion. Present studies also deal with such things as temperature, irrigation, and the amount of sulphur in the soil as they affect the strength of onions."

MEAT COUNCIL PICKS LAMB AS BEST BUY

For the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores, the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago yesterday issued the following report:

"The various cuts of lamb are recommended as the most economical buys in Chicago retail meat stores over the coming week-end. Pot roast of beef and round steak also are recommended as attractive buys."

ORIGINAL IDEAS IN COLD DISHES READY FOR YOU

Thirty Summer Menus in New Booklet.

Although cold cuts of meat and potato salad are a favorite summer combination, there's no reason why hot weather plate meals can't be original now and then. Some of the possibilities are chilled fruit and sherbet plates, sea food plates, cheese and pretzel plates, assorted salad plates, corned beef platters, shrimp and pineapple plates, hors d'œuvre plates, and others.

Thirty plate menus—including the ones listed above—with recipes are in Mary Meade's newest booklet, "Cold Plates to Tempt Summer Appetites." All are festive enough for company but simply prepared. COOKING EDITOR GIVES TIPS ON ICED BEVERAGES Offers Hints on Strength and Flavors.

"Food for Small Folks," a booklet of directions for the feeding of preschool children, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Unlike the onset of the straw hat season, there just isn't any set day on which menus begin to read "Iced Coffee" instead of plain coffee, "Iced Tea" instead of the more warming, cool weather beverage, and make mention of such allied delights as iced chocolate. However, it's a pretty good guess that the transition finally is taking place in spite of the tenacity with which winter clung to our doorsteps this spring.

Many of these chilly beverages are going to be served during the next few months, but, bitter thought, only some of them are going to be worth getting out of the hammock. Even women who beam with well deserved pride on a perfect cup of coffee of their own brew often turn out a bitter, cloudy glassful of the same substance iced. And the same goes for tea.

For that reason it's pretty obvious that there are wrong and right ways of doing even such simple tricks as icing hot beverages—and lucky are the languid sippers whose hostess knows which is which! So, just as a sort of first-of-the-season review, let's refresh the cooking spheres of our brains with a quick jotting of those methods which do turn out delightful cold drinks.

ICED TEA.

Pour a little boiling water into a porcelain, earthenware, china, or glass tea pot to pre-heat it. Pour this out and drop in the measured tea leaves. Although a half to one rounded teaspoon of tea to one cup of water is the rule for hot tea, it's necessary to make it stronger to allow for the dilution by the ice. So, add one to two teaspoons instead. Then, over the leaves, pour the freshly boiled water. "Freshly" means just that, too, for water long boiled in the tea kettle becomes flat from the loss of gases.

Cover the pot and let it steep (let the added tea give the extra strength, not boiling) for 3 to 5 minutes. Strain the tea off immediately, since standing on the leaves impairs the fresh delicate flavor. Let the hot tea stand a few minutes to settle the minute grounds, and pour over cracked ice to chill. Result: a clear, finely flavored iced tea.

To save ice you also can chill the hot tea in the refrigerator before serving, but some experienced tea icers say that this endangers the delicacy of the flavor.

ICED COFFEE.

Whether you prefer to make your coffee by boiling, by the drip method, or with a percolator, you must remember these things: Have the coffee pot absolutely clean and free from sediment; measure the coffee and water accurately; and avoid overcooking the coffee by any method. There are two general methods of making iced coffee besides the choice in the original brewing.

The first is to make the coffee double strength by doubling the amount of coffee used in the brewing; then to pour it while hot over cracked ice. The second says to make the coffee only one and a half times the regular strength. In the latter, cool the coffee in an air tight jar in the refrigerator and then serve with just sufficient ice to chill it thoroughly. The first method generally is conceded to give a beverage of more delicate flavor and aroma, but the second requires less ice and the coffee may be made in advance of serving time.

Iced coffee is served with cream and sugar, usually confectioner's sugar.

ICED COCOA OR CHOCOLATE.

Prepare regular breakfast cocoa or chocolate, increasing the amounts of either cocoa or chocolate by a third. Whip the hot beverage thoroughly, cool, and pour over cracked ice in tall glasses. The resulting beverage may be further sweetened to taste and topped with whipped cream if desired.

Altrusa Clubs Plan Share in Civic Affairs

White House Slight Leads to New Policy.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Because a White House invitation was not forthcoming two years ago, the National Association of Altrusa Clubs is giving attention to public affairs as well as vocational guidance this week-end at its 16th biennial convention at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Here is the story. In the spring of 1933 President Roosevelt asked representatives of most of the leading women's organizations in the United States to confer at the White House. Despite the fact that Mrs. Roosevelt was a member of Altrusa, he failed to include the group in his invitation list.

A feminine Rotary, nation-wide, and the oldest women's business and professional club in the country, most of the Altrusans agreed they were justified in feeling slighted. Constructive in point of view, however, they decided that perhaps they needed to give more attention to the sixth objective in their constitution, "To encourage participation in community and public affairs of a nonpartisan character."

The result is that security for women in industry, political clean-up, and consumer problems have as important a place in the program of the three day meeting here as the long talked about vocational guidance for high school students.

At a luncheon yesterday Miss Virginia Foulk of Huntington, W. Va., chairman of a recently appointed committee on participation in public affairs, suggested two media whereby Altrusa as a whole may participate more decisively in matters of national interest.

One of these is the Women's Joint Congressional committee, an affiliate of the leading national women's organizations whose purpose is to serve as a clearing house in the promotion of federal measures of special interest to women. The other is the Pan-Pacific Women's association whose object is the strengthening of the bonds of peace among all Pacific peoples.

"The committee on public affairs feels that membership in either one of these organizations involves in no way a change in national Altrusa policy," explained Miss Foulk. "Rather this membership would be a new mode of action, a new way of putting into practical functioning our sixth objective.

"There are those who feel that membership in either one of these groups would mean partisan politics. Your chairman believes that this fear is unwaranted. Any lobbying done on a budget of $190 a year is perforce on a high plane and with such a limited amount of money, lobbying, in the ordinary unfavorable connotation of the word, would be conspicuous by its absence.

"To your committee the advantages appear to outweigh the disadvantages. Membership in either the Congressional committee or the Pan-Pacific association would put Altrusa upon a par with other women's organizations national in scope."

Before action is taken on these affiliations, there will be further discussion in the convention.

In line with this attitude Marshall E. Dimock, professor of public administration at the University of Chicago, counseled the Altrusans to take a more active part in local politics.

"There is need today for dynamic, wide awake citizens' organizations without any political affiliations," said Prof. Dimock. "Do away with party politics in municipalities. Think in terms of the best man for mayor and the best men for the city council."

Prof. Dimock also indorsed the city manager form of government only, however, with a more careful check of the citizenry. "Find out what you get for a $50,000 tax assessment," he advised. "Don't think in terms of tax bills but what you get as the result of them."

The convention, which will continue through Saturday evening, has attracted more than 200 delegates from all but five states of the Union. Since membership in local Altrusa clubs is dependent upon occupational classification and careful selection within the various classifications, the assembly represents an alert group of women, most of whom are business executives or practicing lawyers and doctors.

Presiding at the sessions is Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse of New York City, director of the Institute of Women's Professional Relations at Connecticut college, New London, Conn. In the biennial elections to be held Saturday Mrs. Woodhouse is opposed by Miss M. Fleeta Thomas, now first vice president and assistant secretary of the Ohio Public Health association.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: The League of Nations

Play 'Theodora' on Museum Steps Tonight

Names Group to Sponsor Other Attractions.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

As an indication that the performance of Handel's "Theodora" on the south steps of the Field museum tonight, tomorrow, and Sunday nights is not merely a single phenomenon but the first of a series of entertainments to employ music and the other fine arts, R. J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, yesterday announced the appointment of a special committee of representative citizens to stimulate interest in such subjects.

It is intended that the committee will secure exhibits of fine art and commercial art from the various museums and collections available in Chicago and elsewhere for temporary display from time to time in the eighty and more buildings in the various Chicago parks. In addition the committee is being asked to develop and foster musical events, dramatic and festival performances, and other similar activities in all parts of the park district.

The committee, representing the Orchestral association, the Art institute, the Civic Music association, the Arts club, the public school art committee, the state board of advisers, the National Negro Musicians' association, the Catholic music organization, and other groups of like nature, is headed by Chauncey McCormick, chairman, and includes Potter Palmer, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. C. B. Goodspeed, Charles H. Worcester, Miss Kate Buckingham, Robert B. Harshe, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Albert D. Lasker, Thomas E. Tallmadge, Jerry Bojanowski, Dr. Ernest Bloomfield Zeisler, John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Maude Robert George, the Rev. Edwin Hoover, Edgar Nelson, Frederick A. Stock, John F. Cuneo, and Mrs. Emmons Blaine.

The "Theodora" performance will be the first hearing in this part of the country of the complete Handel score, and the first showing in the world of the work as an opera. The principals will be Mary Ann Kaufman in the name part, Burton F. Dole, Philip Gates, Lucille Long, singers, and H. Lester Tremayne, dramatic actor. There will be a chorus of 200 and ballet of 300, a dramatic cast of 300, and an orchestra of 75. Twenty park district life guards have been chosen to appear as Roman soldiers.

Seating arrangements for 7,500 have been provided in the space between the Field museum and Soldiers' field. Two thousand free seats have been set aside for each performance, the remaining seats being priced at 25 cents to $1 each.

Cave Thompson, the Chicago blind pianist, gave his annual recital in Fullerton hall last evening. His physical handicap, rather than working against his musical ability, has perhaps developed it in matters of tone, technic, and freely used imagination. He played a difficult and testing program which began with the Schumann Sonata, opus 11, and included an elaborate Chopin group and other works by Mendelssohn, Gliere, Scriabine, and Liszt. Applause was deservedly warm.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

BRIDGE SIDE OF THE NEWS.

JOLIET, Ill. — A convict in the state prison was discovered attempting to remove the barriers between himself and freedom with the aid of a hacksaw. The man had been in solitary confinement for weeks, and the guards professed to be at a loss to account for his possession of the tool. He was haled to the warden's office.

"Come clean, McCafferty," barked the warden. "How did you get that saw?"

The convict looked up wearily.

"Well, if you must know, warden," he replied, "I won it as a bridge prize."

TULSA, OKLA.—Henry M——, one of the wealthiest men in the city, recently discharged the butler who had served him faithfully for fifteen years. Friends of Mr. M—— expressed amazement.

"I thought, Henry," said a close relative, "that you'd always maintained your butler was a treasure."

"It's true," said Mr. M——. "He's one of the best butlers I ever had. But his bridge has gone downhill awfully."

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Peter Van W——, well know sportsman, has just returned from a scientific expedition to the south seas. While exploring one of the lesser known islands he was captured by a tribe of cannibals and carried off into the interior. Tied to a tree, he was forced to watch gruesome culinary preparations being made in which he was scheduled to take the main rôle. Fortunately, Mr. Van W—— had in his pocket a pair of African dominos. He attracted the attention of the chief, and as he knew a smattering of the native dialect, he managed to get across the idea that he wanted to show the tribe a new game while the water was boiling.

"And do you mean to say," asked an incredulous listener, "that the natives got so interested in shooting dice that they let you escape?"

DOVER, Del.—Among the odd accidents must be recorded the case of William H——, who is now in City hospital. Mr. H—— claims that his wife kicked him under the bridge table and fractured his shin bone.

Let Your Child Get Many Sided View of World

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

When a number of children are exposed to measles, they don't all "catch" the disease; but many do. When a great many children are vaccinated, it doesn't "take" with some; but it does with most. When children are exposed to different diseases, for different reasons some will get one and some will get another.

We who want children to realize themselves, to discover themselves, and to live fully believe in "exposing" them, as the current expression is, to many experiences in life, so that they can do three things:

First: so that they can develop as richly and in as all round a way as possible, because all sides of a child need their chance.

Second: so that they can find out which experience "takes" with them—which is another way of saying, so that they can discover where their individual talents or special interests lie.

Third: to widen their horizon.

What are the things we believe in "exposing" them to not only in their home life but in their school life? And not all at once, to be sure, but over a period of years?

There are many experiences, but among them are:

Pictures, music, books; sports, competitive or otherwise; the great outdoors, woodcraft, nature; drawing, painting, sculping; foreign languages, writing [creative writing, not penmanship]; craftwork of various kinds, like carpentry and metal work and sewing and mechanical work [on radios and cars]; printing and cabinet work; collecting stamps or other objects; doing chemistry experiments; visiting museums and zoos and parks; traveling or taking short jaunts to places of interest, such as railroad terminals or factories; dramatic expression; dancing; social or group activity.

We "expose" our children to all these things or nearly all, but of course gradually, and at different times in their lives. Nor must we hurry them into experiences—the young child, for example, needs scarcely more than his home and his family to furnish him with rich experience and adventure for the early years. Judgment must be used so that he is not forced nor confused.

Life will be full of interest for the child whose experience is many sided in this sense of the word.

Don't Be Fat!

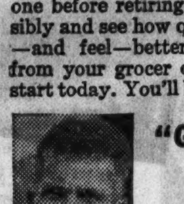
says IRENE RICH
Lovely Lady of the Screen

"Eat Sensibly—Drink Welch's Grape Juice"

Too many rich, sweet foods make you sluggish and fat—but, on the other hand, a low-calorie diet makes you weak and haggard. So it's good news that now, at last, scientists have discovered a way to reduce healthfully, and keep youthful in appearance! You must supply the body with a certain amount of an easily-burnable sugar—so that the body can burn up its fat.

Welch's Grape Juice contains this special kind of sugar—a natural sugar, exactly the same kind your blood uses for energy. This sugar is easily and quickly burned, and it helps the body burn up fat! Not only that, it satisfies the craving for rich, sweet foods—helps you lose weight naturally.

And because Welch's is an energy food, it keeps you full of youthful pep, puts roses in your cheeks. At the same time fat is slipping away. So remember—drink 4 glasses of Welch's a day. Simply mix ¾ Welch's with ¼ plain water. Drink a glassful before every meal and one before retiring. Then eat sensibly and see how quickly you look—and feel—better. Get Welch's from your grocer or druggist and start today. You'll be glad you did!



"Gives Quick Pep and Energy" says Coach

"Red" Woodworth, Coach of Morgan Park Military Academy, says: "Welch's Grape Juice gives my boys strength and energy without adding health-destroying fat. The minerals and vitamins are valuable in building firm flesh, strong bones and teeth. I recommend it for all growing children and athletes."

Irene Rich, past forty, still has the same slim, lovely figure she had at 16.

BEWARE OF CHEAP SUBSTITUTES

Get only genuine Welch's. For the secret Welch Process retains the essential healthful properties of ripe Concord Grapes. Welch's is also the only grape juice that is Certified-Pure, Pasteurized; contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no added water. Always full strength. Can be diluted with ¼ water and still be delicious. Hence Welch's goes farther too. So ask for it by name. And be sure to get what you ask for!

IRENE RICH RADIO DRAMAS every Friday night over NBC Blue Network. Watch your paper for the time and station.

Affair Tomorrow

Mrs. Horace White Armstrong and her daughter, Miss Mary Armstrong are pictured on the steps of their home in Sheridan road, Winnetka. Mrs. Armstrong is a member of the Winnetka Garden club which is having a novel affair tomorrow afternoon in place of a flower show. "Twenty-four Hours in a House and Garden" is its title and purchasers of tickets, which are $1 each, will be entitled to visit the estates of Mrs. Robert Cluett, Mrs. Rudolph Matz, Mrs. James Simpson, Mrs. Arch W. Shaw, Mrs. Alice Drake Miller and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish.

Marks-Church Nuptials Today Surprise City

Wedding at Taylor Home in Nantucket.

BY JUDITH CASS.

In Nantucket, R. I., today there will be solemnized a wedding that will surprise Chicago folk, for no announcement of the engagement of the young couple, Miss Josephine Marks and John Franklin Church, had been made owing to the death this spring of her uncle, Benjamin Franklin Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor had planned to announce the engagement of her niece, who has lived with the Taylors for some years, this spring, but Mr. Taylor's illness and death changed the plan and so today, as quietly as possible, Miss Marks and the young Cincinnatian, who has been living in Chicago for several years, are being married in the garden of Mrs. Taylor's summer home. The service will be read at 1 o'clock by the Rev. Chauncey Blodgett, rector of the Episcopal church in Nantucket, in the presence of the immediate families.

Miss Josephine Church will be the only attendant for her brother's bride and Warner L. Atkins of Cincinnati will serve Mr. Church as best man. Mr. Church, who is the son of Mrs. John A. Church of Cincinnati, has been living with Theodore and Robert Tieken at 223 East Delaware place and has been one of the popular young bachelors ever since he moved here from Cincinnati. He has kept up his membership in the University and Country clubs of Cincinnati although he expects that Chicago will be his home indefinitly. He also is a member of the University club of Chicago.

He is a graduate of the Virginia Military institute and Miss Marks went to Kemper Hall. After a fortnight's wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. and Mrs. Church will be at home at 170 East Pearson street for the summer. Mrs. Taylor will be back in her apartment at the Ambassador East in the late autumn.

Harvard-Yale Boat Race Will Be Today.

Several dozen Chicagoans, most of them with sheepskins from eastern seats of learning, will be in New London today to see America's oldest college sporting event. It's the annual Yale-Harvard boat race rowed over the historic Thames course at New London, and more than ever before it is to be a brilliant highlight of the social as well as the sporting season.

By plane, motor, special train, and in their own yachts the hundreds of race spectators will reach New London this morning. Many of them were up the Hudson near Poughkeepsie on Tuesday afternoon to see the crews of seven colleges row in the Intercollegiate Rowing association regatta.

Report from the east gives the edge to Yale, but Harvard has almost always been dangerous at New London and there is small reason to expect anything different this year.

President Roosevelt is expected to attend. If he does he will ride with the referee, Albert W. Putnam, and he will be especially interested in the Harvard junior varsity boat in which his son, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., will row at No. 4. Last year young Roosevelt rowed with the Crimson freshmen, which was a 5 to 1 favorite to win but was beaten by Yale.

Crews Will Be Guests On Yachts.

Today Yale's varsity crews, accompanied by coaches and managers, will be guests aboard the Edward Harkness' power yacht Stevana. The Eli freshmen will be aboard Mrs. Payne Whitney's Diesel-engined houseboat, Captiva, and Harvard's whole squad will be on the power yacht, Vara, owned by Harold S. Vanderbilt.

All of the luncheon and cocktail parties that will provide gayety for the visitors during the day will reach their climax in the usual dinner-dance this evening at the Hotel Griswold.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hooper and Louis C. Seaverns with his bride are four of the Chicagoans who will be in New London for the race and parties. Both Mr. Hooper and Mr. Seaverns went east last week to enjoy

Joan Crawford and Cast Are Tops in This

Critic Likes Toning Down in Her Makeup.

"NO MORE LADIES."

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Edward H. Griffith.
Stage play by A. E. Thomas.
Presented at the United Artists theater.

THE CAST.

Marcia	Joan Crawford
Sherry	Robert Montgomery
Edgar	Charlie Ruggles
Jim	Franchot Tone
Fanny	Edna May Oliver
Theresa	Gail Patrick
Oliver	Reginald Denny
Lady Diana Moulton	Vivienne Osborne
Caroline	Joan Burfield
Lord Moulton	Arthur Treacher
Duffy	David Horsley
Sally	Jean Chatburn

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"No More Ladies" may not be the best picture in which Joan Crawford has appeared—but I've never liked her as well in any other.

Gone is the extreme makeup which made her great eyes weird and her lips like twin chunks of raw liver. The toning down process, which reveals her as a very charming lady indeed to look at, has seeped into her technique and her gowning. I think you will agree that her portrayal of Marcia has a satin smooth finish that has been lacking in former characterizations.

This picture, adapted from the stage play by A. E. Thomas, deals with the marriage problem as it concerns two wealthy young society folk who love each other dearly. BUT—[always a "but," isn't there?]

Sherry, an irrepressible playboy, hadn't intended to marry. As a matter of fact, neither he nor Marcia had believed in marriage, having seen it work out badly in so many cases. However, Marcia, having analyzed the marital question and tried out its pros and cons in her own mind, decides that the fault doesn't lie with wedlock but with the wedders. . . . If a couple really EXPECTED a lot from marriage instead of taking it for granted that same would prove a fizzle—and worked to make their union a success—it would BE a success. . . . Consequently—

She inveigles Sherry into proposing. And so they are married.

For awhile there are several sorts of hell to pay. There's a night club girl HE used to know and a divorced man who admires HER—and whose wife had once played about too much with Sherry. . . . And so on.

Never mind! Marcia and her shrewd, witty, tippling grandmamma are equal to all occasions and the curtain goes down on the happy laughter of Marcia and Sherry.

I thought the stage play was more cleverly strung together than the movie and that, with the exception of Edna May Oliver—the "legitimate" cast was more interesting. But "No More Ladies" as screened goes along at a pretty lively clip, minor rôles are handled capably enough and Joan, Robert Montgomery, and Franchot Tone—and Edna May—are tops.

Miss Sears to Lecture on Negro Housing Problems

Lectures on "Where Shall the Negro Live?" will be given by Miss Amelia Sears, former county commissioner; Chandler Owen and Walter White in the Bethesda Baptist church, 5301 South Michigan avenue, at 3:30 p. m. Sunday. The meeting is sponsored by the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, of which Mr. White is secretary. The merits and demerits of large housing projects for Negroes and the segregation issue will be discussed.

U. of C. Anthropology Students to Work at Indian Mounds

Fifteen young archæologists of the University of Chicago will leave today for a summer of excavation and investigation of hitherto unexamined Indian mounds and relics near Metropolis, Ill.

For three generations the Kincaid family which owned the tract to be visited refused investigators the right to work there. Six months ago a friend of the university purchased the site and turned it over to the university for a period of several years.

Four large mounds, twelve smaller mounds, and a prehistoric village site that may extend to more than 100 acres, have been found on the Kincaid farm, and a tentative exploration last year yielded 30,000 "artafacts," such as pottery, tools, and weapons of prehistoric Illinois Indians.

The current expedition, the eleventh sponsored by the school, is under the direction of Prof. Fay-Cooper Cole, and the members of the group are graduate students of anthropology.

West Division High Class of 1885 to Hold Reunion

More than 30 members of the graduating class of 1885 of the Chicago West Division High school and their families will gather tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Seymour Morris, 801 Bryant avenue, Winnetka, to celebrate their fifteenth annual reunion. Among class members are George W. Dixon, Circuit Judge George Fred Rush, Walter S. Holden, former master in chancery, and James Gamble Rogers, New York architect who designed several buildings for McClintock campus of Northwestern university and others at Yale.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

There have been many tales of the changes made in books by scenario writers who adapt them for the screen. The prize one, perhaps, concerns Vincent Starrett, whose latest murder mystery, "The Great Hotel Murder," has been cinematized, with Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen playing leading rôles. The author sat for an hour bewildered at a preview wondering who had done the foul deed and why.

Author—
Yawner—
Titles—
Tramp.

In the morning mail. "Due to an article you printed the other day, the customers on an 'L' train were royally entertained that same evening.

"A young lady with whom I am acquainted took the 'L' home from work that evening. Before she left the office she picked up a copy of THE TRIBUNE to read on the way home, but after getting on the train she decided she was too tired to read. Between yawns she noticed several persons in the car looking at her and smiling. She checked her complexion in her mirror, yawned a few more times, and noticed several more people watching her and smiling. Becoming rather annoyed and embarrassed, she picked up the paper, . . . and the first thing that met her eyes was your column with the letter about the blonde young lady who yawns on the Lake Street 'L.' And she answered perfectly the description of the other girl.

"JOSEPH H. BELAIR."

A HOSPITAL doorman frequently is given books to read that are later to be placed in the Junior League library in the hospital. A few days ago two books were given him the same morning. They were "Bad Girl" (Delmar) and "This Pure Young Man" (Fineman).

A TRAMP knocked at the back door of a home in Freeport a few days ago and, when a woman opened the door, stated brazenly that he had had a little something to eat elsewhere, but wasn't quite sated. He was brought in and fed. The woman's son, who happened to be a state policeman, was sitting in the kitchen in his shirt sleeves when the tramp entered, and the son finished his meal and left the room. The tramp lingered on, dawdling over his food, and it was borne home to the woman that perhaps he was waiting, with evil intent, for her son to leave. Just as she was becoming uneasy her son, who had slipped into the coat of his uniform and buckled on his gun, reappeared in the kitchen to say good-by to his mother. The reaction was instantaneous. After one glance at the official khaki and the holster the tramp abruptly departed. In fact, had the Freeport lady not been such a meticulous housekeeper he would have disappeared in a cloud of dust.

Urge Baptists to Active Role in Government

Predict Widespread Debate on Proposals.

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 20.—(AP)—The commission on social action proposed today that the Northern Baptist convention actively enter politics and other spheres of general activity which thus far it has ignored.

A widespread discussion of the commission's proposals was expected before the convention votes on the report next Monday.

Dr. Avery A. Shaw, president of Denison university, Granville, O., convention president, gave his support today to a number of the commission's proposals, which are opposed by the fundamentalist group.

"We must enlarge our ideas of redemption, which begins in the individual but does not stop until the individual sees its larger implications," he said.

The social action recommendation proposed that the denomination "champion" the rights of conscience and civil liberties," oppose "warlike tendencies of the government," seek to devote concentrated wealth to "social well being," educate in the principles of collective bargaining, and champion political parties or candidates representing the "most favorable disposition" to effect "Christianlike social and economic changes."

Blue Devils.

The Blue Devils, Franco-American society, will close their club year with a party tomorrow evening at the residence of Washington Porter, 4044 Oakenwald avenue. A program will be given by Rosita and Raoul, dance team with the San Carlos Opera company; Louis Rousseau, tenor with the French Opera Comique, and Max D'Origny.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If you like only the latest whisper in this or in that you probably won't get enthused about a "lettuce" soap we found in one of the Chicago shops. But if you feel that sometimes old things are amazingly good things and deserving of a better fate than just to be taken for granted you'll give it your attention.

This soap has been about for all of 75 years—and in that time we'll bet the maker has never changed the design on the wrapper of each cake. There's nothing modern about it. There are courtly statements to the effect that the soap is "très recherché pour la toilette des dames et des enfants . . ." and the design is a curlicued affair representing heads of lettuce that reminds you for all the world of the steel engravings that hung in your grandmother's parlor.

But while the wrapper may be quaintly amusing, there's nothing to giggle at in the soap itself. It's definitly made for delicate skins and its blandness will be a blessing to many a thin skinned woman who has trouble finding the right soap. There's no fancy fragrance—the scent of it is delicate and cool and somehow delightfully clean, just as salad lettuce should be. Even the color of each cake is tied in with its name; it's a pleasant green, but not a pastel.

This "lettuce" soap makes a delightful creamy lather. On every count we're quite smitten with it. We like its blandness, its fragrance, and its appearance. And it does seem to us rather a charming bath item for warm weather when you demand so much more of your daily tubbing than that it merely remove the grime.

We're told at the shop that carries it that some women have quietly bought it there for decades and that nothing could persuade them to switch to another. It's survived for 75 years on its merits, with knowing, fastidious women seeking it out. It might be just what you've been wanting.

Modest Purses Get a Break in Summer Styles

Tub Materials Make Swanky Street Outfits.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Don't let an undernourished clothes allowance keep you away from summer clothes or the temptation to buy new models. There are plenty of moderately priced collections in all the stores. Dresses, suits, and ensembles with low price tags will make you realize that somebody is taking care of the clothes hound with a modest budget.

Cotton suits in bright plaid prints, slim trim street dresses in one color with contrasting jackets, very swanky sports dresses without sleeves, trimmed with big colored buttons and made of tub materials like puckered seersucker are plentiful. The last mentioned dresses come in white and all colors.

Lots of violet and lilac shades in silk suits and ensembles are made with a smart short sleeved frock and expertly cut and tailored separate jacket. These violet shades come with stunning contrasts of color like an ascot scarf, or belt of dotted material usually in sheers. All kinds of yellow compete with dusty pink and soft old blue for style honors. Countless all white silk creations are made with unusual trimmings, with flattering necklines and rows of tucking or fagoting for embellishment.

And if you want flowered chiffons, these, too, are ready and waiting to lure startling small sums out of your cash supply. Whether you want afternoon chiffons, snappy street outfits, or swanky casual spectator and active sports clothes, this collection of more than reasonably priced summer clothes is what your have been looking for for days.

Fashion photograph . . . Striped colored big buttons trim this dusty pink silk street suit. Triangles trim the flattering collarline and the patch hip pockets. The plaited short sleeves of the dress slip smoothly into the loose wide long sleeves of the jacket. Available in a Chicago store where you can also find the becoming pale pink felt hat with a laced edge brim.

Expect 10,000 Delegates at Plumbers' Convention

The fifty-third annual convention of the National Association of Master Plumbers will open at the Stevens hotel on Monday. More than ten thousand delegates from all over the country are expected to attend the sessions, which will last three days. A preview of the plumbing exhibit will be held at the hotel on Sunday evening.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Taliaferro Milton of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter Isabel to Edwin Cerney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cerney of Chicago. Miss Milton was graduated from Carleton college in 1933 and returned there the following year to take her master's degree. Mr. Cerney attended the school of fine arts at Yale and the University of Chicago. The wedding will take place in July.

Mrs. Louis B. Stewart of Des Moines, Ia., announces the engagement of her daughter Margaret to Leon Townsend Dickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dickinson of Hubbard Woods. Miss Stewart is studying at the University of Chicago, where she expects to receive her degree this summer. Mr. Dickinson, a graduate of Williams college, has been teaching at Whitman college in Walla Walla, Wash., and this summer he, too, will study at the University of Chicago. Miss Stewart, who went to Carleton college before coming to Chicago, and Mr. Dickinson will be married next month.

Lutherans Must Ballot Again on Synod President

Cleveland, O., June 20.—(AP)—The pocess of electing a president of the Missouri synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church necessitated more than one ballot today for the first time since it was founded in 1847.

None of the five nominees received the required majority on either the primary or the first official ballot which followed. The second official ballot will be polled tomorrow.

Heretofore every president received his majority on the primarary ballot.

Results of today's first ballot following the primary were:

Dr. Frederick Pfotenhauer of Chicago, president since 1911, led with 253 votes. Following were Dr. J. W. Behnken of Houston, Tex., with 206; Dr. F. Lankenau of Napoleon, O., 25; the Rev. Paul Lindemann of St. Paul, Minn., 16, and the Rev. Henry Greuber of Milwaukee, Wis., 13.

The Rev. Mr. Grueber's name will not appear on tomorrow's ballot since the election follows a process of gradually eliminating the low candidates.

As the business session closed late today, delegates continued to debate the steering committee's recommendation that Concordia seminary at Springfield, Ill., be closed primarily as an economic measure.

Allister Back in Hollywood After 2 Years

British Actor Resumes His American Career.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 20.—[Special.]—Claude Allister, who cut off a rosy Hollywood career a little over two years ago to return to England, is back in Hollywood for rôles in "The Dark Angel" and "Every Night at 8."

Allister, who aroused some wonderment by leaving after making a vivid impression here in "Trial of Mary Dugan," "Bulldog Drummond," "Three Live Ghosts," "Papa Loves Mama," and "Such Men Are Dangerous," now has this to say: "I am back in America after two years on the London stage and in British films because I am a patriotic Briton. I went to see 'Lives of a Bengal Lancer' in England. I concluded they were making better British pictures in America than in England. So here I am."

Allister overstated it just a little. He played in some outstanding English films: "Henry the Eighth," "Return of Bulldog Drummond" and "Return of Raffles" before coming back here. The matter of the dollar versus the pound had something to do with it.

There's a new Sam Goldwyn story. Sam went over to Blackfoxe Military school where his ten year old son is a student. The lieutenant took the proud father to look in son's classroom, and there was young Goldwyn off in a corner by himself looking gloomy and obviously under discipline. After the class was over, Sam, disappointed, entered the room. "What's the matter with my boy?" the film magnate asked, with that little catch in his voice that is familiar to those who have conversed with Sam when his attention or emotions are active.

"It's this way, Mr. Goldwyn," the instructor said. "I read the class a story from this book,"—pointing to a volume. "The students were to retell the story in their own words and give their opinions of it. I asked your boy to speak and all he said was 'that story is lousy; it smells.'"

A slow smile effaced the downcast look of Goldwyn Sr. "Well, that's not so bad," he commented. "After all, maybe the boy will be a producer."

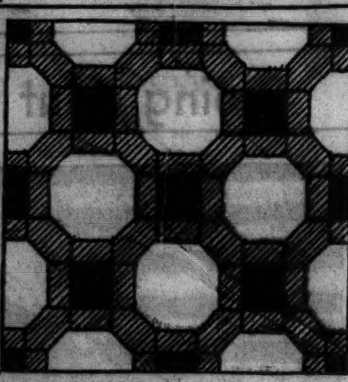
Johnny Weissmuller has rigged a stanch rope line from his bedroom window to the garage door at his home. He uses it for Tarzan practice.

You wouldn't believe it, but souvenir crazy visitors who were allowed on the set of "Mutiny on the Bounty" at the Isthmus of Catalina Island walked off one day this week with the cork leg of Dudley Digges, who plays a peg leg sailor. A new lumber limb had to be supplied from the mainland costing the company a day of shooting.

Alice Faye has received an $8,000 star sapphire ring. She says it was sent her to seal a betrothal, but she won't name the donor because she hasn't made up her mind if she wishes to accept it. "The minute I put on the ring, if I do, I'll tell whom I'm engaged to," she says. She says the ring was delivered to her on the movie set; that's how its value and her receipt of it became a matter of mention.

After appearing in "Mary of Scotland" and "Sylvia Scarlett," Katharine Hepburn will do "Quality Street" for Radio studio during the coming year. . . . Joan Crawford will sing and dance and Clifton Webb of stage fame in "As Thousands Cheer" will dance in "Elegant," which Metro studio describes as a "musical drama."

Pieced Blocks Are Used Exclusively in Unique Quilt



White Mountains.

BY NANCY CABOT.

As most quilt makers know, it is a striking and unusual quilt pattern which may be pieced and set together without any intervening plain blocks. "White Mountains" is one of these blocks. The coverlets composed entirely of pieced blocks have the happy faculty of presenting various interesting and undiscovered patterns which lead an observer into a maze of strange new designs. New Hampshire is the home state of this attractive pattern, which has crossed the country many times due to its undiminishing popularity.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

When Romance Is Over, Never Pursue Beau

If Boy Writes Finis to Affair, It's Dead.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What do you think of a fellow who writes a letter telling you that he 'quits,' but there never will be another one like you and gives you no explanation for his quitting? What do you think his explanation can be? Do you think I should write to him and tell him that at least we can be friends? How can I make him realize that I wish we would be just friends? My birthday will be along soon. Do you think I should wait and see if he will write or send me a card or gift? If he loves me, don't you think he will reconsider his rash suggestion to quit? Please give my questions considerable thought because the answers mean everything to me. LIL."

We have given the questions the thought requested, Lil, and we think you are postponing your agony when you refuse to accept the finis as presented. We may be wrong, we admit. We sometimes are. Yours may be just the persistency that wins out in the end. We have known women to battle right through the most discouraging odds to a victorious marriage, so we urge you not to consider us as the final word. But we've pride and a red headed temper that would just rise up and tell said boy friend that our only regret was that we didn't issue the quitting orders first.

The last thing we would do would be to beg an explanation. The suggestion that we no longer were the inspiration would inspire us to stake a new claim elsewhere. But, then, this is your affair, Lil, not ours. Even in your shoes, however, we would not beg an explanation. There might not be a good one.

It might be finances and the chap's determination to keep away from unnecessary expenses until he could recoup. Financial aid from you would be the worst thing to suggest in this case. Or it might be just that the flame had burned out, in which event the less fanning you do the better.

We are not optimistic about the friendship arrangement developing out of a dead love affair. Sometimes it's managed, but rarely, unless the woman has found solace elsewhere, in which case she can afford the magnanimous gesture.

Harvard U. Awards Honorary Degrees to Two Exiled Germans

Cambridge, Mass., June 20.—(AP)—Harvard university today bestowed honorary degrees upon Albert Einstein, scientist, and Thomas Mann, novelist, both living in exile from Nazi Germany. Harvard also honored Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and nine others at the 299th commencement.

Dr. Einstein received the honorary degree of doctor of science and Secretary Wallace was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree. Academic degrees numbered 1,896.

William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kas., Gazette, and Norman H. Davis, American diplomat, received doctor of law degrees.

Honorary degrees of doctor of laws also were awarded to William Allan Neilson, president of Smith college; John Campbell Merriam, president of Carnegie institute, and George Sarton, Harvard authority on the history of science.

The Chicago men receiving degrees were R. G. Bohnen, E. C. Dapples Jr., N. de Tarnowsky, H. F. Gillette Jr., C. F. Haas, who was honored with magna cum laude; J. Hall, W. H. Jewell, E. N. Kimball, S. B. Lifschultz, R. G. Olsen, who also received magna cum laude; J. M. Snitzler, D. B. Stern, who received cum laude honors; W. A. Tucker, E. L. Ullman, and J. D. Weiss.

Movie Closeup

Attention, dance and movie fans! Word comes from the front that tonight at 10 o'clock Veloz and Yolanda will make their one and only personal appearance at the Roosevelt theater, where "Under the Pampas Moon"—in which they're featured—is showing. The sensational "Cobra Dance" is their pulse quickening contribution to the movie.

The Ortega Feud

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Chris Jackson is sent by Bill Benton, new sherif of Monterey county, to put an end to the Ortega-Alvado feud, which has resulted in numerous murders. Both families believe California to be still Spanish and want Americans kept out. Pietro Sanchez runs the general store of the Big Sur valley. While calling there Chris encounters Guido Ortega, Ramon, his dare-devil son, and Ysabel, his beautiful, sad eyed niece. He falls in love with Ysabel at first sight, and has a quarrel with Ramon and publicly spanks him. Chris outfits himself for a supposed lion hunting expedition. He receives a note sent by messenger from Ysabel Ortega, hinting of a mysterious danger, begging his aid, and asking him to meet her in a fortnight. Chris camps in a canyon on the northern boundary of the Alvado ranch. A shot from an unseen hand gives him warning to leave. He is saved by Rocky, an old Indian hunter, who advises him to leave the country. Next day Chris meets Francesca Alvado, flirtatious Spanish beauty, who warns him her father allows no strangers in that part of the country. Chris tells her of his encounter with Ramon Ortega. It gains him welcome to the Alvado ranch. Guido Alvado invites Chris to a rodeo to be held in a week. During the rodeo the warring families hold a traditional three day truce.

INSTALMENT XI.

AN UNKNOWN TRAP.

The same rush of unreasoning jealousy that had flared up in him before set Chris' nerves tingling again.

"You bet your life I'll be there," he announced in strident tones that reverberated in the stillness of the canyon, "and in the meantime it's up to me to get as good a line on the Ortegas as I have on the Alvados."

It was sunset by the time Chris reached the beach that broke the descent of his canyon into the ocean. The sun was sinking into the sea, a fiery ball that tinted the clouds a hundred shades of pink and gold and cast a glowing path of flame on the water.

Chris pulled up for a moment and watched it sink out of sight. A few minutes later the glory of the afterglow tinted the clouds deeper and deeper until the whole sky flamed overhead.

"No wonder everything gets strained and intense in a country of these extremes," he mused, glancing back at the hills which reflected a pinkish tone, in bright contrast to the dark purple peaks of the distant mountains. "There's no outside diversion, so all they can do is to get more and more keyed up in one direction or another. Love or hate, it doesn't matter much which, as long as it's exciting enough. And that three day orgy of bottled up hates must supply them with an emotional jag that could easily last from one year to the next! It's just their way of getting an outlet, so I reckon nothing can be done about it."

With this philosophic solution of the strange ways of these extraordinary people, Chris headed away from the sunset and up to his camp.

Jerry's friendly whines answered his question, and as Chris stooped down to pat him, Tom nosed in for his share of attention.

Chris gave a short laugh of satisfaction as he caught the adoring gaze of the two pairs of trusting brown eyes, and reflected that the raid on his camp might turn out a blessing in disguise.

He was none the worse off as far as possessions were concerned, and through it he had won the complete trust and loyalty of his dogs. Also, it had opened up a greater intimacy with the Alvados than the mere acceptance of Francesca's invitation could have done.

Whistling softly to himself, Chris prepared his camp for the night, his mind busily preoccupied with schemes to carry out his plan of invading the Ortega territory.

Ysabel Ortega stood at the deep recessed window of her room, gazing out over the ocean at the next night's sunset from the one that had so stirred Chris on his way back to camp after his visit to the Alvados.

It was two days now since she had been at the ranch, but it seemed more like two years.

The trap she had known she was stepping into in coming back was closing around her slowly but surely, none the less deadly because it was subtle and invisible.

In the two years she had been away at the convent the inflexible and tyrannical nature of her uncle had become somewhat blurred in Ysabel's mind, and she had hoped against hope that some reasonable solution of the problem facing her could be reached.

But even on the way down she had realized the folly of her hope, and as she had come again into this wild region of isolation, she had impulsively grasped at the last straw of contact with the outside world, and sent back that desperate plea for help to a perfect stranger.

As she watched the sunset colors change a vision of Christ' face flashed before her, as she had seen it in that brief moment at the store.

"What must he think of me?" she murmured gravely. A flush dyed her cheeks as she remembered the desperate appeal she had written and sent in her moment of panic.

Had he dismissed it as the silly imagining of an hysterical girl? Or perhaps he thought it was a flirtatious move to lure him into following her?

Ysabel's cheeks burned a deeper red at this thought. No, he wasn't that kind! There was something big and fine and trustworthy about him, and O, the joy of that moment when he had dealt out to Ramon the rebuke he so richly deserved!

It was the swiftness and justice and humor of that punishment that had given Ysabel the courage to appeal to him.

A smile curved Ysabel's lips and lightened for a moment the sadness of her dark eyes at the memory of that tableau she had peeked at from under the curtain of the car.

Thank Heaven she had been able to give that warning cry in time to save Chris from Ramon's murderous knife! Did he know that the warning had come from her?

Ramon, she had discovered by adroit questioning, had not even heard it in his rage, and she had been wise enough to pretend that she had not seen him squirming in Chris's clutches.

She had sworn Maria to secrecy, and both of them had tried to convey the impression to Ramon and his father that they had only heard and not seen the scuffle.

Ramon had obviously been taken in by the pretense, and his ill humor had been somewhat assuaged, but Ysabel wasn't so sure about her uncle.

Although he had appeared to accept the impression she sought to give, Ysabel had a feeling that he had heard her warning cry, and added it up in his mind as one more count against her.

"Ysabel!"

Ysabel started violently as her uncle's voice broke in on her thoughts. She ran across the room and pulled open the door, which gave on to the inner court and patio.

Her uncle was standing at the far end of the corridor, and he beckoned to her impatiently.

"Where have you been? Maria has sounded the dinner gong twice!"

"I am sorry," Ysabel moved swiftly toward him, her ruffled white organdy skirt swinging with her graceful swaying walk, and her fingers busy with the broach at the neck of her pointed basque, "I did not mean to be late tonight of all nights."

"And why 'tonight of all nights?'" He shot her a keen look as he walked beside her to the dining sola.

Ysabel's heart quickened its beats at his sarcastic tone, but she took courage in both hands and met his eyes squarely.

"Have you forgotten that tomorrow is my eighteenth birthday?" She tried to key her question on a light bantering tone, but her voice quivered in spite of all her efforts. "And that you promised long ago that on the eve of my eighteenth birthday you would tell me everything about myself? And—" her voice faltered for a moment under the scornful look her uncle fixed on her, but she plunged resolutely on, "and that you would then give me my mother's jewels?"

Señor Ortega gave a short disagreeable laugh. He stopped with one hand on the wrought iron latch of the dining sola door.

"I have changed my mind;" his glances moved from the crown of Ysabel's head to her feet and back again in a mocking sarcastic appraisal. "My Ysabel needs no jewels to adorn her! There will be time enough for that on the day you become Ramon's bride. As to your history; your husband can tell you that."

Before Ysabel could answer, he pulled open the door, and strode over to the head of the table.

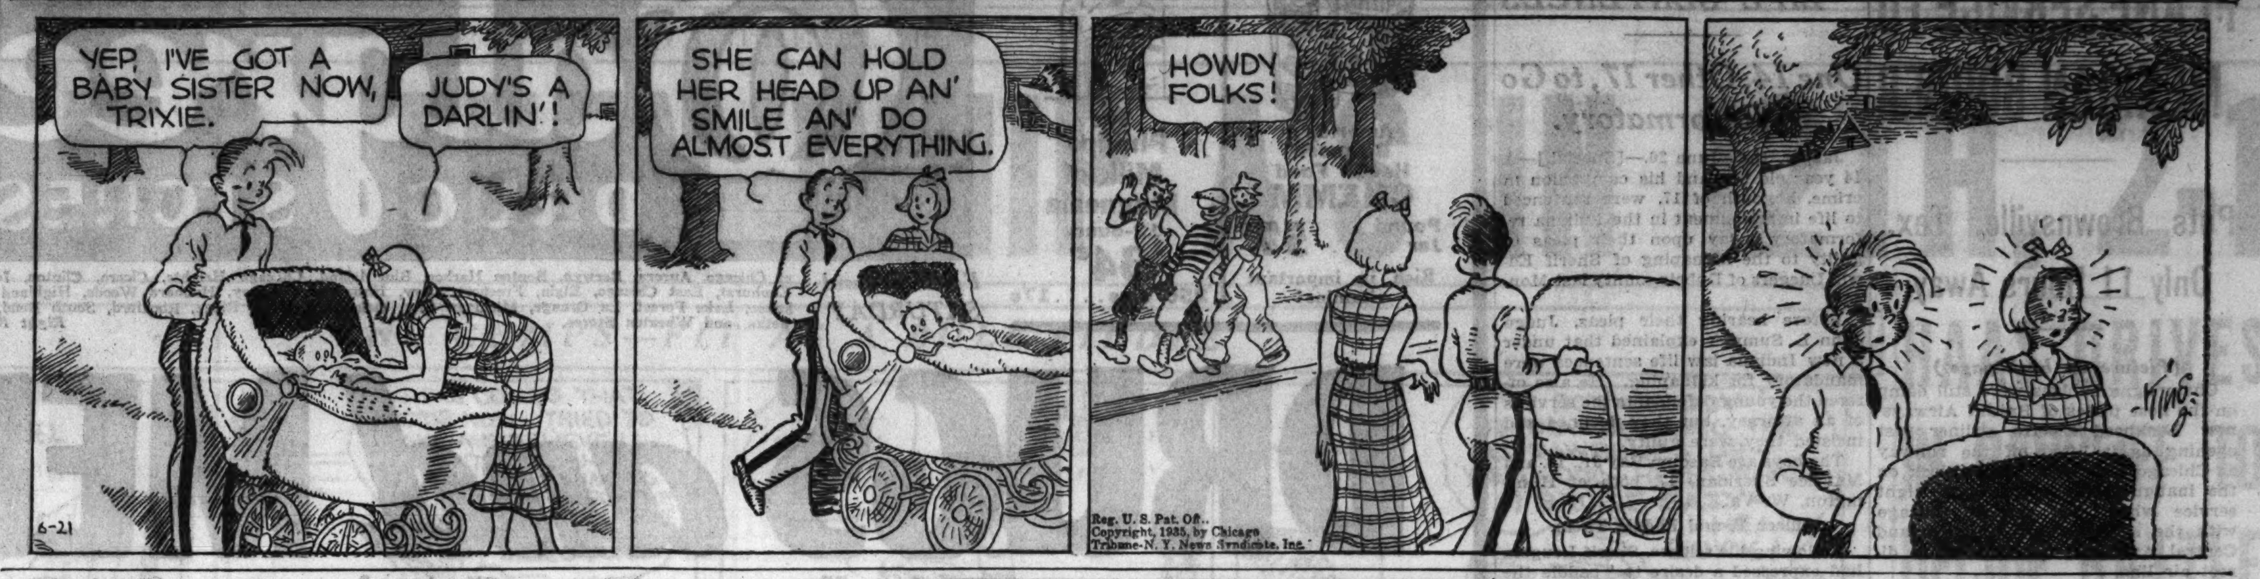
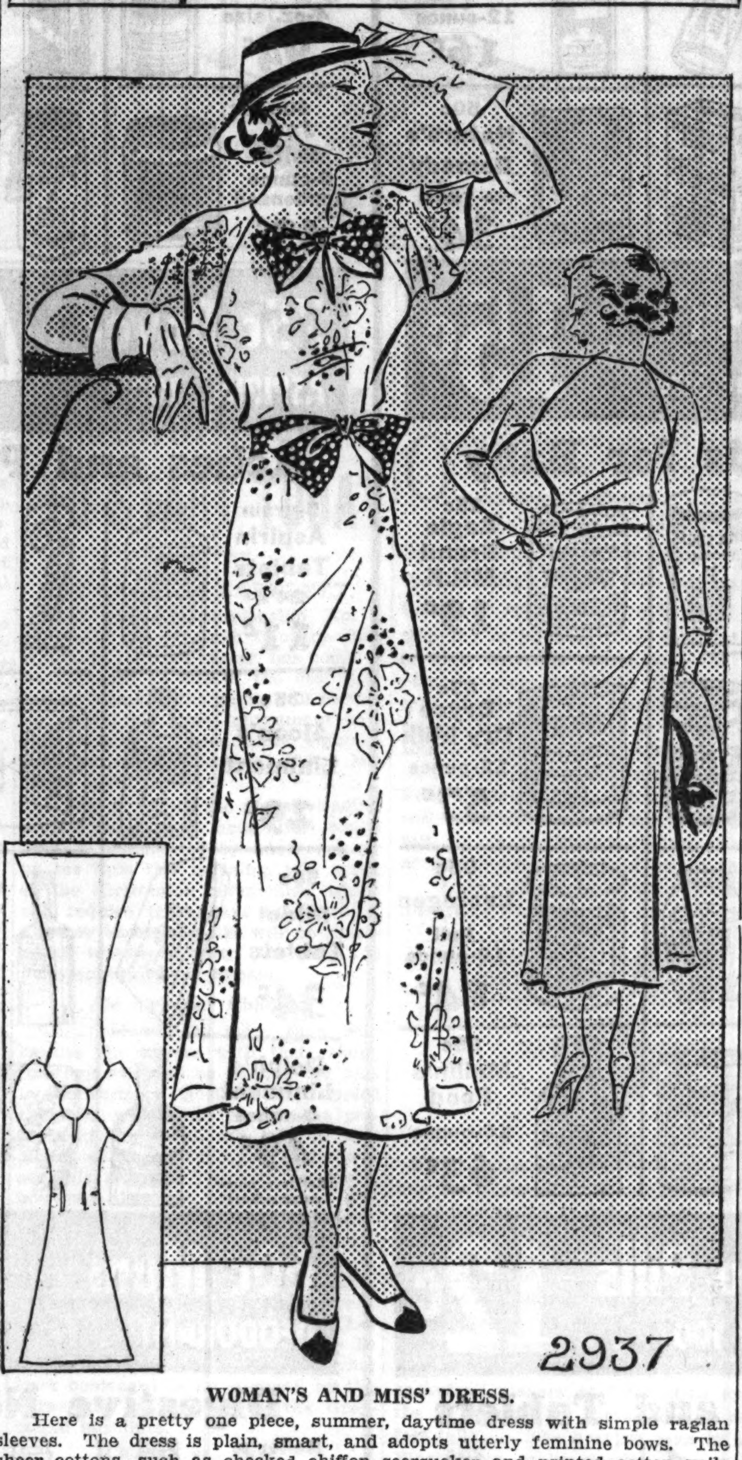
GASOLINE ALLEY—ARE THEIR FACES RED!



Dainty Bows Are Feminine



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a pretty one piece, summer, daytime dress with simple raglan sleeves. The dress is plain, smart, and adopts utterly feminine bows. The sheer cottons, such as checked chiffon seersucker and printed cotton voile will be smart, and poplin, in multi-colored stripes, and shantung linen are other suggestions.

The pattern, No. 2937, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Time was when fashion magazines confined themselves to the materials of dress and trimming details. But more and more I'm noting how the posture inside the dress is being stressed as a feature of the frock's success. I've just finished reading the suggestion, in a fashion magazine, that one get herself a full length mirror and, from a long vista, watch herself walk towards it. Get the feeling of the new clothes before you try to wear them. Well, you're not going to see that girl that is you approaching that full length mirror getting anything but a badly crumpled feeling if she's heading on toward the mirror with a dowdy gait.

Pretty soon I look to seeing posture rules tucked into the dress box delivered to the client. And a mighty good innovation it would be. The corset people have been known to make suggestions somewhat similar. Directions for glove and stocking care often are inserted between the covers of boxes delivered. Why not have a hint for the dress in what goes inside of it, too?

"Can you walk freely and erectly like a young Diana?" is a question inserted in one dress article. The nice, easy stride that accentuates the ripples in a pleated skirt is applauded. So, we're getting there, you see! And when our sex begins looking at the dress purchase from the view that exposes carriage needs, we're going to have a better dressed body of women. They'll make any frock look good.

"Clothes in action" is what you hear more and more. How the thing looks when you move across the room, down the street, up the avenue. That means what you will have to give the dress is a figure poised, straight, and free.

A health authority could talk posture and carriage until the cows come home, but let a fashion dictator arise in our midst and order that his clothes could be bought only by women of smart bearing, and wouldn't we be the scrambling lot in the direction of posture corrective salons.

I warn you, that's what we're heading for girls!

the 25th reunion of their Harvard class.

The Hathaway Watsons, now in the east, are planning on seeing the race and so are the Nathan Davises and Thomas Marshalls. Among the younger Chicagoans who will be in New London are the Lester Knights, Miss Betty Alexander, Miss Susie Morris, and Miss Janet Ayer.

Miss Alexander took the train east ten days ago to have a visit with the John A. Vietors at their home at Locust Valley, Long Island, before going up to New London. Miss Morris and Miss Ayer drove east but they have seen Miss Alexander, for they were all together at a house party at the Vietor home last week-end.

Mrs. Knight Attends Wedding in Rye.

Mrs. Knight, the former Betty Field of Rye, N. Y., was in Rye Wednesday to be matron of honor at a wedding in Christ church at which Miss Sybil Unger Dillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Stevens Dillman, became the bride of Lieut. Daniel Webster Latimore, U. S. N., son of Mrs. Thomas C. Latimore of Chattanooga. Lieutenant Commander Thomas C. Latimore, U. S. N., was his brother's best man.

Stewart Boal has been cherishing the hope of seeing the Yale-Harvard race for some time but at the last minute he decided he could not get away just now. He had planned to meet a former Chicagoan, Walter Egan Trevvett, in New London, and deliver to him personally congratulations on his engagement. "Whitey" Trevvett's fiancée is Miss Madeline Cullen, niece of Mrs. James Freeman Curtis of Washington, D. C., at whose home the wedding will take place on the 29th of this month. Mr. Trevvett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Trevvett of California, formerly of Chicago, is with the housing division of the department of the interior and has been living in Washington for little less than a year. He is a graduate of Harvard and also of the architectural school of that university.

Plan Reception for Blatchfords.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Blatchford are hoping for good weather today for they have planned a garden party for this afternoon to introduce to their good friends the bride of their son, Ensign Walter L. Blatchford.

Miss Mabel Perkins and the young naval officer were married in San Diego on June 12 and arrived in Winnetka last Tuesday for a week's visit with the Blatchfords. From here they will go to Wendell, N. C., for a visit with the bride's relatives and then on to New London, Conn., where the bridegroom will be attached to the submarine base for several months. They will pass through Winnetka again on their way west to sail for Honolulu, where Ensign Blatchford is to be stationed for a couple of years.

With thirty of their most intimate friends as guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McNear are celebrating their thirtieth wedding anniversary this evening with a dinner party at their bungalow on Onwentsia avenue in Highland Park. Most of these friends they have known for thirty years or more and a number of them attended the wedding.

To judge by the invitations issued for the party, it will be a happy evening full of surprises. The invitations portrayed a bride and bridegroom standing on the backs of race horses. The caption under the drawing was, "Thirty Years in a Circus."

Dinner Party Tonight for E. H. Manvilles.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler are having a dinner party tonight at their residence, 232 East Walton place, for Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Manville Jr., who recently moved to Lake Forest from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John Luther Dole have issued invitations for a dinner-dance on Saturday of next week at the Dunham Castle in Wayne, where they are spending the summer with Mrs. Dole's mother, Mrs. Wirth S. Dunham.

Many luncheon parties have been planned for tomorrow to precede the running of the American Derby at the Washington Park race track. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright, Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz, the Leonard Florsheims, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caruthers, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes and the Richard O'Haras are some of those who will have luncheon and box guests at the Washington Park Jocky club. Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Hertz each has a horse entered in the Derby.

The first anniversary of a wedding is to be celebrated this week-end up at Castle Park, Mich., when Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hamm Jr. are host and hostess to the friends that attended them as bride and bridegroom last June 23. All of them are going up either today or tomorrow and they will enjoy out of door sports as well as a reunion dinner tomorrow evening.

Before her marriage Mrs. Hamm was Joy Fairman of Winnetka. The friends who were their bridesmaids and ushers are Miss Ann Small, Mrs. William Miles Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Osborne, Miss Veronese Beatty, Miss Harriet Hamm, Frederick Hamm, William Drake, Cameron Eddy Jr., and Hampton Ripley.

Exmoor to Open Pool Wednesday.

Now that the big swimming pool at the Exmoor club in Highland Park is finished, the club members can hardly wait for its formal opening. [In fact the only thing that has pacified them at all is the cold, rainy weather.] According to invitations that went out yesterday, the opening will be next Wednesday evening and it will be celebrated with a buffet supper, dancing, and a fashion parade of bathing costumes. Another attraction will be a diving exhibition. The party arrangements are in charge of Harold Moore.

On Sunday afternoon all of Exmoor's tennis enthusiasts are certain to turn out for some lively and interesting matches. William Hess, North Carolina champion; William Reese, southern champion; Charles Harris, Florida champion; Hal Surface, Missouri valley champion; Miss Helen Fulton of Winnetka, Wightman cup player, and Mrs. Karl Kamrath will play. All of the men players will be competing in the intercollegiate championships at Northwestern university starting Monday.

Women's G. O. P. Club to Enjoy Tea Today.

Mrs. Franklin M. Miller of 1500 Lake Shore drive is opening her home for a tea and dramatic program this afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, for the benefit of the Women's National Republican club of which Mrs. Jacob Baur is president. Mrs. Baur is abroad and will not return until September.

The American Opera Society of Chicago has issued invitations to a view of the penthouses and gardens of Mrs. George Woodruff, 1500 Lake Shore drive, and Mrs. Williamson Willett, 2130 Lincoln Park West, on Wednesday of next week from 3 to 6 o'clock. Miss Emily Larned is president of the society.

Miss Mary Young, daughter of the Victor Youngs of East Delaware place, has arrived at home from the east where she attended a house party at New Haven after graduating from Vassar. The Youngs will open their summer home on Lake Beulah in Wisconsin in about a week.

Mrs. Edward A. Leight is leaving today for a three weeks' motor trip in the east.

OPEN OVERNIGHT PLANE SERVICE TO MEXICAN BORDER

Puts Brownsville, Tex., Only 11 Hours Away.

Champagne bubbles were still damp on the nose plates of Braniff Airways' new Lockheed Electra airliner last evening as it lifted off the runway at Chicago airport at 10:15 o'clock on the inaugural flight of a new night service which will connect Chicago with the southwestern oil cities and Central American countries on a direct air line.

Five minutes earlier Mrs. Nancy Traylor Swift had smashed the christening bottle against the ship, announcing as the glass and foaming wine spattered: "I name thee Starlight Express." The christening climaxed ceremonies during which consuls for Mexico, Colombia, and Honduras gave greetings of their respective countries to T. E. Braniff, president of the air line.

Carries Heavy Mail Load.

The plane which left last evening was carrying a party of newspaper representatives who are guests of Mr. Braniff on the inaugural flight. Although there are ten seats in the plane only eight passengers were carried because of the havy mail load in nose and wing compartments.

The first stop was at Kansas City, two hours out in the speedy little airliner which is capable of 220 miles an hour at 8,000 feet with both the Wasp Jr. motors turning their full rated 420 horse power. At cruising speed the motors deliver approximately 350 horse power each and the ship's speed is slightly less than 190 miles an hour. Head winds last night were expected to make the trip "bumpy" and to reduce the flying speed a little.

Direct Mexico Connections.

On the Starlight Express schedule as arranged for the present, the Electra is expected to land at Brownsville, Tex., on the Mexican border, at 9 o'clock this morning, Chicago time. The passengers there are to step aboard one of Pan-American Airways' Douglas DC-2 airliners and continue on to Mexico City, where they are to arrive at 1:45 this afternoon.

The new Braniff service, with a fleet of 12 of the modern Electras, will be the first fast air transportation ever offered travelers between Chicago and the southern border and cities on the gulf. These planes will be fitted with the latest type two-way radio, and will be flown by pilot and co-pilot. Hitherto this type of air transportation was available only on the major east-west transcontinental airways.

Links Americas' Capitals.

The service is expected to appeal particularly to vacationists who want to get to the southern Texas game country, to the gulf fishing grounds where tarpon and redfish are renowned, or to the Central American scenic countries with a minimum loss of time. Through the connection with Pan-American Airways' comprehensive airway web over all the Americas south of the United States, Chicago is now within a few days' travel even of the most distant southern capitals.

Slammed Door Jars Gun Off Wall; Woman Wounded

Fort Dodge, Ia., June 20.—(AP)—Mrs. M. P. Galloway struggled to close the door of her home here against the wind. It slammed shut. A rifle hanging over the door was jarred loose. It discharged as it hit the floor.

BOY KIDNAPERS OF SHERIF GIVEN LIFE SENTENCES

One 14, Other 17, to Go to Reformatory.

Jasper, Ind., June 20.—[Special.]—A 14 year old boy and his companion in crime, a youth of 17, were sentenced to life imprisonment in the Indiana reformatory today upon their pleas of guilty to the kidnaping of Sherif Edwin Luegers of Dubois county last Monday.

Before hearing their pleas, Judge John L. Summer explained that under a new Indiana law life sentences were mandatory for kidnaping. He also offered the young defendants the services of an attorney, but they declined and insisted they were guilty.

Officer Would Paddle Them.

Following his release, Sherif Leugers had expressed a desire to "paddle the pants" of the two lads, and had said he believed they could be reformed with a "tanning."

They kidnaped the officer when he sought to arrest them for the theft of an automobile. The car also contained bootleg liquor, the sherif said. While he was taking them to jail the boys suddenly drew revolvers and forced him to accompany them.

One of them kept him covered with a weapon while the other drove rapidly away. Twice the car ran into a ditch. The second time the young kidnapers manacled their victim with his own handcuffs and abandoned him and the car near Boonville.

A posse formed of local and state police armed with machine guns and other weapons came upon the boys where they were hiding in tall grass near Dickneyville, about 25 miles from here. After an exchange of shots, in which the younger boy was slightly wounded in the shoulder, they were captured.

Blames Publicity Craze.

Huntington, W. Va., June 20.—[Special.]—"Junior has a publicity psychosis," asserted E. Garland Ray, honor graduate of Marshall college, when he was informed today of the sentence meted to his 14 year old brother in Indiana. Ray recalled that his brother always found crime news, especially of such character as Dillinger and Pretty Boy Floyd, the most interesting of all reading.

While the boy's mother, hysterical over his fate, was wailing "if only the Lord would end my suffering," the elder brother pedantically discussed the case. The father shook his head, commenting only, "the boy's too young." He wired Indiana authorities asking that further action be delayed pending his arrival there tomorrow.

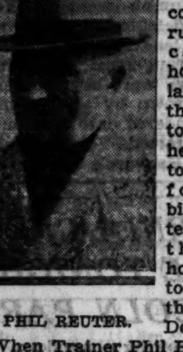
ROMAN SOLDIER MAY HAVE 13 TO BEAT IN DERBY

Few Scared Off by Favorite's Prestige.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Roman Soldier is going to have to prove out there on the race track that he is the big horse of the American Derby after all.



PHIL REUTER.

When the black colt that never runs a bad race came charging home the winner last Saturday in the Detroit Derby to indicate that he has returned to his sharpest form, the railbirds began to tell each other that very few horses would care to chase him in the American Derby.

When Trainer Phil Reuter, speaking as Roman Soldier's interpreter, began in midweek to challenge Omaha to a special race for the 3 year old championship, the clockers and the horsemen began to wonder if any owner would be rash enough to send his horse against Roman Soldier in the 27th American Derby.

But now, with the historic race only a day away, it looks as though the owners of the other top 3 year olds stabled at New Washington Park are a little hard of hearing, or never read the papers. For with every new claim that is made in behalf of Roman Soldier, more owners are signifying their intention of sending a horse or two out for the Derby. Instead of scaring the others away, the fact that Roman Soldier will be favorite seems to be attracting the largest Derby field in several seasons.

Field of 14 May Start.

Last night there was a prospective field of 14 and as jocky assignments had been made for twelve in the field it seemer certain that at least a dozen will go postward.

The prospective field follows:

Horse—	Wgt.	Jocky
Roman Soldier	123	G. Woolf
Tearout	121	W. Hanka
Firethorn	118	A. Robertson
Cold Shoulder	118	S. Renick
Count Arthur	118	J. Westrope
Our Reigh	118	No boy
Blackbirder	118	C. Hainsworth
Whiskolo	118	H. Albrect
*Blue Armor	118	C. Landolt
*Whopper	118	C. McTague
Black Helen	118	D. Meade
Bloodroot	113	L. Balaski
Nellie Flag	113	E. Arcaro
Judy O'Grady	113	No boy

*Doubtful starters.

While Roman Soldier continued to rule as a short priced favorite at 7 to 5, considerable support developed late yesterday for Nellie Flag, which next to Roman Soldier is the most outstanding mud runner in the race.

Nellie Flag Likes Mud.

The Warren Wright filly scored many notable victories in the mud last year. In some of them she ran as fast as horses usually go the same route on a fast trick. Her trainer Bert Williams, declared last night, however, that he would prefer a fast track to a heavy holding track for Nellie Flag.

The doubtful starters seem to be Hal Price Headley's Whopper, which would be sent out only if the track were fast, and the Milky Way farm's Blue Armor, which has hardly done enough in workouts to be up to a mile and a quarter.

After Joseph J. G. won the last race, which was at a mile and seventy yards, Trainer Lou Peters announced that his notorious colt would start in the American Derby.

Joseph J. G. came with a mighty rush in the stretch to win by a length from Donnie W. and Mighty Quick. It was Joseph J. G.'s first victory this

In the WAKE of the NEWS

CHANGE OF SCENE.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Discussion already has arisen whether the intercollegiate rowing regatta shall be repeated at Poughkeepsie, scene of varsity crew races uninterruptedly since they last were held at Lake Cayuga in 1920. The subject is a somewhat tender one, with several ramifications.

It seems that complimentary to the honor of entertaining the visiting oarsmen, Poughkeepsie tradespeople are asked to subscribe $3,000 toward underwriting the expense. Now, crew races are not sources of revenue, either to contestants or the promoting body, although to the spectator the expense is fairly stiff, compared to anything but a prize fight.

Onlookers come from afar, with railroad fare the primary outlay. If from New York, a special excursion ticket, returning same day, sells for $2.50. It costs only ten cents to cross the river on the ferry to the west bank. Seat on the observation train is a $4.75 setback. With meals included, visitors from as close as New York thus have a minimum expense of about $10, not including liquor, which seems a necessary adjunct to enjoyment of the occasion. The railroad keeps most of the $4.75 observation train charge so the event needs underwriting, for the Intercollegiate Rowing association, which unfortunately cannot charge for seats on the river bank which a majority occupy.

In times past, when attendance was good, Poughkeepsie tradespeople figured to get their $3,000 back in money spent by visitors. Of late years, spectators have decreased. They were particularly sparse last Tuesday, owing to threatening weather. So there has been marked hesitancy in contributing to the guarantee. Unofficial information is that it was not reached this season. Hence talk of removal elsewhere.

Why Smaller Crowds?

Depression has affected all sports events with expense involved. Colleges found it necessary to lower ticket prices for their football spectacles. Perhaps there is another reason here in the east. A prominent athletic authority, who asks omission of his name under the circumstances, says:

"My belief is that there is too much California, too much Pacific coast, in these affairs. It may be provincial, but our college graduates are tired of paying their money and suffering discomforts of large crowds to see their representatives trail home in hopeless chases after the Pacific coast boys.

"Far western crews have won seven of the last twelve regattas, been second four times. California track teams practically dominate the 4-A annual games. At Harvard there were only 2,000 paid admissions when Southern California won. Yet, at Princeton, with Lovelock running against Americans, 35,000 people were there. I don't like to admit it, but we have been native-sonned too much."

$3,500 OPEN AT MEDINAH COURSE TO START TODAY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

That young championship No. 3 course of the Medinah Country club, which, in its brief career, has come to be regarded as one of the best golfing problems in the game, will receive its official big time tournament baptism today with the initial eighteen holes of the first annual $3,500 Medinah open.

A field of 100 of the game's leading professionals and amateurs, which may be augmented by another forty by tee time this morning, will assist at the christening ceremonies, which will require three days to complete. Another eighteen holes will be transacted tomorrow, with the final 36 holes scheduled for Sunday.

Aid Crippled Children.

The field will do more than help baptize the course with their shots, for they will also be helping the kids in the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, which will receive the proceeds of the event, the only 72 hole money show the Chicago district will see this season. There is no doubt, however, that not many moons will pass ere the big west side club's pride will be the scene of another big time battle—the national open or the P. G. A. tournament, such is its caliber.

Admission to the tournament for a single day's play will be $1.10, or $2.48 for the three days. The club may be reached by motor car over Irving Park boulevard or Lake street, by the Milwaukee railroad, or by the Greyhound bus lines.

Chicago vs. Field.

The tournament is expected to be a battle between the Chicago district, which now boasts the ablest collection of pros in the country, and several outsiders who are on their way home after the national and western opens at Oakmont and South Bend. Because a number of late starters are expected several places have been left open in the pairings. New pairings and starting times will be assigned for tomorrow's 18 holes.

Two Edgewater amateurs, Dr. Frank Adamo and Alvin Vyse, and Dave Melville of Bloomingdale will open the firing at 9 a. m., and from there on the field will embark at seven minute intervals until 3:04, when the final threesome of Sandy Armour and Charley Penna of the home club, accompanied by Francis Schwartz of St. Louis, gets away.

Pick Out Your Stars!

Between these starters and finishers are the names of many of golf's greatest, so arranged in the starting times that there will be a steady parade of them through the morning and afternoon rounds. Among the star threesomes which will take up clubs against Medinah's No. 3 in the first round of the tournament are the following:

Talking It Over

ONE of the incidents that led to the recent rupture between Babe Ruth and President Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves involved the autographing of tickets. . . . A Boston merchant, wishing to develop some extra business, purchased 500 tickets for Braves' games on the promise that Ruth would autograph them. . . . Ruth refused. . . . Officials of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who last March announced they would return to California for spring training in 1936, are beginning to weaken. . . . They are thinking of pitching their camp at San Antonio, Tex. . . . CUBS AND BRAVES REST; CARLETON TO PITCH TODAY

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 20.—The Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves were excused from repeating their polar bear pageant this afternoon. The scheduled third game of the five game series was called off shortly after 1 o'clock, just a bit too late for the horse lovers to catch the last train for the Narragansett pony park.

The date for the playoff of today's postponement has not been set, but it won't be tomorrow. Tomorrow Tex Carleton will go against Fred Frankhouse in an effort to increase his June victory total to two. Tex looked fine in beating the Dodgers, 6 to 2, on June 16. He had not won a game previously since May 15, also in Brooklyn, and is eager to preserve his reversal of form by spanking his favorite cousins, the Braves. It will be recalled by some that Tex beat the Braves six times last year, once in every series. He also beat the Braves here on the first eastern trip. But they socked him in Chicago.

Officials Stick with Team.

Owner P. K. Wrigley, Business Manager-Treasurer Boots Weber, and A. G. [Bubbling Over] Atwater are sticking with the team in inspirational rôles and have expressed their intention to continue until the five game series with the Giants ends the eastern tour. Mr. Wrigley, Mr. Weber, and Mr. Grimm hold frequent conferences. Mr. Atwater, who is Mr. Wrigley's brother-in-law, sometimes attends, though he is only an informal vice president of the club. A. G. is a pleasant, happy fellow who radiates sunshine even on days like this one. He is very popular with the players and sour faced authors with the troupe. He deeply resents rumors that he has been giving pep talks to the athletes, he having no such assignment.

The main item of cheer around the Cub camp is the continued revival of Chuck Klein. His six homers in six days in Philadelphia were impressive, but there was fear that Chuck might tighten up again when he reached the larger Braves field. In yesterday's double-header, however, he made four hits, three out of four in the second game.

Keep Going, Chuck!

It is figured among the Cubs that if Klein keeps going as well as he has been doing in the east they probably will finish as high as second, with pennant contention a misty hope.

Owens to Run in 4 Events at National Meet

Berkeley, Cal., June 20.—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty track athletes from every section of the country will open an assault on times and distances in the 1935 National Collegiate A. A. meet here tomorrow. The opening day of the fourteenth annual meet, bringing together the pick from more than 70 colleges and universities, will find the Southern California squad the favorite to win.

Southern California is expected to develop another case of numerical superiority, plus secondary strength, the consensus being the Trojans can win the meet without taking a first place. Only Phil Cope and Roy Stanley, both credited last Saturday with tying the 120 yard high hurdles record of :14.2, and pole vaulter, Earl Meadows, rates even chances to win their events.

Jesse Owens, Ohio State's great colored star, may lead his team to victory. On his recent performances Owens will be the favorite to capture the two sprints and the broad jump. Recently he tied the world 100 yard dash record and bettered the accepted marks in the 220 yard dash, low hurdles, and broad jump. Owens also will compete in the low hurdles, and will face one of the best hurdlers of all time in Glenn Hardin.

Hardin is the defending champion in this and the quarter mile run.

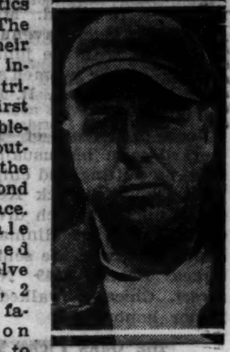
HAAS DRIVES IN RADCLIFF TO DECIDE BATTLE

Chicago Drops to Third Place.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

From twenty-two innings of spectacular play yesterday the White Sox extracted one victory and the Philadelphia Athletics did the same. The latter took their share by a ten inning 5 to 3 triumph in the first part of a double-header, the outcome nudging the Sox from second into third place. Then the Pale Hose bounced back for a twelve inning victory, 2 to 1, but the favorable decision wasn't enough to restore them to their original place in the percentage column.



BABE PHELPS.

The first game appeared to be safely tucked away until John Whitehead, the rookie star of the Sox staf, gave way under pressure. With Zeke Bonura's twelfth homer of the year and another hit by Bonura, as well as one by Mule Haas, Whitehead went into the ninth leading, 3 to 1. But he walked a couple in this inning and a pair of hits followed to drive in the tying runs. Then in the tenth Whitehead assimilated his fourth straight defeat when Bob Johnson singled and Jim Foxx sent his twelfth homer of the year out of the park.

Wyatt Helps Phelps.

The job of carrying the second battle well into twilight was well handled by Babe Phelps, master of the trick delivery. He went into the twelfth with only one run against his record, this being a homer by Roger Cramer in the fourth. But the Babe wasn't able to finish the inning. The protracted toil had worn him down and he was permitted to depart. Whitlow Wyatt cleaned up the inning without trouble and a few minutes later the Sox staged an uprising sufficiently potent to get the winning run across the plate.

While Phelps was holding the Macks to one run, the same was being done by Johnny Marcum. The lone tally he surrendered prior to the conclusion was the work of Bonura and Luke Appling. Besides this the same Marcum had made himself doubly unpopular with a pinch single that sent home the tying run in the ninth inning of the first battle. But three of the Sox finally cornered him in the twelfth. Radcliff singled over short. Hayes aimed a single between third and short. Then Haas lined a single into center and Radcliff hustled home with the winning run.

FIRST GAME

A single by Haas and double by Bonura failed to produce anything in the opening inning. So when they appeared in the fourth they reversed the order of hits and two runs followed. Haas did the doubling this time, a line drive to right center with none out. Bonura cut himself down to a single, Haas taking third. McNair fumbled a double play ball off Simmons' bat, Haas scoring. The two runners moved up on Appling's sacrifice and Dykes walked, filling the bases. Bonura scored on Grube's infield out, after which Whitehead fanned.

With the count 2 and nothing at the start of the sixth, Bonura delivered his 12th homer into the hands of a customer in the upper left field pavilion. This made Zeke's third hit off Blae-

WOMEN GOLFERS END COURSE IN TRIBUNE SCHOOL

Star Pupils Are Named by Instructors.

Fair skies and graduation exercises last night brought a crowd of 7,100 pupils out for the last women's lesson in the third annual TRIBUNE golf school conducted in coöperation with the thirteen member courses of the Daily Fee association.

Winners of the form contests were chosen on most of the courses, although several courses will wait until tonight before handing out the blue ribbons. By tonight the courses will have chosen four winners—one in each class—and the lucky 52 will compete twice for the prizes. On Sunday they will meet at Cog Hill in medal play at 1:30. Next Friday they will again come together for the final form contests at Mid-City.

Men Take Lesson Tonight.

Tonight the men and boys will have a similar opportunity to make up the missed lesson and at the same time finish up with the review. Following the lesson the winners of the form contests at each course will be chosen.

Tom Geary at Indian Head had a crowd of more than 250. After the regular lesson the winners of the form contest were picked. Miss Helen Carlson of 3324 Euclid avenue, Berwyn, Ill., walked off with the junior prize. The winner of the women's division was Mrs. F. D. Wilson, R. F. D. No. 2, in La Grange, Ill.

Big Oaks Picks Winners.

Otto Dumke headed the committee of pickers at Big Oaks. He was assisted by Jack Norton and Johnny Gibson. First prize in the women's division went to Miss Ruth Titann, 1107 Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park. Miss Titann never played golf before the school opened. Sixteen year old Dolores Schutssler took the junior honors.

Julian Strud gave the fifth and sixth lessons at Vernon but did not pick the form winners. He announced that the lucky four will be picked by Eddie Gayer of Twin Orchards and Mel Smith of Butterfield tonight.

Demonstrates Chip Shots.

At Evergreen Al Megeff announced that Matt Matteson of Ridge Country club would judge the swings. The winner of the juniors was Sue Suttee, 8221 Clyde avenue, and the senior prize winner was Miss Gertrude McAllister, 2440 South Kedvale avenue, Chicago.

Johnny Bulla entertained a large crowd at Big Run with a demonstration of chip and pitch shots. Bulla will pick the winners in all four classes tonight.

Field of Contestants Cut.

At Mid City Mel Thompson selected 15 pupils in each of four groups and asked them to return tonight, when finalists will be chosen. Mid City held two classes last night, one for women and girls at 7 o'clock, and one for men and boys at 8 o'clock. The same procedure will be followed tonight and the finalists will then be announced.

Jackie Northrop, a 14 year old miss, captured junior honors at Northbrook, according to Harold Johnson. To Mrs. Vernon MacNabb, 1630 Pleasant avenue, Highland Park, Ill., went the senior prize.

Postoffice Employes Will Hold Trials Monday.

Fred Gariepy yesterday won the J. F. Jelke trophy, offered for the low gross card in the golf tournament held at the Glen Oak Country club for members of the Holy Name society of St. Francis Xavier's church of La Grange. Gariepy finished the eighteen holes with a card of 80.

Blind bogey winners included Tom Hamilton, 90—2—88; Pete Henry, 88—0—88; A. B. Mellbon, 90—2—88; John Hanafee, 96—8—88; John Wiekinski, 96—20—76; Ben Martin, 98—22—76, and Kramer Reid, 86—10—76. The Rev. James Donovan, assistant pastor of the parish, finished with 100—19—81. Winners of ladies' prizes included Josephine Farrell, Mrs. William Pohl, and Catherine Reidy.

Joyce Wethered, English golf star, will pair with Johnny Dawson of the Glen Oak Country club in an exhibition match at the Ravisloe club July 9. Their opponents will be selected next week.

A. L. Hinelblau shot a 79 to win the low gross prize for members in the annual Hey Day at the Bryn Mawr Country club yesterday. J. Trock also carded a 79 to win low gross for guests. More than 200 competed. The low net winners were W. Kearney, 94—27—67, and Milton Smith, 96—27—69. The 18 hole low gross foursome event was won by N. Norian, Al Brown, B. H. Kelley, and A. Steffin with 368. The low net foursome prize went to Jacob Grossman, W. Klein, R. Johnstone, and H. Smitz, who had 317.

Sixty competed yesterday in the Chicago Furniture Men's association tournament at Techny Fields. Winners in the blind bogey event were Martin Sainman, George Stephens, and E. S. Munson. August Tamburino had low gross with 81, while Milton Nu Delman had low net with 75.

The Chicago Postoffice Employés' Golf association will hold its qualifying rounds for match play in four classes next Monday at Evergreen. The 16 low gross scorers in each class will be grouped for match play.

More than 250 members and guests of the La Salle Street Cashiers are expected to attend the annual golf outing at the Commodore Barry Country club, Twin Lakes, Wis., tomorrow and Sunday. The qualifying round of the golf tournament will be held tomorrow, with prize awards Sunday.

Harvard and Yale Crews Meet for 73d Race Today

New London, Conn., June 20.—[Special.]—Eighty-three years ago the crews of Yale and Harvard met in the first intercollegiate sporting event this country had ever seen. Tomorrow they race here for the seventy-third time. Morning and afternoon in three races the climax of a long training season will come for the freshmen, junior varsity, and varsity crews of both colleges.

Tonight it was evident all of the color and crowded excitement of other years at New London would be assured again tomorrow. There were several yachts already at anchor along the course this morning and they came in steadily during the day, most anchoring in the horbor off Eastern Point to wait for morning to move up to the course.

Their rigging was dressed with crimson and blue and the people from them poured into town. Trains brought others and license plates from a dozen states bore evidence to the automobile trafic.

Hotels reported full reservations and the thirty-five cars of the observation train were sold out almost completely tonight. Early tomorrow morning President Roosevelt will arrive and will follow the races on the river again as he did last year. Last June his son, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., rowed in the freshman shell. Tomorrow he will be in Harvard's junior varsity.

The regatta really started tonight when the combination crews rowed their annual race over the upper two miles of the course. These eights, made up of the combined varsity and freshman subs, always open the rowing here.

This first triumph went to Yale when the Elis defeated the Harvard boat about four lengths over a course that had been roughened by a fresh wind. Both crews were also bothered by the wash thrown by an incoming yacht which wandered onto the course after they had started. Yale's winning time was 10:42, Harvard's 10:59.

CALIFORNIA CREW TO RACE TONIGHT AT LINCOLN PARK

The national rowing champions, the University of California's varsity crew under Coach Ky Ebright, will present exhibition races at 7 o'clock this evening on the Lincoln Park Boat club's 1¼ mile course.

Fresh from its victory at the recent Poughkeepsie regatta, the senior eight oared crew, as well as the freshman and junior varsity crews, will be guests of the Lincoln Park Boat club at the foot of Webster avenue.

An hour before the California oarsmen, who are on their way to race at the World's Fair in San Diego, put their shells in the water, the L. P. B. C. will put on canoe races, tilting contests ,and water stunts.

The General Cigar Company selects and purchases the filler for Vintage White Owl with elaborate care. Only Vintage quality filler tobaccos are ever used, and you are able to identify these fine cigars by a Vintage mark.

No other cigar—at any price—gives you this assurance of quality.

Buy a Vintage White Owl today. Light it up. Notice its rich "bouquet"... its delightfully mellow flavor.

The story of America's only Vintage Cigar

▪ The first requirement for Vintage tobacco is pure seed. To get such seed, we grow a few acres of finest tobacco. As each bud forms, it is covered with a paper bag... preventing contamination by pollen from inferior tobacco.

▪ Our Crop Inspection System, the only known organization of its kind, keeps a check on growing conditions in the finest filler-tobacco districts in America. We know where Vintage tobacco is maturing and buy the best of it.

▪ Even in Vintage years, our buyers classify all filler tobaccos into seven grades. Only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades is ever used in a White Owl. That's what we mean when we say Grade A Vintage tobacco.

▪ If all the tobacco crops were ruined for the next two years—it wouldn't affect the quality of White Owls. We have enough Grade A Vintage filler tobacco mellowing in our warehouses to make nearly one billion White Owls.

GIANTS DEFEAT PIRATES, 6-2, TO INCREASE LEAD

Bill Terry, Joe Moore Hit Home Runs.

New York, June 20.—(AP)—With Manager Bill Terry and Joe Moore hitting homers to account for half of the runs, the New York Giants turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 6 to 2, to increase their lead to six and one half games.

Roy Parmelee, ranking National league hurler, was forced to give way to Al Smith in the fifth because of a strained back. Against the combined pitching of Parmelee and Smith, the Pirates had to be content with four hits, two of which came in the third inning when they scored their only runs.

holder and the fifth for the Sox. The two others were cornered by Haas. In this same inning Appling got into their select circle. He singled to center with one out, but the next two batters failed to offer him a chance for advancement.

Macks Meek for 6 Innings.

The going was so tough for the Athletics that during the first six innings they could not get a man beyond first base and not many that far. Foxx walked to start the second and was doubled on Higgins' grounder to Appling. Johnson singled with two gone in the fourth for the Macks' first hit. Warstler singled with two out in the fifth for their second hit. In the sixth Cramer walked after two were out and Johnson looked at a third strike. This covers the Athletics' offense up to this point.

Whitehead opened the seventh by fanning Foxx, after which Higgins broke through the barrier the Sox star had erected in front of second base. Higgins lined safely over Simmons' head and reached third on the hit. He remained there while Dykes was throwing out McNair, but scored the first Mack run on Warstler's single to center.

Whitehead started the ninth stylishly by fanning Foxx. He walked Higgins and also fanned McNair. Warstler drew a pass. Berry singled to left on the first pitch, Higgins scoring. Newsome went to first to run for Berry and a messenger was dispatched to the clubhouse to summon Marcum, who was wanted as a pinch hitter for Benton. Marcum ran out to the plate, was handed a bat and promptly singled to center on the first pitch, Warstler scoring the tying run and Newsome taking third. Bonura ended the inning with a diving one handed stop of a drive close to the bag off Moses' bat. Then the unhappy tenth.

SECOND GAME

The Sox had a chance to get the jump on Marcum in the second inning of the second battle, but subsided after filling the bases. Bonura singled with none out and Appling with one out. A pass to Dykes loaded the bases, whereupon Shea grounded into a double play.

Phelps didn't permit the A's to clutter up the bases in any way for the first three innings, but as soon as they made a hit it meant something. Cramer broke the spell of the ex-National leaguer in the fourth after one was gone. He picked out Phelps' first pitch and lined it into the first story in right field for his second homer of the year. Before the inning ended Foxx walked with two out and took third on a single by Higgins, but everything was properly adjusted when McNair fouled to Shea.

Bonura Gets Around.

A pass to Shea and single by Phelps put two on with one out in the fifth, but Radcliff popped out and Hayes fanned. However, the Sox did better in the sixth when they scored the tying run even though three hard line drives were caught. First of the drives was one by Haas which Cramer flagged. Bonura doubled to left. Moses leaped up to grab a whistling drive off Simmons' bat. Then Appling sneaked a single past Foxx and Bonura dashed home. Dykes' liner was captured by Johnson in deep left.

A double by Simmons with one out in the eleventh stirred up hopes, but only for a few minutes. Appling was considered dangerous and was purposely passed. Dykes then flied to center and Washington, batting for Shea, rolled to Foxx. When Higgins beat out a single after one was gone in the twelfth, Phelps admitted he was weary and Dykes excused him. Wyatt finished the inning and then the bats of Radcliff, Hayes, and Haas ended the game in the home half.

Vernon Kennedy, White Sox pitcher whose last two starts resulted in victories over the Tigers and Washington, will try his luck against the Athletics today in the final of the series. It will be his first start against his former mates. Connie Mack intends to employ Roy Mahaffey, who has a record of 4 wins against no defeats.

Glenn Wright, veteran National league infielder who was given his unconditional release by the Sox last week, now is a proud papa. The arrival, weighing 7½ pounds, has been named Glenn Jr. Papa Wright is still working out with the Sox in hopes of landing a job somewhere.

The White Sox office has had to employ extra help to handle the requests for refunds on tickets for last Sunday's double header, which was washed out by rain. A large percentage of the requests came from out of town fans who explained that they probably wouldn't be able to make the trip again this season.

DICKEY HURT AS YANKEES DEFEAT TIGERS AGAIN, 5-2

Detroit, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—The New York Yankees settled themselves more firmly in first place in the American league today when they defeated the Detroit Tigers for the third straight time, 5 to 2.

The victory was marked, however, by an injury to Bill Dickey, first string catcher. The veteran was hit on the back of the head by one of Joe Sullivan's fast balls in the first inning. He was carried from the field and later taken to a hospital, where an examination disclosed he had received nothing more serious than a severe shaking up and a slight concussion. He will be released from the hospital in the morning.

ERIN TORCH WINS ROUGH FEATURE AT WASHINGTON

Foul Claim for Kingsbury Not Allowed.

Erin Torch, one of the star 2 year olds from the Dixiana stable, won the Thornton purse, which had the high position on the racing program at Washington Park yesterday.

It was a rough affair. Kingsbury, which finished second, appeared to be the main sufferer. Jocky Tinker lodged a claim of foul but it was not allowed. Lemont, from the Nash Brothers' stable, finished third. Erin Torch's margin of victory was three lengths.

Erin Torch was the favorite at slightly less than even money and had little trouble getting the decision after he went to the front at the top of the stretch. Upholder, another Dixiana colorbearer, a son of Peter Hastings-Highly, had won the other 2 year old race which opened the program.

The Kimbark purse at a mile was another event on which the betting was heavy. It brought an upset when Bandalore, from the Rosedale stable, got up in the final furlong to beat the favorite, Banish Fear and Our Reigh, by a length and a half. Bandalore finished far out in the middle of the track, where the going was not quite as deep as it was nearer the rail. Bandalore paid $16.70 in the two dollar betting.

Sixteen horses owned by Charles B. Shaffer and his son Elmer Dale Shaffer of Chicago arrived yesterday morning at Arlington Park to await the opening of the thirty day meeting at that course July 1. The shipment came in charge of Trainer Alex B. Gordon and was accompanied by Jocky Paul Keester, who was the sensation of the apprentice ranks on the local circuit last season. Keester rode with much success at Belmont Park against the best riders of the country.

The horses owned by the elder Shaffer, which race under the banner of Coldstream stud, were headed by the fleet 2 year old Coldstream, winner of the Bashford Manor stakes at Churchill Downs and regarded as one of the best colts seen in the east this spring.

Time, :25, :41 4-5, 1:08 1-5, 1:14 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Upholder, $11.42 straight, $6.38 place, $2.86 show; Sandy Boy, $4.80 place, $2.68 show; Sir Jim James, $2.28 show. Winner trained by C. Van Dusen. Went to post at 2:15½. At post 1½ minutes. Start good. Won driving, place same.

UPHOLDER outbroke his field and was steadied along to stretch, where, despite repeated swerving, held the lead safe, but was under pressure the final eighth and had little left. SANDY BOY raced wide, held on with good courage in a fine effort. SIR JIM JAMES, also a strong factor from the start, suffered through winner's swerving in stretch and weakened in closing strides.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

ROMAN SOLDIER MAY HAVE 13 TO DEFEAT IN DERBY

Few Are Scared Away by Favorite's Prestige.

The workout sheets in the possession of the clockers are the best evidence that all the candidates are ready for the Derby test. Muddy track conditions of course have prevented any exceptional speed displays, still as far as the trainers of the various Derby starters are concerned they are satisfied with the work their charges have done.

The latest workouts of all the prospective starters follow:

Roman Soldier, June 20—heavy—¼ in :28 breezing.
Firethorn, June 20—heavy—1⅛ in 2:04 breezing.
Cold Shoulder, June 19—muddy—1⅛ in 2:01 3-5 handily.
Black Helen, June 19—muddy—1¼ in 2:16 3-5 breezing.
Bloodroot, June 19—muddy—1¼ in 2:21 1-5 breezing.
Tearout, June 15—fast—5th to Bloodroot, 1-70 in 1:41.
Whiskolo, June 15—fast—6th to Bloodroot, 1-70 in 1:41.
Our Reigh, June 17—muddy—2d to Chief Cherokee, 1 mile in 1:41 3-5.
Blackbirder, June 20—heavy—galloped 1½ miles.
Nellie Flag, June 18—muddy—1⅛ in 2:01 3-5 breezing.
Judy O'Grady, June 20—heavy—1⅛ in 2:04 3-5 breezing.
Whopper, June 20—heavy—1⅛ in 2:15 breezing.

There may be a few speed trials this morning but none of the starters will be asked to go far over the track which still will be heavy.

LOUIS ADMIRERS FORM CARAVAN TO ATTEND BOUT

150 Cars May Make Trip to New York.

Detroit, Mich., June 20.—(AP)—If the "good cars hold out" Joe Louis is going to receive a royal welcome from his home town fans next Tuesday night when he climbs through the ropes in New York for his battle with Primo Carnera.

Eddie Pitts, one of Joe's best friends and admirers, decided that something should be done about the number of "the boys" who wanted to see Joe in action. So Eddie announced today that a Joe Louis tin can caravan is forming.

150 Cars May Make Trip.

The caravan, Pitts believes, may number as many as 150 cars. At 10 passengers a car Pitts is convinced that Louis will feel right at home in the most important fight of his young and brilliant fistic career. It took Pitts some time to figure just how a caravan of 150 cars could be given a fair chance of getting from Detroit to New York, but he's finally hit on a plan.

"All the boys want to go to the fight and some of the cars aren't so hot," Pitts said. "We have decided to send out the oldest and weakest cars first, the better ones second, and then the last to go out will be the good cars—and we hope every one will get to New York."

The cars, which will carry booster stickers, will travel together, Pitts said, and the drivers have agreed that if one breaks down all the passengers have to do is wait until the next caravan unit comes along.

Joe will see many other Detroit fans in addition to those of his own race when he enters the New York ring. Several parties have been formed for the trip and an American Legion post has chartered a train expected to carry at least 300 to Manhattan.

LOUIS TAKES REST.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 20.—[Special.]—Having reached the peak of condition, Joe Lewis rested today in his training camp before putting on the finishing touches in preparation for his fight with Primo Carnera at the Yankee stadium Tuesday night. He plans to do some boxing during the next three days after which he will put away the gloves until time to enter the ring.

Walter Friedman, who brought Carnera to this country, was a visitor in the Louis camp today and spent considerable time with Louis and his trainer, Jack Blackburn, telling them how he thought Louis could beat Primo.

PRIMO ORDERED TO CITY.

Owasco Lake, N. Y., June 20.—[Special.]—A hitch in the training preparation of Primo Carnera, who is working out here to get in shape for his fifteen round bout with Joe Louis at the Yankee stadium on Tuesday night, arose today. The Italian ex-champion of the world received a telephone communication this morning, purporting to be from Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the state athletic commission, demanding that he be in New York City tomorrow.

The request is based on strong foundation, inasmuch as the commission has a rule to the effect that all fighters engaging in major bouts in New York City must be within 90 miles of the site of battle within five days. But Bill Duffy and Louis Soresi, co-managers of Carnera, are prepared to disregard the summons.

Fleet of 29 Makes Trip to Ottawa Today

Commodore O. E. Nadeau's cruiser Alice Dee will be at the head of the fleet of 29 motor yachts which leaves Chicago this morning at 8 a. m., bound for the Ottawa [Ill.] Boat club. The 87 mile trip will start from a point east of the Michigan avenue bridge. The yachts will travel over the same course taken by the Sea King, which was chartered by THE TRIBUNE two years ago to open the lakes-to-gulf waterway.

The fleet will proceed in single file down the waterway and is expected to arrive at Ottawa tonight at about 8 o'clock. The boats will return Sunday.

DINNER IS HELD IN HONOR OF JIMMY BRADDOCK

Mayor La Guardia, Col. John Reed KilPatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, Jack Dempsey, Herbert Bayard Swope, Police and Fire Commissioners Valentine and McElligott, Bernard Gimbel, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Judges R. V. Kinkead, James Barrett, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, Lester W. Patterson, Gene Tunney, Benny Leonard, and Tony Canzoneri were among the 500 who attended.

Williams, Flowers to Meet for Colored Lightweight Title

Holman Williams, Detroit, and Baby Tiger Flowers of the Pacific coast were matched yesterday to fight 15 rounds at White City ball park next Thursday night with the world colored lightweight championship at stake. Williams, stablemate of Clinton Bridges, won the crown when he defeated Wesley Farrell in 15 rounds at New Orleans, La., May 17.

Williams opened sparring drills yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium by going five rounds, three with George Dixon and two with Willie Ross. . . . Nestor Bruggman, Catholic Youth organization, has been matched to box Dom Lamanski at Milwaukee, Wis., Monday. . . . George Black will meet Tait Littman at ten rounds, and Billy Celebron is paired with Dick Demaray at eight rounds. . . . Adolph Wiater, Green Bay heavyweight, and Trainer Izzy Kline will head for Elmira, N. Y., today, where Wiater fights Art Sykes ten rounds Monday. . . . Patrick Henry is likely to substitute for Scotty McLean against George Engel in a supporting contest to the Kid Leonard-Gene Stanley ten round windup bout at Western stadium Tuesday.

A professional show will be held at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, and an amateur card is booked at Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard, tonight. Lenny Cohen, Golden Gloves graduate, and Jimmy Eliopoulos, his most persistent rival, will clash in the six round main event at Marigold at 120 pounds. Otis Thomas, 1934 Golden Gloves champion, who finished second to Lorenzo Pack in this year's tournament, will make his first pro start in a four round meeting with Adam Smith, Rockford, also a Golden Gloves alumnus. Preliminary matches:

Lou Vine vs. Harry Booker [6], 136.
Tiny Bittner vs. Emil Pappas [4], 175.
Spud Kelly vs. Frank Keevil [4], 140.

Tony Musto., Blue Island., Ill., will fight Paul Williams, Savoy Athletic club, in the heavyweight class, and John Brown, Portage Park, will oppose Otto Schwarek, Northwest gymnasium, at 175 pounds, in feature bouts set at five rounds each at Northwest stadium. Other matches include:

Honey Weaver and Charlie Richardson [3], 160.
Patrick Heneghan and George Melody [3], 140.
Henry Newman and Verne Daniels [3], 150.
Phil Cohen and Lou Shambo [3], 147.
Sam De Pasquale and Tony Sittapane [3], 130.

Milt Aron, Dubuque, Ia., 142 pound boxers, and Scotty McLean have been signed to battle six rounds in the semi-final to the ten round headline contest between John Stanton and Bus Breese at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Al Van Den Bosch and Syl Saleska will be opponents in a four round preliminary encounter. . . . Another at this distance will bring together Sam Julian and Sailor Born at 135 pounds. . . . The four principals in two of the wrestling matches at Mills stadium Monday weigh more than 200 pounds. . . . George Zaharias tips the beam at 235 and his opponent, Fred Grobmier, scales 208, while Chris Zaharias weighs 220 pounds, 15 more than Abe Coleman, with whom he will clash. . . . Max Marek sparred five rounds yesterday at C. Y. O. center with Bud Borelli and Sunny Jim Williams in preparation for his pro debut at White City June 27. . . .

Packey McFarland, member of the state athletic commission and chairman of the Catholic Youth organization boxing commission, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., to join the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, national director of the C. Y. O., there. Bishop Sheil and McFarland then plan to move to New York to complete arrangements for the series of intercity bouts between the Catholic Boys' club of Manhattan and the C. Y. O. champions at Wrigley field July 31.

Frank Hart, light heavyweight wrestler, will appear in a feature event at White City Monday. Zack Malkov and Al Williams will wrestle in a co-feature. Other wrestlers who will appear include Gerard Lauth, Rudy Kay, and George Jonasen. F. M.

Braddock's Best Rooters Are Wife, Dad

[This is the fifth and final article of a series on the career of Jimmy Braddock, new world's heavyweight champion.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—Five years ago Jimmy Braddock met and married May Fox, then a telephone operator in lower Manhattan. She is 26 years old now and recently made this comment upon her courtship by the ex-dock worker now the world's heavyweight champion:

"Jim is the shyest fellow in the world. It took him months to work up enough courage to ask me to marry him—in fact, I thought he'd never get around to it. But he's a grand person, my husband, and I wouldn't trade him for Clark Gable. He loves me with all the fervor of his big Irish heart and he is simply devoted to the children!"

Named After Jim Jeffries.

The champion's father, Joe Braddock, is a rugged, homespun old gentleman, who came here from Ireland on the same boat with Jake Kilrain and Charlie Mitchell more than forty years ago. He thinks his boy is good enough to whip Max Baer any day, but he doesn't think he rates with some of the illustrious heavyweights of the past. Jim, who is a carbon copy of his dad in appearance, speech, and mannerisms, was named after James J. Jeffries, an idol of the elder Braddock.

"Now, you take Jeffries, for instance," Pop Braddock remarked during a gabfest at his son's training camp one day recently. "Why, my boy, Jim, couldn't have whipped one side of the big fellow!

Asks No Favors.

"They don't have that kind of fighters these days. The lads are getting soft, I'm afraid. Why, Jeff and John L., and Kilrain and Mitchell would have no competition if they were around now."

The elder Braddock is convinced that his son beat Baer beyond any room for doubt. He was equally certain before the fight that Jimmy would be the victor. He took a night off from his duties as a pier watchman and sat at the ringside to cheer his boy. But this old school sportsman said shortly before the starting bell last Thursday night:

"If Jimmy doesn't beat Baer I hope they don't give him a 'home town decision.' Unless he licks Max fairly and squarely I don't want him to be a champion. No Braddock ever took anything that didn't belong to him and I don't want Jim to do so tonight!"

When Baer hauled off and belted Braddock after the bell ended the fourteenth Pop Braddock bit right through his cigar. He shook a clenched fist at the offender and roared angrily:

"The young spalpeen—if I could get to that ring I'd take a punch at him myself for that!"

GEORGE ZAHARIAS THROWS OLESON WITH BODY SLAM

George Zaharias, Pueblo, Colo., heavyweight wrestler, threw Olaf Oleson, Sweden, with a body slam in 18 minutes and nine seconds of the windup match of Promoter Sam Abruscato's show at Western stadium last night. Fred Grobmier and Roland Kirschmier drew in the 30 minute semi-final bout.

In premiliminary matches, Orville Brown pinned Paul Harper in 11 minutes and 30 seconds, and Tom Marvin and Bobby Bruns wrestled to a 30 minute draw.

ELMER DEAN TO PITCH AGAINST MILLS SUNDAY

Two members of the Dean baseball family will be the attractions at Mills stadium Sunday when the House of David team opposes the Mills in a double header.

Elmer Dean, brother of Dizzy and Paul Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals, will pitch for the bearded club, and Pa Dean, father of the three stars, will make a personal appearance.

made on the result. In the freshman race were five entrants, in the junior varsity four, while ten subscribers were in the pool. So Alan Gould, writing out the slips, determined to give every one a run for his money. Accordingly, one subscriber almost gasped when his little slip revealed Vassar as his entry in the race. In the junior varsity we drew Huey Long and that didn't get us anything, either.

We Could Hardly Believe It.

In the hat pool for the varsity race, however, the Wake was fortunate enough to draw California. A San Francisco newspaper writer drew Cornell. After the stewards finally announced their decision for the Golden Bears, we remarked consolingly: "Being from San Francisco, I suppose you're glad anyway that California got the decision." To which he replied: "The 'ell I am, I'd rather have the $15. If the stewards change their decision some time next week and give the race to Cornell, I'll expect you to remit me the difference between $15 and $5 second money." We promised.

A. A. U. Meet at N. U. Draws Big 10 Stars

Representatives of several Big Ten schools, including Illinois, Chicago, Wisconsin, and Northwestern, will compete tomorrow in the Central A. A. U. track and field meet to be held at Dyche stadium, Northwestern university, Evanston. Stars from clubs, parks, high schools, and other universities and colleges also will compete.

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's great colored sprinter, whose days of collegiate competition are over, is entered in both the 100 and 200 meter dashes. Bob Packard, Rockford, Ill., High school state champion sprinter, will be among his opponents in the 200 meter event. Harold Block of the University of Chicago; Reino Nori, De Kalb Teachers, and John Brooks, former Maroon, also are listed for the longer dash.

Siebert in 2 Events.

The 440 meter hurdles has attracted a field including Ollie Duggins, Northwestern; Ed Roden, Wisconsin, and Howard Gillette, North Central. Karl Hein, Little Nineteen champion from De Kalb, will run in the 400 meter dash. Lloyd Siebert, North Central, and Albert Haller, Wisconsin, will meet in the pole vault. Siebert also will compete in the running broad jump, as will Brooks and Nori. L. C. Buckmaster, Northwestern, is entered in the 800 and 1,500 meter runs.

John Beal, Maroon hurdler who defeated several Big Ten stars, including Sandbach of Purdue, during the indoor meets, is another Big Ten athlete who will race tomorrow. Beal will oppose Brooks, Gillette, and others in the 200 meter low hurdles.

21 Events Listed.

The meet, which includes twenty-one events, will start at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The list of events follows:

Pole vault, shot put, high jump, broad jump, discus, hammer throw, 56 pound weight, hop, step and jump, javelin, 5,000 meter run, 400 meter dash, 1,500 meter run, 100 meter dash, 110 meter hurdles, 3,000 meter walk, 800 meter run, 200 meter hurdles, 200 meter dash, 400 meter hurdles, and 800 meter relay for high schools. PARKER, GRANT WIN HANDILY IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Four Seeded Players Are Eliminated.

Four seeded players were eliminated as the national clay courts tennis tournament reached the fourth round yesterday at River Forest Tennis club. More than 100 matches were played as the original field of 128 was whittled down to 16.

First of the highly favored men to receive a jolt was last year's intercollegiate runner-up and national junior star, Gil Hunt, who was ousted by Ernie Sutter of Tulane university in the first round, 6-3, 6-4. Hunt was seeded eighth.

Hal Surface Beaten.

The ninth seeded player, Hal Surface, Kansas City, was put out in a third round defeat by Sin Kie Kho, Chinese Davis cup representative, 6-3, 6-4. Ben Day, Stanford university, upset the hard hitting Floridan, Charlie Harris, in another third round meeting, 6-4, 6-4.

George Ball of Northwestern university, who accounted for the elimination of the fifteenth seeded John Law, Stanford captain, was later trounced by the lone surviving Chicagoan, Thane Halstead. The winner found no difficulty with Ball's chops and triumphed, 6-4, 6-3.

Grant and Parker Win.

The defending champion, Bryan Grant of Atlanta, Ga., and his most dangerous rival, Frankie Parker, Milwaukee, winner of the title in 1933, reached the fourth round without difficulty. Other highly rated entries were pressed to three set matches. Among these were Johnny McDiarmid, in No. 6 spot; Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, seeded seventh; Wilbur Hess, a Texan, seeded eleventh.

In the doubles, one match was completed in which the Leland Stanford pair, Jack Lynch and John Law, swept aside the University of Chicago combination of Norman Bickel and Norbert Burgess, 6—3, 6—3.

SECOND ROUND.

J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., defeated Fred Whitman, Princeton, 6-3, 6-4.

WILBUR HESS IS SEEDED NO 1. IN COLLEGE TENNIS

Wilbur Hess of Rice institute was seeded No. 1 in the drawings last night for the national intercollegiate tennis tournament which will open at Northwestern university Monday. Hess was a semi-finalist last year. Ninety-two players from 37 colleges and universities have entered the tournament which will continue all next week on the Northwestern university courts.

W. M. Reese of Georgia Tech was seeded second. Ernest Sutter, Tulane sophomore, was seeded third. Other seeded stars are John Law of Stanford, Pacific coast intercollegiate champion; Paul Guibord, New England intercollegiate titleholder; Burt Weltens, University of Texas; William Schommer, Minnesota, Big Ten singles champion; Leonard Patterson of California Institute of Technology; Kendall Cram of Tulane, and Doc Barr of Southern Methodist.

CHARLEY WHITE LANDS IN JAIL ON ALIMONY CHARGE

Charley White, once contender for the lightweight boxing championship, was in jail in Milwaukee last night, awaiting removal to Chicago as the result of another quarrel with his estranged wife over the payment or nonpayment of alimony. White was arrested at the Plankinton hotel in Milwaukee at the request of Chicago police, after Judge Leon Edelman had issued a warant charging nonsupport.

COURT WEIGHS NEW DEBT PLAN OF ROSENBAUMS

Family Is Ready to Pay $352,000 in Cash.

The financial affairs of members of the Rosenbaum family were placed under public scrutiny yesterday when a hearing was held before Federal Judge William H. Holly on a new offer submitted to the court for a settlement of the family's indebtedness to the Rosenbaum Grain corporation. Judge Holly took the compromise offer under advisement and set a hearing on the company's reorganization plan for June 28.

Emanuel F. Rosenbaum, former president of the corporation, Edward S. Rosenbaum former vice president and their three sons, also officials of the firm, were examined by attorneys for the trustees and the creditors of the firm. The witnesses testified that their principal assets consist of life insurance policies on which they have borrowed up to the full loan value.

$352,000 Cash Payment.

The settlement plan provides an immediate payment to the corporation trustees of approximately $352,000 in cash to clear up debts owed to the firm by the family's personal enterprises The funds for the proposed cash payment were raised among the friends and relatives of the family. For the debts of the individual members of the family and other officers it is proposed that each debtor furnish his personal note to be paid over a period of 5 years. The waiving of the balance of the $959,000 owed the corporation is asked on the grounds that $328,000 was spent in promotion of the company's business. The new offer differs from the earlier plan submitted by the family in that $75,000 more is offered in immediate payment.

Has Less Than $100.

Emanuel F. Rosenbaum testified that he had cash of "less than $100" and that his personal effects, including his life insurance policies, amounted to the nominal figure of $325,000. He has depleted the cash value of the insurance policies, he said. Among his other assets he listed five shares of Mandel Brothers stock, 100 shares of Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, $200,000 Russian ruble bonds, an associate membership in the Tavern Club of Chicago, and his seat on the Chicago Board of Trade.

His one-third interest in the trust estate left by his father, the late Joseph Rosenbaum, is pledged to Leon and Frederick Mandel as security for a $25,000 note, he said. The estate, he said, consisted of a piece of property in New Rochelle, N. Y., of undetermined value and an extensive ivory collection that has proved to be unmarketable. He admitted that he owes the corporation $75,826 which represents "overdrafts" in his running account.

E. S. Rosenbaum listed his insurance policies at $471,000, on which he has borrowed to the limit. He said that a $17,000 loan obtained on his policies a few weeks prior to the failure of the company was applied to reducing his debt. Among his other assets he listed $100,000 of debentures of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments and $600 in cash.

Other officers who testified as to their financial position were E. F. Rosenbaum Jr., former assistant treasurer; E. S. Rosenbaum Jr., former assistant secretary; Joseph Rosenbaum, head of the Sitting Bull corporation, an affiliate; C. J. Batter, controler, and L. Nairn, treasurer. The notes offered by the young Rosenbaums will be guaranteed by their fathers.

Luther D. Swanstrom, attorney for the trustees of the company, and Murray Nelson, chairman of the creditors committee, indicated that they are prepared to accept the composition offer although they protested the classification of $328,000 as promotion expense. This amount was carried on the books as owing from Joseph Rosenbaum and the Sitting Bull corporation.

Object to Plan.

Earlier yesterday the creditors committee had filed objections to the reorganization program submitted to the court by Attorney Michael Gesas, representing the corporation. The principal objection voiced by the creditors was that the Rosenbaum family management would be perpetuated under the proposed plan. The creditors proposed an alternative plan calling for the sale of the company's elevator properties to outside interests either for cash or securities in a new concern.

KANSAS MARKETS FIRST CAR OF NEW WHEAT AT 85¼C

The first car of new wheat to reach market this year in Kansas was reported yesterday at Wichita. According to the usual custom the president of the chamber of commerce of Wichita auctioned the shipment, which brought a price of 85¼ cents a bushel, or 7 cents over the price of the July wheat future in the Kansas City market. For many years past the first car reaching Wichita has originated in Oklahoma, but this year's initial shipment was Kansas grain, according to reports reaching here.

The wheat was said to have a moisture content of 15 per cent, which is unusually high, and was graded as No. 1 dark, hard tough. The grain had a weight of 61.2 pounds per bushel and a protein content of 12.40 per cent. Last season when the southwest crop matured under drouth conditions the protein content of the wheat had a high average. Lower protein and higher moisture content is expected generally this year.

GRAIN PRICES RISE HALF CENT AFTER DECLINE

Wheat at Opening Sells at Low for Season.

Wheat and other grains closed at slightly higher prices in the Chicago market yesterday after a day of highly erratic fluctuations, during which the principal wheat future had sold at a new low quotation for the season.

The start of trading was marked by a sharp recession as the market felt the impact of selling inspired by the legislative developments in Washington. and the weakness in foreign prices.

At the height of the liquidation July wheat was quoted at 78¾ cents a bushel, the lowest price which had been posted for the future this season. December wheat also touched a new low figure.

Rally Starts at Noon.

Shortly before noon the market began to rally. News of rain in the southwest, where the harvest has been held up for several days by wet weather, was apparently the immediate incentive for the buying which represented to some extent the covering of short sales which had been made earlier in the day. The weather forecast had shown the prospect of showers over the southwest, but it was not until telegraphic messages telling of rain in some of the important sections now harvesting that the market began to pick up strength.

The recovery from the low prices of the day amounted to nearly 3 cents a bushel in July wheat which rallied to close at 80½ cents a bushel, a net gain for the day of ½ cent. The corn market was also weak in the early trading, but met good support and rallied to close about a half cent a bushel higher.

Changing Over of Commitments.

There is a gradual changing over of market commitments from the July into later futures. The open interest in both September wheat and corn is now larger than in the comparable July contracts. The open interest in the September delivery passed the July interest during the last week. This shifting of commitments has had an influence on the price trend. The upturn yesterday was greater in the distant future than in July contracts under which deliveries begin in another ten days.

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$0.81	$0.80¼	$0.79⅝
Corn	.76½	.75⅛	.73
Oats	.33¾	.32¼	.32
Rye	.47⅞	.47	.45⅞

The sharp reverse in price trend witnessed yesterday in wheat is characteristic of the market action when weather is of such paramount importance as it is at this particular season. The dangers of a wet wheat harvest have been stressed by some observers. What the actual damage may prove to be, however, is guesswork. Of important immediate significance is the fact that the harvest is being delayed and the new crop wheat is moving into market at a much slower rate than it did a year ago. This postpones the usual hedging pressure on the market and raises some uncertainty as to the actual total of the crop.

EXPERTS MARVEL AT GIN FLAVOR CONTROL PROCESS

How "C. C." Process Takes the Guess Out of Gin!

If you've ever had gin go fuzzy in a fizz, cut capers in a cocktail, or forget its obligations to Tom Collins, here's good news! After 300 years, there is a way to make gin flavors behave!

When Repeal came, Hiram Walker was ready—with the secret of flavor control in gin! Hiram Walker's "Controlled Condensation" is the only process in the world that assures absolutely smooth, uniform flavor from the numerous and tricky herbal ingredients of gin.

This unique "C. C." Process, in use since the opening of Hiram Walker's Peoria distillery, a year ago, distills the various flavoring ingredients into the grain spirits at different proofs. The flavor of the individual ingredients — not just the quantity — is scientifically regulated according to the exact requirements of the Hiram Walker formula.

Smooth! — from Still to Shaker to You!

The results are amazing! No flavor can come through too strong—no flavor can come through too weak. Everything is under control! Juniper berries, coriander seeds, sweet orange peel, and other elements used act in complete unison under Hiram Walker's "C. C." Process. Each contributes the exact difference and degree of flavor essential to a gin that is perfectly balanced, consistently smooth, invariably uniform . . . and remember: Hiram Walker's London Dry Gin is made exclusively from grain spirits.

Extra Satisfaction — But It Costs You No More

Get a bottle today and taste the difference. The revolutionary "C. C." Process, which has made Hiram Walker's London Dry Gin the most popular gin in America, gives you complete satisfaction at no extra cost.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Bond traders went to the sidelines today as they hesitated to interpret the effect of President Roosevelt's taxation program. On the New York stock exchange speculative issues were given a fairly vigorous shakeup, with prices breaking moderately.

Medium price rails regained most of their early losses and then held quietly at about the level of yesterday's closing. Lower price and more highly speculative issues were not so quick to join in the recovery.

Utilities Resist Selling.

Utility bonds showed general resistance to selling and prices held firmly, although buying had dropped off perceptibly.

Main exceptions to the downward trend were loans of Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, North American, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and United Drug, which advanced moderately.

Some parts of the United States government list turned a bit heavy following the news from Washington that the treasury would invite bids next Monday on about $100,000,000 3s of 1946-48. This issue sold off 9-32ds of a point to 103.16. Other federals were down 1-32 to 8-32.

New Haven Issues Slump.

The principal victim of the day was the New Haven issue of consoliated 4s of 1956. Two of these bonds changed hands for the first time this year in the listed market at a decline of 30 points to 22.

Among foreign obligations French 7½s advanced more than a point to 178½. Argentine 6s at 97 and Milan 6½s at 74½ advanced a point or so each.

Due to a turnover in the federal section of some $9,730,000, total transfers for the day stepped up to $20,194,000, par value, the largest total since March 6.

General Candy.

Investors' Guide: General Candy stock has been recommended to me. Can you furnish me anything on it?—C. W. G.

Answer: General Candy corporation, Chicago, manufactures several different candy lines, the most important of which are the "Oh Henry" and "Amos 'n' Andy" brands. Distribution is effected in the United States, Canada, and Hawaii.

On April 20, 1935, it was announced that sales during the first quarter of 1935 were somewhat higher than in the corresponding 1934 period, but that profits during the two quarters were about the same.

During 1934 the company earned $132,000, or $1.24 per class A share, the best profit since 1930, against $74,000, or 69 cents per class A share for 1933. Net income in 1932 was $103,000, against $52,000 for 1931 and $159,000 for 1930.

At the close of 1934 current assets were $856,000 and current liabilities were $117,000.

There are outstanding 106,925 shares of $5 par class A stock. This series is cumulative as to dividends of $2.50 a year, and shares in further dividends with the class B, share for share, after the class B pays $2.50 in any one year. The class B is owned by the management.

Dividends on the class A have been paid irregularly. Nothing has not been paid on it this year. Dividends in 1934 totaled 75 cents a share, against 50 cents a year in 1933, 1932, and 1931. Accumulations total $12.50 a share.

The class A is a speculation.

Super-Power Company of Illinois.

Answer: Super-Power Company of Illinois is an operating company controled by Commonwealth Edison company, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, Illinois Power and Light corporation, and Central Illinois Public Service company. The parent companies have contracted to take about 75 per cent of net capacity of the operating company.

As a result of this contractual arrangement gross revenues of the company have remained fairly stable. They were $6,100,000 in 1934, $5,940,000 in 1933, $6,142,000 in 1932 and $6,221,000 in 1931. Fixed charges were earned 1.88 times in 1934, 1.79 times in 1933, 2.16 times in 1932, and 2.68 times in 1931.

The $22,500,000 of first 4½s, due 1968 and 1979, and the 6s, due 1961, are secured by a first mortgage on all properties of the company, principally the Powerton, Ill., steam-electric generating plant.

The bonds are considered sound.

MUNICIPAL BOND MARKET BUSIEST IN MANY YEARS

Investors Rush to Buy Tax Exempt Issues.

A rush of buying orders for tax exempt municipal bonds, which came with such size and suddenness as to surprise dealers, brought one of the the most active days of business in this division of the investment field in a number of years. Specialists attributed the sudden buying surge to the desire of many investors to take refuge in tax exempt securties from the prospect of sharp increases in rates on very large incomes, as proposed by President Roosevelt in his tax message to congress.

All classes of tax exempt municipals moved forward in price. Underwriting houses began scanning anew the outlook for new offerings of this type of security. The buying movement was in direct contrast to the "waiting" attitude of investors which had been evidenced for the last several weeks.

According to dealers, large numbers of potential buyers had been holding back from the market, on the asumption that prices of tax exempts had reached ceiling. But yesterday this evidence of caution was said to have been swept aside. Some conditional orders of large amount, which had been placed on the market for execution in case prices should dip, were ordered changed into "buy at the market" orders.

MR. AUSTIN'S LITTLE BLACK BILL BUGS BRING BACK 'BEAUCOUP BUCKS'

Bloomington, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—One farmer has found it profitable to have bugs in his corn. Lyle Funk of Bloomington, just home from an extended business trip to Missouri, reports an interesting experience at Higginsville, Mo. While visiting on the J. H. Austin farm there he and Mr. Austin found a large number of little black bugs attacking the corn. But they weren't chinch bugs; they were bill bugs.

Farm Adviser J. H. Copeland in Higginsville happened to be at the Austin farm at the time and immediately offered to pay 10 cents for each of 100 bugs. The reason for the purchase is that the bill bug is a very valuable insect in Hawaii and its chief use is killing parasites that infest the sugar cane and destroy it.

Mr. Funk reports that Farmer Austin has already realized more than $150 from the sale of bill bugs to the Hawaiian sugar company. So there are some bugs that are almost worth their weight in gold.

FAIL TO REACH AGREEMENT ON MILWAUKEE PLAN

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad conferred today with insurance and savings bank officers on its reorganization plan, but failed to reach an agreement on whether the period in which part of the interest on its $106,395,000 of 5 per cent mortgage bonds is to become contingent should be five or ten years.

Institutional investors were represented by a committee headed by F. W. Walker, vice president of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company. The meeting will be continued tomorrow. H. A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee, said that a meeting of Milwaukee officials and all the 25 institutions holding its bonds would be held next week.

Because of its preoccupation with the Milwaukee problem Walker's committee was unable to meet officials of the Chicago & North Western railway, which has proposed a plan for a five year deferment of interest.

DENY REFUNDING PLANNED FOR 2 UTILITY FIRMS

Gossip in financial quarters that refinancing is imminent for Western United Gas and Electric company, controled by Western United corporation, and Illinois Northern Utilities company, controled by Commonwealth Edison company, met with partial denial yesterday from George A. Ranney, vice chairman of Edison.

"While we naturally have talked over possibilities of advantageous refunding operations," said Ranney, "no serious consideration has been given to these two cases." He said that consideration has not passed the "conversational stage."

The reports mentioned the possibility of refunding $24,300,000 5½ per cent first mortgage bonds of 1955 of Western United Gas and $9,704,000 of first and refunding mortgage 5s of 1957 of Illinois Northern Utilities.

BUSINESS GAINS, TAX PAYMENTS BOOST CLEARINGS

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—The general improvement in business with the corresponding rise in income tax payments to the federal and state governments brought an increase of 5.7 per cent in bank clearings for the week ended June 19 over last year, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., announced today.

The report, based upon returns from twenty-two leading cities in the United States, placed total clearances at $5,899,502,000, against $5,583,962,000 in the like 1934 week. In the preceding week this year the total was 3.9 per cent above a year ago.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw, was unchanged today with spots at 3.28c, while shipment sugars were quoted at 3.35c per lb. At the latter price sales were confirmed of 12,000 bags of Cubas for August shipment and 60,000 bags of Philippines for June-July and July-August shipment.

Sugar futures reacted under liquidation, which may have been promoted by continued uncertainty over developments in Washington, on the amendments to the AAA. Final prices were at the lowest and from 1 point lower to 2 points net higher. Sales were 13,150 tons in the No. 3 contract and 200 tons in the No. 1, although of the former 8,500 tons were in the way of exchanges, principally from July to later positions.

Raw sugar prices in cents per pound:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.

U. S. IS PERILED BY ECCLES BILL, WILLIS ASSERTS

Calls Banking Measure Charter of Disaster.

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Branding the Eccles banking bill as a "charter of disaster" and asserting that the economic structure of the country was on its way to certain destruction as the result of the threat to the banking system, Prof. H. Parker Willis, noted economist and financial adviser to various governments, discussed the proposed banking legislation now before congress at a meeting of the Young Republican club today.

The object of the present administration's banking policy is the close centralization of political power over the banking system of the country, declared Prof. Willis. Specifically, the objective is to invest the federal reserve board with the power "to dictate what reserves shall be held, what their composition should be, and where they shall be kept."

Says Worst Has Happened.

"We have been living recently in the constant fear of what is going to happen to our banking system," said Prof. Willis. "Almost everything bad that could happen has already happened. I am not making a political speech when I say that our backs are to the wall; that our economic structure is at present on the way to certain destruction, and that, as in olden days, the Huns and vandals are gathered outside the walls ready at a moment's notice to pounce and plunder."

Prof. Willis was vehement on the point of the proposed compulsion of the member banks in the federal reserve system to remain in the system. When the federal reserve act was framed it guaranteed the member banks the right of withdrawal whenever they desired, he pointed out, and characterized the movement toward compulsory centralization contained in the Eccles bill as "despotic."

The speaker urged the members of the Young Republican club to make the banking situation the primary issue of their campaigns.

Makes Five Recommendations.

Prof. Willis formulated five succinct proposals for safe governmental banking. They were the "absolute safeguarding of private banking under state charters; the establishment of a national system of banking that may serve as the intermediary between the people and the government; the maintenance of a central banking system free of political interference to regulate international banking and to serve the nation's banks; the establishment of a conservative, elastic, and liquid currency; and lastly the organization of a soundly managed treasury department."

The present "overloading" of the banks with government bonds will lead to "unbridled inflation" and at the present time the credit of the country is being "rapidly socialized," he concluded.

BOOTH FISHERIES REPORTS $11,947 PROFIT FOR YEAR

Booth Fisheries corporation, a $5,000,000 fish and seafood company, reported a profit of $11,947 for the year ended April 27, 1935, against profit of $20,564 for the 41 weeks to April 28, 1934, according to the annual report released yesterday.

During the year, according to R. P. Fletcher Jr., president, depreciation charges were increased and operating costs were higher. During the last four months of the fiscal year gross profit margin was unusually low, due to "unprecedentedly large production and low profits," Fletcher said.

Working capital during the year increased $74,040, although the company paid off $65,000 of long term indebtedness. Current assets on April 27, 1935, were $1,215,596 and current liabilities were $460,373.

TAKE NOTICE that the Supreme Court of Ontario will be moved in Weekly Court at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Canada, on Wednesday, the 26th day of June, 1935, at the hour of eleven o'clock in the forenoon (Daylight Saving Time) on behalf of Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited, for an order appointing The Trusts & Guarantee Company, Limited, of Toronto, as Trustee under the Indenture of Mortgage securing the said bonds in the place and stead of Central Republic Trust Company of Chicago, and vesting the lands and premises and other assets mortgaged to secure the said bonds in The Trusts & Guarantee Company, Limited, upon the trusts and for the uses and purposes and with the powers and authorities and upon the terms and conditions mentioned and set out in the said Indenture of Mortgage, and discharging the said Central Republic Trust Company from its trusts under the said Indenture of Mortgage, and for such further or other order as to the Court shall be deemed just and expedient.

BLAKE, LASH, ANGLIN & CASSELS,
2400 The Canadian Bank of Commerce Bldg., Toronto, Canada.
Solicitors for Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited.

NOTE: This application is being made because the present Trustee for the bondholders, Central Republic Trust Company, is in the hands of William L. O'Connell as Receiver duly appointed under the laws of the State of Illinois, at whose request the application is being made. A Canadian trust company is being proposed because the new Trustee must have power to hold lands in Canada.

Any inquiries should be addressed to William L. O'Connell, Receiver, Central Republic Trust Company, 135 South La Salle Street, Chicago, or to the above named solicitors for Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited.

FIELD TO SELL PRODUCTS FROM STORE ON RAILS

12 Car Train to Show Wholesale Goods.

A new adventure in selling is to be undertaken by Marshall Field & Co., which tomorrow will send out on the rails a 12 car train—a wholesale store on wheels—loaded with merchandise for display to merchants in the cities and towns of the Mississippi valley, according to an announcement made by John McKinlay, president.

JOHN McKINLAY.

The train was conditioned for this modern adaptation of the peddler's cart of olden days by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. It consists of a dynamo car to furnish light, a baggage car, two sleeping cars, a lounge car, a dining car, and six coaches. All cars are air conditioned.

Rebuild Equipment.

All the coaches, which are of recent Baltimore and Ohio equipment, have had their seats removed for replacement with the counters, showcases, and racks of a wholesale store. Carpets have been placed on the floor and there are draperies at those windows which are now hidden by displays. The dynamo, run by a Diesel engine, will provide power for an efficient lighting system, including flood lighting of the train at night.

"This train will include every department of our manufacturing, converting, and distributing organization," McKinlay said. "Entire lines of every department will be included in the merchandise. A crew of 25 salesmen and women will be aboard to show our merchandise to the buyers and owners of stores in every town visited.

Boost Chicago's Importance.

"By building this train and sending it out, we have taken into account the growing importance of Chicago as a merchandising center. More and more manufacturers are moving their sales offices to Chicago in such centers as the Furniture mart and the Merchandise mart to meet and sell to the growing army of retail store buyers who come into this city annually with billions of dollars of buying power.

"Our gesture of 'moving the mountain to Mohammed' will, we believe, give Chicago an even greater prominence and dominance in the field of merchandise distribution and manufacture. We have earned our title—the great central market—by making our city the most convenient marketing center in the country for the retail buyers and store owners of more than forty states.

"Our Merchandise Express, as the train will be called, marks a forward step in merchandising methods. Its effect in the cities visited will be much the same as though every store in the various communities had an opportunity to send the buyers of their departments, together with their merchandise managers and other officials, into market.

Saving to Customers Large.

"The saving in expense to these stores will be tremendous. We expect to gain new friends in these cities, not only for our company but for the Chicago market itself."

The public will not be admitted to the train at any of the cities visited. The train will be open for inspection at the Grand Central station today for merchants in Chicago and vicinity and tomorrow afternoon will be the scene of a dedication ceremony to which McKinlay has invited a number of civic and industrial leaders. Mrs. Grant S. Mears, wife of the assistant general manager of Marshall Field, will christen the train with a bottle of gulf water brought from New Orleans, the southernmost point to be visited.

Departure on its first selling trip will take place Saturday night, with Peoria the first stop. More than twenty cities in the Mississippi valley will be visited on the first selling expedition.

On Road Thirty Days.

The train will be on the road for more than thirty days, returning to Chicago on July 26. Daniel J. O'Grady, sales promotion manager of the company, will be in charge.

Included in the merchandise to be displayed on the train are men's wear, ladies' ready-to-wear, cosmetics, toys, household utilities, gifts, towels and linens, silk, wool, cotton, rayon woven and printed goods, luggage, yarns, notions, rugs, draperies, curtains, furniture, gloves, hosiery, and underwear and blankets.

Originally it was proposed to paint the train in bright colors, but a ruling of the interstate commerce commission prohibits this.

SMALL GERMAN FIRMS MUST PAY 3% TO EXPORT FUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 20.—German businessmen whose annual turnover is more than $8,000 received orders today to contribute a minimum of 3 per cent of their turnover to the export fund.

Big firms were asked directly by Minister of Economics Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, who wants the sum of $250,000,000 to "facilitate German exports."

Numerous smaller firms complained to authorities that they are unable to pay this new sales tax on top of the turnover, income, and numerous other taxes they are paying now. The big companies failed in their protest against the "contribution," consequently it is surmised the small ones will have no luck. Only public utility firms are treated leniently in efforts to keep the rates for gas and electricity stationary.

U. S. Gold Stock Rises to New All Time Peak

Seventy-three million dollars' worth of additional gold that came to the United States during the week ended Wednesday pushed this country's gold stocks to another all-time peak of nine billion 89 million dollars, according to the weekly federal reserve banks' report released last night by the federal reserve board. This figure compares with total gold reserves of 7 billion 835 million dollars a year ago.

Although the total store of gold increased only 73 millions, treasury gold certificates held by the twelve federal reserve banks rose 100 millions, indicating that the treasury had spent 27 millions of its "free gold" during the week.

Treasury Keeps Metal.

"Free" gold is gold which the treasury holds against which no money has been issued. As this "free gold" is used to cover treasury expenditures the metal still remains in the hands of the treasury, but gold certificates are printed against it as security and are issued to the federal reserve banks in exchange for federal reserve notes.

The 27 millions thus spent by the treasury may have been used to cover ordinary expenses of government or it may have been used in the treasury's manipulation of foreign exchange.

Reports of the condition of member banks of the reserve system in New York and Chicago, also issued yesterday, showed that commercial banks in both cities had made substantial increases in their holdings of United States government bonds, including bonds guaranteed by the government.

Banks Buy U. S. Bonds.

Chicago member banks bought 37 million dollars of additional "governments" and New York member banks added 70 millions to their holdings of such bonds. Holdings of other securities increased 10 millions in New York and 8 millions in Chicago.

Although the investment portfolios of the banks thus continued to expand their outstanding commercial loans again contracted, being down 2 millions in Chicago and 4 millions in New York for the week ended Wednesday.

Loans on security collateral also were down for the week, declining 11 millions in New York and 5 millions in Chicago. Brokers' loans in New York were off 8 millions.

In Chicago there was an indicated increase of 42 millions in gross deposits of member banks, probably reflecting corporate bond refunding operations. A drop of 14 millions was indicated for New York banks.

WARBURG QUITS BANK TO SAVE IT HIS SALARY

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—James P. Warburg today tendered his resignation as vice chairman of the board of directors of the Bank of Manhattan company, effective June 30. He will remain as a director of the bank.

Warburg, who has been vice chairman of the bank since Nov. 26, 1932, is the son of the late Paul M. Warburg, who was chairman of the bank. He and his family are among the largest stockholders of the institution. Within the last two years Mr. Warburg has become widely known, first as a financial advisor to the Roosevelt administration, and later as a severe critic of its monetary policies.

In presenting his resignation, Mr Warburg, according to a statement given out by the bank, said that, in his opinion, the bank would not in the future require his services as one of its chief executives and should be relieved from paying him a salary as such. This was so, he stated, partly because of changes which have taken place in the bank's own structure and partly because of the limitations which have been placed upon the banking business by reason of recent legislation.

The changes in the bank's structure to which he referred were thought in Wall street to relate to the elimination of its security affiliate, the International Manhattan Company, Inc., which Mr. Warburg had headed, and to the lessened importance of its foreign business, formerly conducted through the International Acceptance Bank, Inc., which was founded by Paul M. Warburg.

REPORT MERGER OF NEWSPRINT FIRMS SOUGHT

MONTREAL, Que., June 20.—[Special.]—Reports were current today that a strong combination of Canadians prominent in industry and finance is being approached to sponsor, accomplish and afterwards guide to success a consolidation of twenty existing newsprint companies into three or four regional corporations.

An effort is being made to find a business solution to the chief ills now afflicting Canada's leading manufacturing industry, leaders fearing otherwise government compulsion to the detriment of both producer and consumer.

Production of newsprint in Canada in 1934 was only five per cent under the 1929 peak, but returns were low, owing to the prevailing $40 a ton price, declared to be ruinously small. Consolidation has long been held up as the way to cure the newsprint industry troubles and avoid government intervention.

U. S. TO AUCTION 100 MILLIONS OF BONDS MONDAY

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—An offering Monday of $100,000,000 of United States 3 per cent bonds to mature 1946 to 1948, at a price to be determined by the highest bid, was announced today by the treasury.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau indicated that gross debt between now and July 1 will be increased by $150,000,000. Current borrowings are $25,000,000 a week to meet bill indebtedness.

Monday's auction will be the second time this method of sale will have been employed. Several weeks ago a similar offer was sold to the highest bidder at an interest rate of about 2.6 per cent.

UTILITY REPORT TO SEC WRITES OFF 153 MILLION

Standard Gas Shows Indicated Deficit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—"Adjustments" in the value of the Standard Gas and Electric company's security holdings which would convert the company's 124 million dollar surplus into a 29 million dollar deficit were indicated today when the company filed an amended application for registration under the securities act.

Apparently at the behest of the securities and exchange commission, the concern in its new application showed the "book value" as well as the "ledger value" of the securities which it owns in various of its affiliates. The amended statement also admitted that, if "book values" were substituted for "ledger values," the company's surplus would become a deficit.

Reveal Underwriters' Agreement.

In addition, the amended application made public for the first time the underwriters' agreement under which Standard Gas and Electric is seeking to exchange two note issues maturing Oct. 1, 1935, for new notes maturing Oct. 1, 1940.

H. M. Byllesby & Co., Chicago, an affiliate of Standard, will receive 25 per cent of the underwriters' fee, the agreement disclosed. Five other companies will share in the underwriters' compensation as follows:

First Boston corporation, 34.5 per cent; W. C. Langley & Co., 18.5 per cent; A. C. Allyn & Co., 14 per cent; Emmanuel & Co., 5.5 per cent, and Granberry, Stafford & Co., 2.5 per cent.

"Adjustment" in the value of Standard's security holdings in its affiliates, however, was the biggest difference between the amended and original registration applications. In the balance sheet of the amended application the company listed in parallel columns the "ledger value" and "book value" of these assets, whereas the original balance sheet had given only the "ledger value."

Sharp Revision Made.

The company in its original balance sheet showed that it owned stock in its affiliates valued by the company on a "ledger basis" at $254,492,395. The SEC evidently forced the company to show these securities in the revised statement to a "book value" of $139,455,368, a total adjustment of $115,037,026.

The result of this writeoff and certain other less important adjustments in assets would be to convert the $123,823,063 surplus which the company showed on its first registration form into a deficit of $29,461,222. In addition, the SEC evidently required the company to include a brief tabulation of actual "market values" of some affiliate securities, showing them to be even lower than the "book value."

The company explained, however, that it did not contemplate making such an adjustment in surplus, merely setting forth in parallel columns on its balance sheet the original "ledger values" and the "book values" required by the SEC, thus giving a comparative picture.

Six Companies Concerned.

The "adjustments" which the SEC apparently required were in the company's holdings of securities in the California-Oregon Power company, Louisville Gas and Electric company, Oklahoma Gas and Electric company, Philadelphia company, Southern Colorado Power company, and the Wisconsin Public Service corporation.

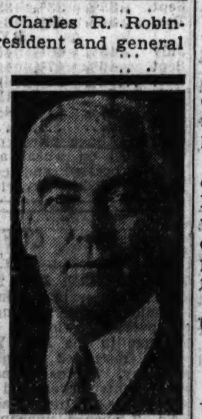
The underwriting agreement provides that the underwriters are to be paid in compensation for their assistance in the preparation of the note exchange plan and for their service in endeavoring to obtain deposits of notes, an amount equal to 2½ per cent of the principal amount of all notes deposited under the extension and deposit agreement whether any such notes are owned or deposited by any of the underwriters, or by others, and irrespective of whether the plan becomes effective or not.

The underwriters are also to be paid, in addition to such compensation, $100,000 to reimburse them for expenses incurred or to be incurred by them.

The notes which Standard Gas is seeking to exchange for new notes maturing in 1940 are a $14,823,000 issue of 6 per cent gold notes and a $9,826,500 issue of 6 per cent convertible gold notes, both due Oct. 1, 1935.

INLAND STEEL NAMES CHARLES R. ROBINSON FIRST VICE PRESIDENT

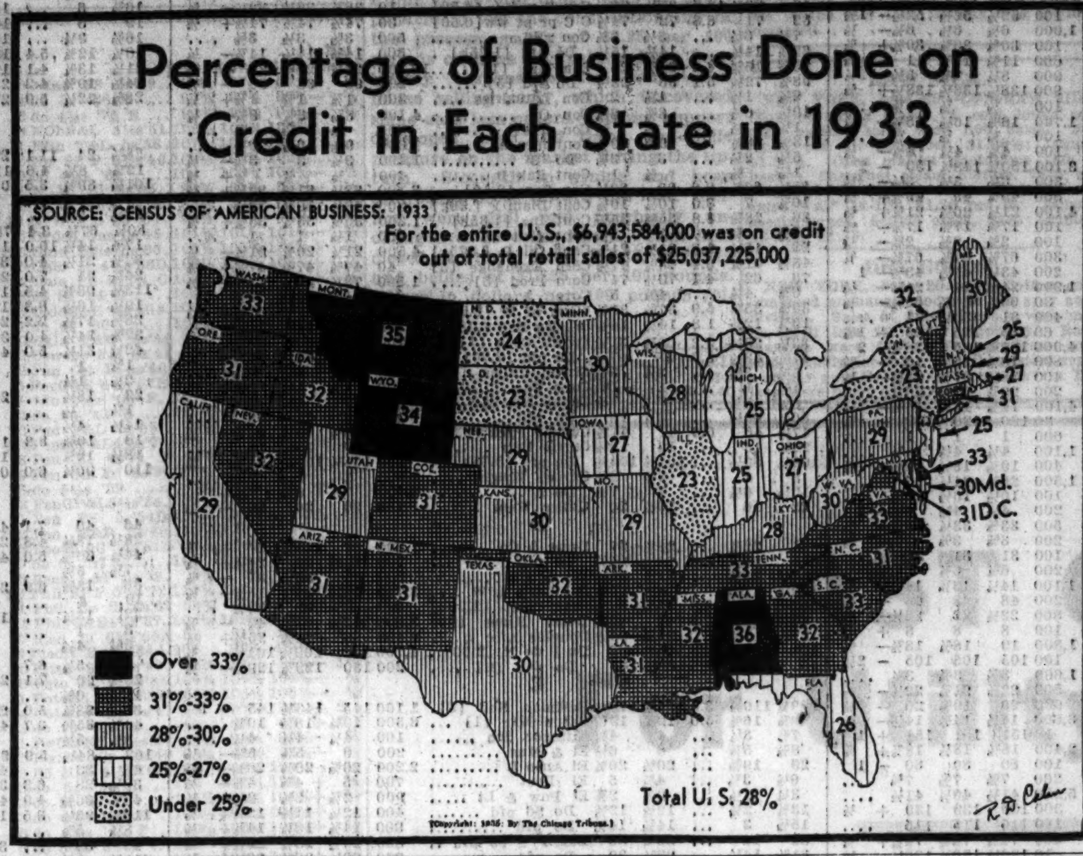
Appointment of Charles R. Robinson as first vice president and general sales manager of the Inland Steel company was announced yesterday. Robinson succeeds Edward M. Adams, who died on May 8.



C. R. ROBINSON.

Robinson joined Inland Steel in 1904 as a salesman, reaching the post of assistant general manager of sales, when he left to become district sales manager for Lackawanna Steel company in 1908. He resumed his connection with Inland in January, 1922, as vice president in charge of railroad sales.

In addition to his other posts he is president of Inland Tar company, an Inland Steel subsidiary, and a director.



Franc Rallies as France Cuts Discount Rate

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Francs rose against the dollar and pound today, following a reduction by the Bank of France of its rediscount rate from 6 to 5 per cent and announcement of the first return of gold, the loss of which caused a drastic boost in the rate to safeguard the franc. However, efforts to curb speculation continued, with the indictment of two officials of Tumin & Co., a small private bank closed May 30. They were charged with attacking government credit and with fraud.

The rate of loans on securities was also reduced today from 6½ to 6 per cent and the rate on 30 day loans was cut from 6 to 5 per cent. The bank's statement for the week ended June 13 shows an increase of 28,000,000 francs, or $1,846,456 in gold reserve, compared with a total loss of 11,910,000,000 francs, or $786,060,000, during the preceding ten weeks, when the weekly flow out of the country amounted to as much as 4,816,852,693 francs in the week ended May 30.

Gold Coverage Higher.

Other changes in the bank's statement included an increase in the gold coverage to 74.27 per cent from 73.64 in the preceding week.

Although the franc has been above the gold import point for some time gold continues to reach here in large amounts from Paris. These arrivals, it is apparent, consist of the gold bought abroad by the United States stabilization fund in assisting the Bank of France to support the franc. Gold bought by the fund during the period when ordinary gold movements had been stopped through the exhaustion of shipping facilities may run to close to $100,000,000.

The rise in the franc here amounted to ⅝ point to 6.61½ cents after closing in Paris at 6.616 cents, compared with 6.6075 cents yesterday, and in London at 74.62 francs to the pound, compared with 74.75 yesterday.

Dollar Value Lower.

With the franc advancing, the value of the dollar dropped to $1.0027 against francs, compared with $1.0037 yesterday. In terms of the old parity of the franc the dollar was worth 59.23 cents, compared with 59.28 cents yesterday.

Pound sterling was unchanged here at $4.93½ for the second consecutive day. Swiss francs gained 3 points to close at 32.72 cents and Dutch guilders improved 4 points to 68.05 cents. Italian lire rose 1½ points to 8.26 cents.

The price of bar gold in London was 2 pence higher at 141 shillings 1½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.81. The steamship Lafayette arrived here today with $9,000,000 in gold from Havre for the federal reserve bank.

Switzerland Continues Drive.

BERNE, Switzerland, June 20.—(AP)—Finance Minister Meyer said today the Swiss franc had successfully weathered attacks of speculators on gold bloc currencies, but that the government will continue its fight against speculation. The prosecution of speculators is contemplated, the finance minister told the national council.

POSTPONE PUBLIC HEARINGS ON NEW BUILDING CODE

Public hearings on the new building code, set for an initial session yesterday at the city hall, were postponed by Ald. James J. McDermott, chairman of the subcommittee, until copies can be supplied various labor unions, building material men, architects, contractors and others. At yesterday's meeting McDermott discovered that there were only twenty-two copies of the revised code available.

It was estimated that it will take at least three weeks for study of the new code by the various interests who demanded copies, so McDermott postponed the hearing indefinitly.

F. J. Thielbar, chairman of the code committee, at the suggestion of Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe, announced that he would prepare a summary of differences between the new code and the present one, and submit it when the first public hearing is called.

Government Sells HOLC 1½ Pct. Bonds Privately

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—Within the past week the United States treasury has sold privately about $80,000,000 of Home Owners' Loan corporation 1½ per cent four year bonds, to complete the refunding operation announced last May. The bonds have been sold through the Federal Reserve bank of New York, to dealers in government securities and banks.

LIQUIDATING VALUE OF SEATS ON CHICAGO CURB PUT AT $921

Members of the Chicago Curb exchange who wish to give up their seats may receive at once $700 as the major portion of their proportionate share of the curb's assets, T. E. Murchison, president of the body, said in a letter addressed to members last night.

An auditor's report submitted by Gilby, Penny, Hall & Co. places the liquidating value of each seat at $921, the letter points out, and the $221 balance will be placed in a special fund to care for any expenses not now known. Most of this is expected to be paid to the withdrawing members before long, it was said, since no large expenses are expected. The $700 will be available to each of the 115 members expected to withdraw.

Approximately eighty members are expected to carry on, following the securities and exchange commission's approval Wednesday of the curb's application for registration as a national exchange. Because of slack business, many members favored dissolution, but the compromise plan was adopted.

COURT REFUSES TO LET ESTATES BUY U. S. BONDS

Sees Inflation Near; Wants Higher Rate.

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—Probate Judge Benjamin S. De Boice of Sangamon county today refused authority to the First State Trust and Savings bank, as conservator in seven estates, to invest the estate funds in United States government securities.

The court in a thousand word opinion held that "during this period of business uncertainty and lowering prices the investing public has turned to government obligations as a cyclone cellar in which to place investments."

Says Hold for Realty Mortgages.

"This rush for investment in government obligations," Judge De Boice held, "has produced an ever lowering rate of return until the present net return on such obligations is around 2 per cent."

The court recommended instead that the bank hold the funds until such time as investments could be made in real estate mortgages. "At the present time the prevailing interest rate upon real estate mortgages is between 5 per cent and 6 per cent, and, although as yet real estate is not moving upon the market fast enough to satisfy the demand for this kind of investment, yet we feel safe in predicting that the day is not far distant when such investment will be plentiful," Judge De Boice's opinion said.

Predicting that "we are upon the eve of a period of inflation," Judge De Boice held that the trend of prices upon most tangible goods was upward and that real estate prices showed a definite gain. "Today bank reserves are the largest in history and every bank and insurance company in the country is full to overflowing with cash, awaiting the opportunity for investment."

Points to National Debt.

"In view of the fact that the national debt is today almost 29 billion dollars, the highest point in our history, we may safely say that there is a greater saturation of investments in government bonds among our people than ever before. Just as soon as the rank and file of our people become convinced that we are on the eve of a period of inflation there will be a wild rush to convert the low interest bearing investment in government obligations into higher interest bearing industrials and tangible property, and we will witness a repetition of the experience of the early '20s, when government bonds sank below 85 under similar conditions.

"This court does not consider that an investment in government obligations at this time, when they yield only about 2 per cent return, is a judicious investment for a conservator to make of its ward's funds."

U. S. Internal Revenue Tax Bill Up 24%

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—By recording a 6 per cent gain in May, internal revenue collections reached a total of $2,871,529,852 during eleven months of the current financial year. This represented an upturn of 24 per cent over the comparable eleven months of 1934 when $2,309,996,545 was received.

In making the announcement, the treasury disclosed figures showing that miscellaneous internal revenue, the greatest income producing group, had the lowest percentage gain for the year. Agricultural adjustment taxes showed the biggest jump.

Miscellaneous Revenues Rise.

Miscellaneous internal revenue produced $1,528,916,043 through May 31, 1935, a gain of 14 per cent, while agricultural adjustment taxes returned $495,272,096, which was 50 per cent in excess of last year. Income tax revenues totaled $847,341,712, an increase of 34 per cent.

Liquor taxes gained $8,000,000 during May, totaling $37,122,334. The year's receipts to date of $370,640,175 were $145,654,548 higher than last year.

Gain Seen in Excise Tax.

Manufacturers' excise taxes, comprising most of the so-called nuisance taxes" whose continuance now is pending on Capitol hill, have returned $305,570,796 during the first eleven months of the fiscal year which ends June 30. Next year they are forecast to yield $500,000,000 in 12 months.

The treasury accounting showed 11,708,756,460 cigarets had been withdrawn from warehouses during May, as indicated by the stamp sales.

The capital stock tax and tax on similar interest sales or transfers, has shown a heavy slump during the year thus far, amounting to only $13,887,569 or $22,529,721 less than last year's figure.

Repay Commerce Trust Depositors 5% More

Checks were mailed yesterday for another 5 per cent repayment to depositors of the closed Commerce Trust and Savings bank, raising total returns to date to 72 per cent.

Tax Program Jolts Stocks; Prices Decline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 20.—[Special.]—The stock market lost no time today in demonstrating its antipathy to the billion dollar tax program of the Roosevelt administration. Many issues were hammered down fractions to 3 points. Heavy blocks changed hands in the first few minutes of trading, but after that the market showed an inclination to become steady, without displaying any rallying power of consequence. It was evident that the speculative fraternity was adopting a careful policy, holding to the side lines to await more definite indications of a later trend.

What caused most of the gloom in the financial community was the realization that the President had once again shown himself to be inconsistent and unpredictable. Just when business was beginning to believe he had taken a common sense view of the real needs of a world and a country working toward economic recovery, brokers complained he had revealed himself as full as ever of ideas looking toward changes in the economic condition of the country.

Holding Companies Jeopardized.

From a business standpoint, the most upsetting part of the "soak the rich" tax program is that for a graduated corporation tax and the suggestion that dividends received by the holding companies should be soaked more heavily than directly earned taxes.

Issues hardest hit in the day's trading were the blue chip investment issues. American Can dropped 2 points, Eastman Kodak lost a point, Ingersoll Rand took a loss of more than 3 points, and Hazel Atlas Glass lost 2 points. American Safety Razor, McKeesport Tin, Owens Glass and J. C. Penney were other issues to lose a point or more.

Considering the successive blows struck at confidence by the Washington administration and the latest threat to corporate earnings and to large individual investment, contained in the President's message to congress, the share market was fairly steady in tone. Losses were felt in all sections and by nearly all stocks at one time or another but the trading volume was not particularly heavy. Total transactions amounted to 994,020 shares.

Utility List Strongest.

Utility issues were about the most steady group in the list. Losses in the majority of power and light shares were confined to fractions with here and there an issue showing a slight gain. American Telephone was down 2 points at one time but recovered to close only fractionally lower.

Atchison managed to gain a major fraction in the carrier section but most others were soft. Union Pacific was 1¼ points to the bad when the closing gong rang and Norfolk and Western was not much better. Most of the others gave up fractions.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol lost over a point. National Distillers and Schenley sagged fractionally.

United States Steel and Bethlehem were fractionally lower. Westinghouse gave up half a point, General Electric finished a fraction under its previous closing. Allied Chemical was an especially weak spot, dropping 2 points, with du Pont and Mosanto also being forced down.

Standard Oil of New Jersey and Pure Oil preferred sustained 1 point losses. Vulcan Detinning chalked up the biggest loss, declining over 6 points.

Homestake Mining to Pay Employes Bonus of $50

Lead, S. D., June 20.—(AP)—A bonus of $50 will be paid to Homestake Mining company employés July 2, 1935, B. C. Yates, general manager of the company, announced today. "The company at present has about 2,200 employés," said Yates, "and the forthcoming bonus hence represents a distribution of about $110,000."

WEST. ELECTRIC TO PAY OFF ALL BONDS IN CASH

Call $35,000,000 Issue Due in 1944.

Directors of the Western Electric company voted yesterday to redeem on Oct. 1 the entire funded debt of $35,000,000. It was announced after the meeting in New York that the company has sufficient funds available to retire the obligation, and that no new financing will be involved.

As a result of this decision the company will not complete its application for permission to register its bonds on the New York Stock exchange. Notice of the redemption is to be publishtd in due course, as required.

Bonds Not Redeemable in Part.

The funded debt consists of 5 per cent gold debenture bonds due April 1, 1944, callable in their entirety at 105, on 60 days' notice, on any interest date subsequent to April 1, 1934. The bonds are not redeemable in part.

On Dec. 31 last the company balance sheet showed current assets of $104,561,500 including $3,412,145 in cash and $25,655,208 in marketable securities. Current liabilities were $10,464,123, leaving working capital of $94,097,377.

Western Electric company has 6,000,000 shares of no par capital stock outstanding, of which more than 99 per cent is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Established in 1869.

First established in 1869, Western Electric has been closely connected with A. T. & T. since 1882, and is engaged in the manufacture of telephones, cables, switch boards, and other telephone equipment for the Bell system.

The company has shown deficits for the last three years, the net loss in 1934 being cut sharply to $7,751,543 from $13,772,504 in 1933. The operating loss for those years was $6,673,764 and $12,394,279 on respective sales volumes of $91,807,396 and $69,510,882.

Retirement of the $35,000,000 funded debt would remove an annual interest charge of $1,750,000. Figuring in the $5 premium paid for redemption now the saving over the unexpired term of the debentures is estimated unofficially at approximately $13,000,000.

CUDAHY PACKING VOTES REGULAR DIVIDEND OF 62½c

Directors of the Cudahy Packing company yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share on the common stock, payable July 15 to stock of record July 5.

United Verde Extension Mining company authorized a dividend of $1 a share in partial distribution of assets. The dividend will be paid Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 3.

Iowa Southern Utilities declared dividends of $1.75 a share on the 7 per cent preferred, $1.62½ a share on the 6½ per cent preferred and $1.50 a share on the 6 per cent preferred, all on arrears and payable July 1. These distributions will leave past due dividends of $21 a share on the 7 per cent, $19.50 a share on the 6½ per cent and $18 a share on the 6 per cent, according to Fitch.

Second International Securities declared a dividend of 62½ cents a share on the 6 per cent preferred, payable on accumulations July 1. Following this disbursement arrears will total $5.37½ a share.

THE possibility of increased inheritance and gift taxes is now evident. The future of your personal estate should now be discussed with your attorney and your trust officer.

FIGHT ON UTILITY BILL REACHES FLOOR OF HOUSE

I. C. C. Approves Elimination of 'Death Sentence.'

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—Sharp differences between President Roosevelt and Capitol hill over the regulation or abolition of utility holding companies today were projected to the house floor by interstate commerce committee approval of a subcommittee's recommendations against an outright "death sentence."

Pushing hard to have the utility bill ready for house action early next week, the committee worked all day over the troublesome measure, which has been before it since last Feb. 4.

Before it quit, all the controversial holding company sections save two minor points had been approved. These were expected to be rounded up tomorrow, and by Saturday the entire measure, including interstate power movement regulation and amendments to the water power act, was scheduled for reporting to the house.

Dissolution Made Permissive.

Mr. Roosevelt only yesterday reiterated his wish that provisions of the senate bill—calling for abolition of holding companies by 1942—be enacted. But almost simultaneously the house committee was receiving the subcommittee substitute making the dissolution of holding companies permissive instead of mandatory with the Securities and Exchange commission.

Administration leaders planned a fight to put the abolition language back when the bill reaches the floor. But a survey was reported to have shown a margin of house votes against the "death sentence."

The committee has yet to decide finally the taxing procedure in the bill. The substitute provides for subjecting 15 per cent of holding company dividends to corporate income levies. This provision was assailed today by Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the public utility executives, who said in a statement:

Assails Discriminatory Tax.

"It is not reasonable regulation to impose a special duplicate tax on dividends received by the utility holding company—a tax intended solely to force utility holding companies out of existence—particularly when the tax is not imposed on holding companies in any other industry in the country."

During the day Representative Maverick [Dem., Tex.], in an open letter to Representative Farley [Dem., Ind.], denounced the house substitute bill, but said the holding company "problem should not be taken too seriously."

The Texan accused the subcommittee of having made "a radical departure from the vigorous and forthright policy announced by the President" and of tossing "a crum" to him. He termed it "sheer and cowardly abdication by congress of its legislative function" to tell the commission "to decide for itself with reference to any particular company whether congressional policy is wise or unwise."

COTTON UP 3 TO 13 POINTS ON RUMORS OF U. S. LOANS

A growing belief that the government will announce a 12-cent per pound level for the 1935 cotton crop gave a firm undertone to that commodity yesterday after an early dip, and the close was about the top, with net gains of 7 to 13 points in Chicago. Other markets were 3 to 9 points higher.

Spot cotton closed 5 points higher, with New Orleans 11.95 cents, Galveston and Houston 11.80 cents, and New York 11.90 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

LIVE STOCK BOARD EXTENDS DRIVE TO PROMOTE MEATS

Continue Education Plan for Another Year.

The National Live Stock and Meat board voted yesterday to continue for another twelve months the educational and research program in meats and their use which was begun last year. Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of Wilson & Co., presiding at a two day annual executive session at the Palmer house, characterized the work of the body as the most constructive effort ever undertaken by the industry.

Activities of the board cover all phases of the meat industry, its 20 members representing cattle, hog, and sheep feeders, producers, packers, commission men and retail dealers. Special emphasis is laid on the fact that the board is doing work for the benefit of all groups in the industry, entirely independent of the department of agriculture or any government agency.

Decade Brings Greater Knowledge.

"More has been learned about meat cookery in the last decade than in all previous history," said R. C. Pollock, general manager of the board, in reviewing the program in the field of meat research, education, and advertising.

The live stock and meat industry, called the backbone of agriculture by Wilson, was said by Pollock to be responsible for 23 cents of every farm dollar in the United States in 1934. A total of 85 million head of animals moved to market to provide the largest meat supply of any year in the nation's history—nearly 20 billion pounds, according to Pollock.

He spoke of the increasingly important part played by the west in live stock production as centers of population have moved in that direction. Where New York led all states in beef cattle in 1850, with Ohio first in sheep and Tennessee in hogs, Texas is the leader today in both cattle and sheep production while Iowa is the No. 1 hog state.

West Produces for East.

Pollock also said that 60 per cent of the country's pork, 73 per cent of its beef, and 84 per cent of its lamb is produced west of the Mississippi now, while 70 to 75 per cent of the meat supply is consumed east of the river.

"On Jan. 1 there were approximately 118 million head of cattle, hogs, and sheep on our 6 million farms," said Pollock. "These animals utilize 400 million acres of pasture lands and consume each year 70 per cent of all our grain and forage crops. The meat produced in 1934, if transported at one time, would require a solid train of refrigerator cars 5,000 miles long."

The housewife, he added, is the country's greatest meat buyer, spending approximately $4,000,000 daily, and "modern research has given her invaluable knowledge in selection and preparation of meat."

RISE IN CATTLE PRICES ERASED IN DULL TRADING

Practically all the advance that was scored in cattle prices on Wednesday's exceptionally light receipts was rubbed out in an extremely sluggish session yesterday in the live stock market. Packers balked at the rise in their live costs in midweek, when beef sank to new low price levels for this season, and started out yesterday to cut cattle prices down to Monday's basis.

Most pressure was directed against the better grades of steers selling above the $10 line, which in many instances were pounded down 25 to 40 cents during the day. Others ruled weak to 25 cents lower, plain kinds showing the least weakness.

The best steers available averaged 1,225 to 1,289 pounds and topped the list at $12.25, the lowest Thursday top since the middle of January. Most steers cashed within a range of $9.00 to $11.25, the top price for yearling steers halting at $11.35 and for small lots of yearling hefers at $10.25.

Hog prices reacted after a fully 10 cents' higher opening and closed barely steady with the average of Wednesday. Selected 201 to 220 pound averages topped the list at $12.05, processing tax included, a gain of 10 cents and the average for the day at $11.50 showed a gain of 5 cents despite the later weakness.

Stronger prices were paid for lambs yesterday. Selected new crop natives sold to packers up to $8.50, with culls and buck lambs sorted out. Most of the new crop brought $8.00 to $8.50.

Reports from the wholesale meat markets in all parts of the country were mostly bearish again yesterday. Consumer demand continues light despite the sharp reduction in prices of meats the last few weeks.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are for 100 pounds of live animal:

LARD GAINS 5 TO 10 CENTS AFTER MAKING EARLY DROP

Lard futures made a weak start and a strong finish yesterday, the close being at net gains of 5 to 10 cents. Filing of several other suits by small packers to test the constitutionality of the processing tax of $2.25 per 100 pounds on hogs was said to have been largely responsible for commission house selling early, which uncovered some stop loss orders. Strong support developed later and there was little pressure on the market during the upturn. Strength in grains and hogs had some effect toward the last. Bellies were dull and nominally unchanged to 15 cents lower. Cash lard closed at $13.60; loose, $13.87; leaf, $14 and bellies at $17.25 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

Note—Above prices include processing tax of $2.47 per 100 lbs on lard and $2.62 per 100 lbs on bellies processed since March, 1934. This tax is rebated on products exported, but varies according to the amount due to the fact that the tax was gradually increased.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP)—RAW SILK—Futures closed steady, 1 cent lower to ½ cent higher; sales were 500 bales. July, $1.32 per lb; December, $1.30½; January, $1.30½. Open market quotations [60 day basis]: Shanghai steam filature, 78% seriplane, 20-22s, $1.30 per lb. Canton, double extra "A," 14-16s, $1.20 per lb. Japanese special crack, double extra, 81% seriplane, 13-15s, $1.38.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 20.—(AP)—Cotton goods remained unchanged today in the gray goods division. Sales of finished goods were made in small lots for early shipment. Rayon markets were firm. Worsted dress goods sold steadily for fall. Silk throwsters report a steady gain in business from weavers. Burlaps were quiet and firm.

NOVEMBER BUTTER AT NEW LOW FOR THE FOURTH DAY

For the fourth straight day November butter sold at a new low for the season on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the price dropping ¼ cent from Wednesday's finish, with the close at 24¼ cents per pound. Continued heavy production and a liberal into storage movement were the depressing influences.

The American association weekly report showed the output of butter to be 10 per cent above the corresponding period of last year. Cool weather has restricted consumption of ice cream, and the demand for cream from the latter interest has consequently been slow.

October eggs were off ¼ cent early, but part of the loss was regained later when the into store report showed about the same number of cases placed into cold storage as last year. The close was ⅛ cent lower at 25⅛ cents per dozen. Sales of butter aggregated 77 cars and eggs 79 cars. Prices follow:

LAST CHANCE For Utility Investors

NOW is your last chance to help prevent a grievous injustice to millions of American citizens. Now is your last chance to protest against the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill, which if passed by the House of Representatives, will destroy your or your neighbor's investments. The bill, with its drastic provisions to abolish holding companies, was forced through the Senate in spite of strong opposition.

AMERICANS DO NOT WANT THIS BILL

Senator Neely of West Virginia said he had received 23,000 messages from his constituents. On the basis of a tabulation of the letters he had actually read (a large number), only 69 wanted the bill passed; 22,931 desired that it be defeated.

A poll of the nation's press taken by Newsdom shows that 494 papers are against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, and 197 for it. A recent count by The United States News shows 83% of the newspapers commenting opposed to the bill. What is more representative of the public than the public press?

Not one representative of utility customers or investors urged that the bill be passed, in hearings before the Senate and House committees. On the other hand, investors' organizations, business groups of all kinds, State public utilities commissioners, insurance companies and savings banks, and thousands of persons like yourself have protested against it. Even the President's own business advisory group, the Roper Council, opposed the destruction of holding companies.

BILL FORCED THROUGH SENATE

Yes, the Senate has voted to wipe out utility holding companies. But an amendment which would have done away with the "death sentence" provision was beaten by the margin of only one vote—45 to 44—and only as the result of most desperate efforts by Administration forces. Says The Wall Street Journal in a report on the voting:

Emil Hurja, patronage distributor for Postmaster General Farley, was seen dashing here and there around the Senate just before the vote was taken. It is an open secret that the Administration's control over $4,880,000,000 was the deciding factor when the final vote was taken on the amendment.

So the money which you pay in taxes to help recovery was used to force Senators to destroy your savings. Do not let this happen when the bill comes up for a vote in the House. Urge your Representatives not to let patronage lead them into forgetting your interests by voting for the Wheeler-Rayburn bill merely because the Administration demands the bill be passed.

One reason why the Administration is so insistent upon having this bill passed, when there is a vast majority of popular sentiment against it, may be found in the statement of Senator Dieterich, himself a Democrat: "This bill, instead of regulating and correcting the evils that exist in holding companies, is an effort to bring about public control of all the utilities in the United States." Government ownership and operation of electric and gas companies means more political bureaus, more political jobs,—and more taxes."

URGE YOUR CONGRESSMAN TO HEED YOUR WISHES

You have every right to make your wishes heard. And if your wishes are disregarded you have every right to elect new Congressmen who will represent you more faithfully.

Now is your last chance to help defeat this bill which will wipe out practically all utility holding companies and the savings of millions of utility investors. If you have no utility investments, act for your neighbor who has.

Isn't it worth the price of a telegram or the effort of a letter to let your Representatives in Congress know that you want them to vote against this wanton destruction of the property of good American citizens? Act now. It is your last chance.

78-Year-Old Woman Writes Her Representative

DEAR SIR:

As your office calls upon you to represent the people and act for their rights, I as a citizen of your district ask you to vote against House Bill No. 5423, as I am opposed to this legislation that puts public utilities under Federal commissions and management by government.

I am 78 years old, and have a small investment in the utilities which brought me my income upon which to live. I don't want old age pension. I only want what I have honestly earned and I expect honest returns from the use of money invested.

If the government taxes and probes utilities all the time, how can they pay their interest? What is the reason for such drastic legislation? I protest and hope you will act against such bills.

Yours respectfully,

Mrs. ——————

2 LIFE CONCERNS TOLD TO BOOST GUARANTY FUNDS

Ernest Palmer, director of insurance, ordered two small mutual benefit life associations to increase their guarantee funds to the minimum required by law, ordered another to revise its insurance policies and gave a fourth a clean bill of health, according to the reports of examination released yesterday.

The Edwards County Mutual Relief association, Albion, Ill., and the Citizens Mutual Relief Association of Clay County, Louisville, Ill., were notified that their guarantee funds were below minimum.

Wabash Valley Mutual Benefit association, Lawrenceville, Ill., was ordered to revise its certificates so that the 90 day period of graduated benefits does not apply to members who have been in good standing for a year or more.

The director of insurance issued no orders to Jonesboro Mutual Relief association, Anna, Ill., a $3,663 association with 1,214 members as of April 30, 1935.

STATE INSURANCE CODE FAILS IN SENATE TEST

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—(AP)—The Palmer recodification of Illinois insurance laws failed to get the necessary majority when it was called up for a final senate vote this afternoon. Consideration was postponed, keeping the bill alive, when the roll call stood at 20 to 18, with 26 votes needed.

There were no speeches against the code, sponsored by Director Ernest Palmer of the department of insurance, but several senators sat silent and refused to vote.

Another effort, possibly next week, is expected to be made to pass the code. Senators Karraker, Monroe and Williams, Democrats, spoke for the bill, holding that the increased state regulation would benefit policyholders.

Bankers Life & Casualty Suit Continued to June 25

Y-O-U-R O-W-N B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S.

Would you be interested in starting in business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men were previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in net profit as much as $50 for a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constant, increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements—you must be under 50, preferably married, honest, reliable, present a neat appearance and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side of Chicago, northern Indiana and northeastern Illinois.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and if selected will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer, as we even pay rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, clerk, and carry your merchandise, and finance your accounts.

Apply Friday only between 9 and 11 a. m. Ask for Mr. Lovell, Suite 404, Maryland Building, 63d-st. and Maryland-av.

A NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTE needs 4 men for Indiana territory; must be over 25, own car and have sales and sales management exp.; college training an asset. Must furnish good character references. $21 outright salary plus bonus 1st week in territory. $24 outright salary plus bonus 2d week. Quota requirements reasonable. Do not apply unless you can qualify. This ad means exactly what it says. See Mr. Lasher, 350 E. 58th-st., between 2-4:30 p. m.

MEN—AT ONCE: 25-45, WITH TACT AND good appearance; old estab. electrical unit; sales organization; must have sales experience required for this position; excellent immediate comm.-bonus earnings; good territory, comm.; references. Apply 11 a. m. or 3 p. m. Monday. NO OTHER TIME. Room 1042 Mather Tower, 75 E. Wacker-dr.

Moler Privately Trained Beauty Culture Students

DO NOT

Work on each other for practice, nor depend upon uncertain public.

They do not waste a minute or make a false move.

They are not herded in droves with hit or miss instructions.

They do not elbow in crowded lines or press to be served.

BUT DO

Have a Private teacher—individual booths, and live models to work upon.

They earn twice the cost of learning in time saved, living expense and in every way thereafter.

This profession by joining the Beauty Culture department of the Barbers union comes under the Industrial Recovery Act that guarantees prices and wages.

Sidestep the old job complex by seeing MOLER at once. Open every day and evenings.

"Have a Lovely Position" . . .

Says DeLEE Graduate.

"Am writing to tell you what a lovely position I have," says Helen Wagner. . . . "Thanks so much for the wonderful position. I enjoy the work and the shop is so nice," says Adele Humbert. . . . "Am getting along wonderfully well in my position," writes Lucille Belan.
